the Great Nations. What the Effect of a European War Would Be Upon This Country-A Strain That Cannot Be Long Sustained.

Harold Frederic, one of the shrewdest American observers across the seas, notes the estimate that there are one under arms in Europe than there were last Christmas, and remarks: "It is now the universal expectation that when the Christmas of 1894 comes around it will find an altered map. This strain is too heavy. Something must give way somewhere during the coming year." Predictions of a great impending European war have been made confidently from time to time during the last decade, says the Boston Traveller, yet they have not been fulfilled, and many will turn an incredulous ear to half that in actual cash. Mr. Frederic, saying: "The outlook has been as forbidding more than once to swell their armaments to their prespeace has been preserved. KILLED HIMSELF FOR A LIVING.

A Parisian Swindler Who Took a Novel Monus of Raising the Wind. Gillet, a professional mendicant of Paris, has the peculiar merit of being the organizer of a trick for raising funds which was unknown and undreamed of in the philosophy of the ablest representatives of the old Cour des Miracles, says a writer in the London Telegraph. He pretended to hang himself from a tree seven times during the summer, and on each occasion he was cut down from his gibbet by Good Samaritans, who invariably sent round the hat for him on the spot, In some instances the rescuers may have been Gillet's confederates, but ac cording to what can be gathered he usually preferred to work alone. Having selected a fine day for his operations, Gillet dressed himself carefully and went to the woods of Boulogne or Vincennes. He next made choice of a tree near where young children were playing, and having put a noose round his neck strung himself up. Then he private is a shilling a day, or 24 cents, he groaned and attracted the children, really does not receive much more than who ran in alarm to their mothers or nurses, until in a moment there was a crowd around him. Men summoned to the spot, and sometimes the women who were called, extricated the artful mendicant from his apparently periltheir wounds because they would not ous position. He was extended on the grass, his hands were rubbed, cordials were pressed to his lips and smelling bottles put under his nose. When he revived the first question put to him was naturally: Why did he do it? Pointing to a pocket of his cont he would say: "Here is a letter which pily easy to return an answer. There are a number of curious things about cents as they come to the sub-treasury. In the first place, they are quite extensively counterfeited. This may seem strange, as the profit in a counterfeit cent is necessarily small. It is true, however, nev ertheless, and is supposed to be the work of Italians, who, more largely than any other nationality, seem to favor the imitation of our minor and subsidiary coin. The Brooklyn and New Jersey ferry companies, the ele-vated railroads of both New York and Brooklyn and the various slot-machine companies are regular customers for the exchange of cents for other money at the sub-treasury. At times the turn in enormous quantities, the slot ompanies alone ranging between one hundred dollars a day. As might be expected, all sorts of oddities in the way of coin come in with the quantity taken in the machines. In addition to the counterfeits are scores of "not one cents" of war times, metal dises and foreign copper, Austrian money predominating. As the copper ts condition is, it is redeemed at par f it can in any way be identified as uited States money. The popularity of the slot machine a year or so ago brought about a curious condition of affairs in the country. This was nothing short of a "cent famine." The headquarters of the company is in New York, and all agents sent their cents here for redemption, which drained the country of its supply and overstocked the minor coin vaults of
