The announcement that in apportioning the offices Mr. Cleveland has determined not to recognize newspaper men. will prove a sore disappointment to our Democratic brethren of the press. As the President owas more to the press of his party than to any other source, this determination of his, if it be true, smacks somewhat of ingratitude. The wealthy editor of the "great" dailies may quietly acquiesce in this slap in the face, but the hard working, influential editors of the rural press will feel the slight, and naturally, though perhaps covertly, resent it. Much, very much, of our new President's reputation and strength is due to the constant, systematic support and puffery of his party press. Without it he would to day be an obscure citizen in the walks of private life.

Tux whirligig of politics has never brought before the public a more singular and anamolous case than that of Hilary A. Herbert, just made Secretary of the Navy by President Cleveland.

Mr. Herbert was a Confederate soldier during the late war, and a law on the by Mr. Harrison before the expiration of Statute books prohibits the appointment his term there might be ground for removing of any person "who has served in any the Republican incumbent before the expira "capacity in the military, naval or civil tion of his term. Another question asked service of the so-called Confederate of Mr. Cleveland by one of his Congress "States, or of either of the States in in-"surrection, to any position in the army "of the United States."
