Troute is nothing so amusing now-adays as the cavortings of the Democratic journals over the speech of Senator Hill, of New York, denouncing the infamous income tax proposed to be enacted in the revenue tariff bill now before the Senate, and incidentally hitting the entire bill under the belt. With one accord they denounce the Senator as a traitor to his party, and ascribe all kinds of motives for his action, particularly that of personal hostility to the President. Only the fact that the great State of New York is at his back in this matter prevents the tongue is coaled, breath sour, sick headthem from demanding his immediate aches usually but not always occur, and crecifixion.
