had passed to watch him selling an old countryman the "Daily Describer" what he had asked for the "Planet" what did you do that for?

Joe was no saint. In fact he was as dirty mischievous and look-out-for-number-one a youngster as you could find anywhere in the streets of Boston.

Joe was an omnivorous reader. No other word half-expresses it, for everything in the shape of printed matter that came before him...

Then he started for home, without a pang of conscience, poor little Lizzie, passing the "Describer" office on the way.

Did it ever occur to you? That the girl who tells you all those dreadful things about a third girl is likely to say the same evil things about you?

Did it ever occur to you? That the man who makes love to you the first time he meets you knows not the meaning of the word "sincerity"?

"Now look here," said one of the men, "we don't want to hurt you, but we must have it—we are going to, too, and you might as well give it up peacefully."
