A Stomach-Pump Turns a Joke.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 13.-Albert Knole, aged 36, being without anything particular to do this morning, concluded to have some fun with his wife. He told her he had taken some paris green and would soon be dead. Before he had a chance to explain the good feature of the joke the wife rushed out and informed a policeman. The latter hastily summoned an ambulance, and Surgeon Guilfoyle, of St. Catharine's Hospital, responded. Knole attempted to explain the joke. But the doctor, with the assistance of the policeman, threw him to the floor and used the stomach pump on him for
