EVANGELICAL CHURCH DISEUPTION. The Supreme Court Sustains the Bowman

Esherite Faction. At Pittsburg, Wednesday, Justice Williams rendered an opinion reversing the Berks county court and granting Rev. Augustus Kreeker and others an injunction against Rev. Jones H. Shirey and others. The case was a dispute for church property, growing out of the celebrated split in the Evangelical Association, at the time that Bishops Dubs, Esher and Bowman were suspended from their offices. The court reviews the case and finds that the last conference at Indianapolis was the legitimate ruling power of the church, and that the Eastern Pennsylvania Conference was an illegally constituted and rebellious body. The property in question is the Immanuel Church at Reading. The court rules on seven points regarding the trouble as follows: First, that the General Conference of 891 was the regular successor of that of 887; second, that the alleged General Conference that met in Philadelphia in 1891 was an unauthorized body and its assumption of ecclesiastical authority was an act of rebellion ; third, that those conferences, congregations and church mempers that adhere to the General Conference constitute the Evangelical Association : fourth, that those who adhere to the Philadelphia Conference are an independent and hostile association; fifth, the property which prior to 1891 belonged to the Evangelical Association, now belongs to that body; sixth, the assignment of the immanuel Church, having been made by a provisional body, gave him no title capable of enforcement, but his subsequent ratification by the General Conference gave him title under the law of the church and therefore, under the law of the land ; seventh, the assignment of the defendant, Shirey, to the same pastorate by an illegally organized conference of East Pennsylvania, has no title capable of enforcement under the law of the land against the Evangelical Association or its adherents, The decree of the lower court is reversed and an injunction is ordered to restrain the defendants from exercising control over Immanuel Church and from excluding the plaintiff from the pulpit of the church. The costs are also placed upon the defendants. This decision it is claimed settles the ownership of 210 churches in Pennsylva-

THE CHURCH IS DIVIDED. A dispatch from Reading says: The split in the Evangelical Church, instead of being wiped out by the Supreme Court decision, is growing wider and will surely result in the final and permanent separation of that denomination. The Bowmanite-Esher faction, which hos won control of all the church property in the State, is decidedly in the ity in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Bishops Sanford, of Harrisburg, and Haman, of Reading, and the presiding elders and a number of clergymen representing the Dubs element of the Evangelical Church, held a long conference here to-day with their attorneys. Later a business meeting was held in Salem Evangelical Church. It was decided to hold a conference of the minority in this city on
