LOST MY BOY.

Lost! I have lost him.

Lightly I clasped.

Out of my dwelling.

Even as I hold him

When did he go?

He would depart,

Lost! I have jost him;

School home and college

Last he was seen-

Curl tangled hair-

Lost! I have lost him,

Chester, my boy-

Picture book, story book.

Why should I care so much?

Mothers! tell why.

Yes, he has gone from me,

Calls himself mine,

Face like the father face,

Step full of manly grace,

Yes, but the gold of life

Has one alloy-

Eyes black as mine,

Why does the mother-heart

Long for her boy ?

Long for the mischievious

Ignorant, questioning,

Held in my lap, Freshman, so tall and wise,

Answer me this

Handsome and strong of limb,

Knows things that I know not,

Leaving no sign.

But there's another

Brilliant is he.

Marble and toy,

Useless they lie.

Would I knew where,

Lips full of whistling,

Close tomy heart !
