His Par's Inheritance. An armed sentry was pacing up and down before the party opened door of a small log cabin in a far Western villa.

Could Not Talk a Little Bit. The toughest experience I ever had in my life, said a soldier of fortune in Troy.

Preparing for a Hurricane. Speaking of hurricanes at the island of St. Thomas, ex-Captain Horn said: "We had one that scared me a good deal more than I hurt me."

A Genuine Imported Dog. A bow-legged man towing a manny dog by a rusty chain, wandered up Commercial street the other day.

Ho Whipped The Boy. The youth of Morocco are anything but respectful in their demeanor toward strangers and are taught by their parents to revile Christians at every opportunity.

A Careful Buyer. "You've got your books here?" she asked as she entered a Detroit book store and timidly glanced around.

Four Bits and No Kiss. The following account of a ceremony which was performed in Tucker county, West Virginia, is worth relating.

A Fitting Reply. The fact that Patterson, N. J., has suffered with special intensity from the Democratic hard times gives a grim point to the recent experience of a principal of one of the public schools there.

He was on the beach—I was afraid you were going to see me, then, you pored your lips up at me.
