box keep up a constant clatter. The shell of each seed is perfectly airlearn that inside thistease is a live worm in some respects similar to the silk worm. The great strength of this little creature and the mechanical means it employs for moving and jumping with its shell are wonderful. The seeds are nearly of a triangular shape, two of their surfaces being plain and the other convex. The worms generally measure 11 millimeters long and three wide. Their heads are a little reddish, the same as their 16 feet, which are well developed. If you cut a little opening with a knife in the shell you can see the worm inside at work, and with threads of silk it forms a resisting membrane which covers the hole immediately. After the shell is again rendered air-tight the worm recovers its usual leaping propensities. Two kinds of movements are observable; one consists of an intermittent progression,

To the patrons: The above report shows an excellent attendance. We appreciate the co-operation of the parents and hope to have the same interest during the remainder of the term. The per cent of attendance was higher during this month than for the same month of any previous year. A literary society has been organized in the principal's room. It holds its meetings every Friday afternoon. Parents, directors and all interested in the progress of the school are contially invited to attend
