THURSDAY, Feb. 27, 1895.

There are still 28 officers on the active list of the army who saw service in the late war.

A young widow of a neighboring town had been accustomed to using blondine. So she ordered her grocer to send her a box of the same. When it came her husband died.

Senator Murphy and General Sickles have each had a house of burning more than any other two who tramp under the flag of the united lobbies.

Mrs. Jos. Davis, of Hollandale, Miss., recently searched an old trunk in search of gold while using sour an old sawmill. It is said that the money was buried there during the war.

The man who scoffed at the ground-hog will now be held responsible for the actions of the weather. Old and reliable signals like that of G. h. are not to be trifled with with impunity.

Some of the ranches in the West contain millions of acres of land and are inhabited with fences that extend for miles. Even an express train four hours and forty minutes to pass through one pasture in Texas.

A bill has been passed by the House at Harrisburg authorizing the chief official of the State Penitentiary or county jail to parole any prisoner which he has reason to believe is intended to be delivered to the discipline of the institution.

The average prices of living commodities reached the lowest rates ever known, but still many poor people find it hard to get along because they cannot get dollars necessary to get these cheap articles. So it seems times are not the same as they implies are the cheapest.

Governor Henry G. Davis has offered the people of West Virginia $50,000 toward the establishment of an industrial school for girls. He also offered to give the ground necessary for the site. It is said that the gift will be accepted by the institution located at Elkins.

A Hungarian village recently a man tried to shoot his tenth wife for neglect. He explained that the other nine wives had all consented to be shot when he asked them, but this one had managed him by refusing to listen to the injudicious advice of her friends.

Readers of the HERALD should not forget that J. N. Snyder, the druggist, can suit their eyes with glasses.

On Monday April 1st, ministers of the gospel will be required to pay full fare when they travel, just like the average man. In order to that effect having recently been issued by the various railroad companies. Heretofore preachers have received clerical orders, by which they were entitled to tickets at reduced rate.

A new section was created at Ligonier this week by the arrest of Samuel Good, who is charged by his father-in-law, Thomas J. Hufty, with placing poison in the latter's butter. Hufty would be wealthy and Clifford is married to his only daughter. They have been on good terms for some time. Old enough to have entered ball.

Tuesday evening's Tribune says: The Somerset & Cambria passenger train got stuck in the immense snowdrift at Sand Patch last Friday, arrived in Johnstown Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. It was drawn by four engines, and looked as if it had come from the Arctic regions, the engines and coaches being covered with snow and ice."

Grand King's great cannon magazine of 1,000 pounds at Willet's Point is saying that it will sustain five cannon balls weighing 225 pounds each; and the scientific American says that an eagle placed against the breast of a gun standing three or four feet off, with back to the gun, stood out straight.

A comical incident happened at the reopening of Pennsylvania State Dairy-men's Institute, Crawford County. A. Fitz, editor of the Messenger, who is known to the readers of certain opposition newspaper letter, procured a one and a half pound package of Chicago butterine, and entered it for competition under the name of "Farmer Friend." The jury of experts gave it 94 points, not distinguishable difference between it and the real article. The one pound package took the first prize, and the five pound package the second prize.

It is the part of the duty of constables, by the law, to advertise the approach of election, which comes off the third Tuesday of this month. The law requires them to put up not less than ten notices at least ten days before the election. Where there is a justice of the peace in a township a notice of that fact should be posted up not less than twenty days before the day of election. In districts where there is no constable it becomes the duty of the supervisors or the assessor to post up notices, though they need not be posted up for ten days' notice.

Several methods taken by Judge Mercur to reform or to transform Mercer county deserves to be watched with interest and noted during the steps of their progress. Not only has he put the saloons under good behavior and placed the ban on the poker joint and the raffle, but the Democratic county man who gets drunk and disorderly and is in that condition is liable to arrest. The Judge has instructed constables to arrest a drunken man on sight. Some attorneys hold that an intoxicated individual going along the street minding his own business is violating the law, but Judge Miller takes a broader view.

An important decision was last week rendered by Judge McPherson in the case of the objections to the nomination of Alderman Brackenrige who is the name "Independent Republican." He says there is nothing in the ballot law that prevents the use of any party appellation in a district which elects the Crawford county system of voting. It only applies where candidates are nominated by delegates in convention and the decision affects the whole State. Brackenridge was defeated for renomination by the Republican primary election, but ran on the Crawford county system and filed nomination papers as the candidate of the "Independent Republican party."—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Henry Geshen, a wealthy farmer of Somerset county, died suddenly at the residence of his son Levi, in Altoona, a short time ago, leaving a large amount of cash in the Bellwood Bank. In due course, Levi was duly appointed Administrator, but Bellwood county men going on his bond. All moved along smoothly until a few days previous to that on which Governor Hastings' inauguration occurred when Levi left, ostensibly to attend that event, instead of going to Harrisburg, he went to Mifflin, where he drew all the money out of the bank, since which time he and friends have failed to see or hear anything of him. The story came to light through his wife who says she is satisfied he has appropriated the money and deserted herself and children.

At least fifty Somerset families will exchange residences between the first of March and April 1st.

The last quarterly conference meeting of the United Evangelical church at Husband will be held on Sabbath, March 10th, instead of on Feb. 10th, as stated last week.

Last week W. H. Koontz made application to the Department of Internal Affairs at Harrisburg for a patent for the heirs of the late Jesse Slick for 104 acres of land in Shade township.

Rev. W. Houpt will preach on next Sabbath at 10:30 a. m., at Lichty Church, and at 2:30 p. m., at Pleasant Hill. The gospel meeting at the Evangelical Church at this place will continue this week and over Sabbath.

A number of the young people of this place are making arrangements to produce a comic opera for the benefit of the local Childrens' Aid Society. The entertainment will be given in the Opera House at an early date.

Mrs. Caroline Beck, sister of the late John Witt, of this place, died on Monday, at her home in Fairhope township, aged 74 years, after an illness of many years duration. She was well known in Somerset. Five children survive her.

Harry S. Methune of Confluence has removed to Allegheny City. He will rebuild his Confluence home, recently destroyed by fire, and take up his residence there next summer or fall. He has contracted for a new house of nineteen rooms.

The price of the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette has been reduced to one cent per copy. The Commercial-Gazette has ever been the leading Republican journal in Western Pennsylvania and this new move on the part of its publishers will make it more popular than ever.

The election held by the Democrats of Bedford on Saturday to select a postmaster from the eight candidates, resulted in a majority for George A. Rush. S. S. Metzger, one of the candidates, who is backed by John M. Reynolds, refused to allow his name on the ticket. Only about half the vote was polled.

"Mart" Hartzell, of Rockwood, who deals in almost everything marketable from leather and bark to genseng and wool, some time ago purchased fifty barrels of sauerkraut from a Bedford county manufacturer, which he has since disposed of to lovers of that savory article of food in Pittsburg and Connellsville.

Mrs. Israel Smithly, whose home is near Davidsville in Conemaugh township, submitted to an operation for the removal of an ovarian tumor, with which she had been afflicted for 12 years and which finally threatened to end her life, at the hands of physician in the Memorial Hospital, Johnstown, ten days ago. The operation was successfull performed, and the patient returned to her home Monday.

L. N. Kreinbrook, the Mt. Pleasant patent medicine man convicted of illegal liquor selling, for selling "Lewis' Botanic Bitters," was sentenced five months to the workhouse by Judge S. A. McClung at Pittsburg, Saturday. This case has been pending for some time, and the suit against Kreinbrook was brought at Judge White's suggestion, when one of Kreinbrook's customers plead guilty to a charge of selling the stuff.

Mr. Fred Vannear, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Vannear, and Miss Ray, youngest daughter of Mrs. Henry J. Picking, were united in marriage at the home of the groom's parents, in this place, Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Hiram King, of the Reformed Church, officiating. The bride is a very pretty young lady and deservedly popular among a large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Vannear left immediately after the ceremony on a western trip.

Joseph Walter, of Jenner township, faced the cruel storm of Thursday morning and walked from his home near Haine's school house, on the Laurel Hill mountain, to Somerset, where important legal business required his attention. When he arrived here his cheeks were frozen stiff, but after they had been thawed out and he had transacted the business which called him here, he boldly set out on foot to return home. The mercury never got above zero all day Thursday.

Deputy Collector Lewis J. Shock visited Somerset last week and paid an official visit to a number of our wealthier citizens and successful business men. At each place he called he left a valentine in the shape of a blank form, on which the resident is expected to set forth his actual income during 1894, and after swearing to the same before a notary public, or some Court officer, return it to the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue. We have learned of three or four gentlemen (none of them publishers) who devoted the remainder of the week, after Mr. Shock's visit, to "figuring" on how much over $4,000 they would have to pay 2 per cent. on.

A report comes from Stockton's Mills of the unpleasant and dangerous experience of Harry Slike, a trapper and hunter of that vicinity. Recently, while out surveying his traps, he passed through some fields where there has been an old, deserted coal shaft, which was filled up at the top with snow. Mr. Slike, not knowing of the shaft until he walked on the snow covering it, was precipitated to the bottom, a distance of twenty-five or thirty feet, with stones, ground, and snow coming after him and entirely covering him. He worked and struggled for quite a while. In the mean time his faithful dog was at the top of the shaft howling and lamenting for his master in the shaft. Finally Mr. Slike freed himself, by great efforts, and he made his way to the village, where Charles Stanton took him to his home. Mr. Slike was not seriously injured.

A number of Somerset workmen, who were employed Saturday and Sunday by B. & O. officials to help shovel snow from the railroad track between here and Johnstown, complain bitterly of the treatment shown them after they had completed their task. When the first engine reached Johnstown at seven o'clock Sunday night with about forty shovelers on board, it is alleged that the bosses went to a hotel and ordered supper for themselves, and when appealed to furnish food for the laborers—many of whom were suffering from hunger—flatly refused to do so, sending word that they could wait until they returned to Somerset where they could get something to eat. The HERALD's informant says that a number of the men were without money and were compelled to accept the inevitable. The snow shovelers returned to Somerset at eleven o'clock that night.

The Pennsylvania Midland Lets Contracts and Elects Officers.

The financial troubles which put a sudden stop to operations on the Pennsylvania Midland from Cessna, Bedford county, to Brooks Mills, Blair county, have been overcome, and the work will be pushed to completion as soon as the weather permits. The main line will be opened for traffic by May next, it is promised, and the branches by the following September. A contract for seven hundred cars has been awarded Murray, Dougal & Co., of Milton, Pa., and the construction of ten locomotives has been ordered. At last week's meeting of stockholders, in Huntingdon, the following officers were elected: President, Theodore Gerrish, Portland, Me.; Secretary, Samuel Spoker, Huntingdon; Treasurer, W. Grant Wilson, Harrisburg; Directors, George B. Orlady, John Whitehead, Huntingdon; J. S. Winslow, Theodore Gerrish, Portland, Me.; J. L. H. Cobb, Lewiston, Me.; R. W. Dunn, Waterville, Me.; Frank W. Childs, New York; Henry Cessna, Bedford; F. J. Kooser, Somerset; J. I. Woodcock, Hollidaysburg; C. P. Dall, McVeytown, and J. Murray Africa, Huntingdon, Chief Engineer.

Frozen On His Engine.

Charley, third son of ex-Sheriff John A. Walter, is confined to his home at Hazlewood, on the B. & O., suffering from exposure. His friends here are apprehensive that he may not recover. Charley fires one of the engines on the New York and Chicago express between Cumberland and Pittsburg, and when his train reached McKeesport one night last week it was found that both the engineer and fireman were so badly frozen that they had to be carried from their engine into the station. Walter's clothing was stiff with ice but after he had been given a stimulant he insisted upon being removed to his home, ten or twelve miles distant. He was accordingly placed on his engine again and taken to Hazlewood when he was assisted to his house. In order to thaw out his clothing the persons in attendance upon him drenched his clothes with warm water, and it is said that when his under garments were removed, the skin of his body adhered to them and was also taken off. The unfortunate fireman's parents were notified of his critical condition and his mother left for Hazlewood Monday morning on the first train she was able to take on account of the delay caused by the blizzard.

Mrs. A. E. Uhl's New Move.

No better illustration of the trite saying "nothing succeeds like success" can be pointed to than the success that has attended Mrs. A. E. Uhl's mercantile business ever since it was established some twenty years ago. At intervals of every three or four years it has outgrown its quarters, necessitating removal to more commodious apartments. For several years past the constantly increasing business of this popular house has been hampered, on account of lack of sufficient store room, but last week Mrs. Uhl secured a lease on the room adjoining her store, at present occupied by Frank Shiver's boot and shoe establishment, and on April 1st will increase the dimensions of her store room to just double its present size. The rooms will be connected by three or four large arched doors, giving in effect a single room, as large as any in Somerset devoted to mercantile business. The change will be appreciated by the many customer's who throng Mrs. Uhl's store.

A Shade Township Boy.

Norman B. Richardson, the popular and efficient manager of the Monongahela House, Pittsburg, has retired from service with that old historic hostelry, after having been identified with its interests for eleven years. Mr. Richardson began as clerk in the Monongahela in 1884, going there fresh from school in Shade township, this county. He rose through the various clerical positions to the position of manager. He relinquished that position in 1890 for a few months, when he went to the Tacoma hotel in a similar capacity. He soon returned to his first love, however, and has since remained. During the incumbency of J. M. Montgomery as manager, Mr. Richardson was his assistant, and over a year ago again acceded to the general management.

Mr. Richardson has made thousands of warm friends during his stay at the Monongahela, and his efficient management of its affairs has done much to popularize the hotel. His plans are not fully determined for the future, but he will probably become identified with the management of another prominent hotel not far from Pittsburg.

Case of Interest to Constables Who Attend Elections.

A question that is attracting wide attention was presented to Judge Reyburn, of Armstrong county, recently, in the form of a stated case. It relates to the compensation to be allowed constables for attending the polls on election days. Under the old law constables were required to be present only until the closing of the polls, seven o'clock in the evening; but the ballot reform act requires them to remain within the voting room while the votes are being counted. In many precincts the count is sometimes not completed until nearly daybreak the next morning, and in but few election districts do the officers end their duties before 1 or 2 o'clock, a. m. It is for this extra time that increased pay is asked. Heretofore the county commissioners allowed constables $2 for their election day work. Several constables last November demanded of the commissioners extra pay for attending the polls while the count was going on. The board of county commissioners refused to comply, and tendered the usual compensation, two dollars. The peace officers then employed counsel to test the matter, and the question was argued before the court.

The new law contains no provisions for an increase of pay for the extra time served by the constable, but provides that all expenses incurred in carrying out the law shall be paid by the county commissioners. Judge Reyburn has not as yet rendered a decision, but it is awaited with much interest.

Worthy of Special Notice.

Reference has been frequently made to the enterprise and excellence of the Pittsburg Times as a newspaper. Just at this time another feature worthy of mention is noticed. That is the consistency of the Times in adhering to its policy of giving all the news in concise form. The American people are so busy that it is an impossition to ask them to wade through a column article when all the facts may be given in a few lines. When you get the Pittsburg Times, you find all the news of the world in such form that the busiest man can keep fully informed concerning the events of the day. The space thus saved is filled with so many bright special features that it is no wonder the Times is the most popular family newspaper in Pennsylvania. If you are not now a reader, subscribe at once. The cost is only one cent a day; sample copies free.

THE GROUNDHOG'S INNING.

Coldest Weather Known in Twenty-five Years.

S. & C. R. R. Blocked for 60 Hours.—County Roads Impassable.—Much Suffering Caused by the Cold.

Shut off from the outside world for forty-eight hours, the only means of communication being by telegraph, was the experience of most Somerset county people Saturday and Sunday. It was not a pleasant experience, and, with the consent of Mr. Groundhog, we do not care to repeat it. A majority of the people kept in-doors from Thursday until Sunday, making no effort to perform their accustomed daily work, but vainly endeavoring to keep warm. Few, if any, persons from the surrounding country had the courage to brave the storm, and as a consequence stores and offices were deserted. The backbone of the blizzard was broken Saturday night, and Sunday was a mildly pleasant day when compared with any of the previous days of last week. Friday a large number of local families were threatened with a coal famine, all of the roads leading from town to the various mines being blockaded with snow drifts; but the Listie people fortunately had a car load of coal at the railroad station, which was found sufficient to tide over the families which were in greatest distress until Monday, when a number of the mine owners opened up the blockaded roads and commenced supplying their customers.

The mercury did not get above zero Wednesday, and Thursday the railroad trackmen were advised to be on the lookout for the worst storm of the season, which was scheduled to arrive the following day. The manager of the local weather bureau—Capt. Schrock—gave out similar information, and the reports in the daily papers were to the same import. A "howling blizzard" was raging at the time, the worst in twenty-four years, and Mr. Johnsing, of the Democrat, remarked that "it would simply be a holy terror." And he was right.

Friday morning the mercury dropped to 18° below zero in Captain Schrock's thermometer, and at other points about town it registered five degrees lower. The condition of the weather Thursday, Friday and Saturday was simply awful. An intensely cold wind, moving at a speed of sixty miles an hour, prevailed, driving clouds of snow ahead and piling it into banks ten feet high.

SOMERSET & CAMBRIA TRAINS TIED UP.

The north-bound S. & C. train was an hour late arriving here from Rockwood Friday. Two engines were pulling the train, and before they left the station Conductor Waite said to the engineers, "get your machines hot if you don't want to stick in the snow before we reach the top of the hill."—Geiger's station. The firemen immediately began piling in coal, and in a few minutes the huge engines were snorting and hissing as if anxious to be off. All went well until the second deep cut—less than a mile distant from the station—was reached. The cut was even full of snow, 9 feet deep, when the train bolted into it under a full head of steam, only to come to a standstill before it had traversed one-half the distance of the cut. The trainmen despaired of proceeding further, and in attempting to back the train to the station the second engine left the track, and all efforts to replace it proved unsuccessful. There were nineteen passengers on board, including the members of "The Dazzler" theatrical company. Conductor Watte walked back to the station and telegraphed to Superintendent Cutter for assistance. Two engines left Rockwood at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon for the purpose of pulling the passenger train out of the snow, but both run into snow drifts a short distance north of Milford station and stuck fast. Station Agent Kinney, of Rockwood, who was on one of the engines, walked through the storm to Somerset, arriving here about midnight.

Early Saturday morning Messrs. Waite and Kinney secured several livery teams and drove to the snow-bound train, where the passengers had passed an anxious night. The thermometer at this time marked 12° below zero, but the passengers were very willing to abandon the cars, which they had found hard to keep comfortably warm, and drive to the Somerset House, where they were provided with comfortable rooms. Three or four ladies in the party almost perished before they reached the hotel.

At 6 o'clock Saturday morning Superintendent Cutter and Train Master Spencer left Rockwood with an engine and fifty men for the purpose of releasing the four engines and passenger train. The party arrived in Somerset at six o'clock that evening, having spent twelve hours in traversing a distance of ten miles. They encountered numerous snow drifts, several of which had packed so hard as to form ice and could only be removed with picks and shovels.

Sunday morning a force of sixty or seventy men was set to work shoveling the snow out of the cut in which the passenger train had stuck, and by noon they had accomplished their object, and the train was run onto a siding at the Somerset station.

The road was cleared of snow between Somerset and Geiger's at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and at that hour the passenger train started for Johnstown, being pulled by two engines. Two additional engines carrying a force of laborers run a half-hour ahead of the passenger train. The trip to Johnstown was made without incident, and Monday morning passenger trains over the Somerset & Cambria were running on schedule.

All of the trainmen worked for forty-eight consecutive hours, and were completely tired out.

A Petrified June Bug.

Seven years ago a June bug flew into the left ear of Miss Rose M. Young, of Johnstown, who is the leading soprano in the English Lutheran Church choir, and soon after she went to a local physician, who succeeded in removing the wings of the insect.

A number of attempts had been made to remove the bug, as it caused Miss Young considerable pain and affected her hearing and also her left eye, but they were unsuccessful.

A short time ago Miss Young went to Dr. Horace E. Kistler's office and had him examine her ear. He found the bug and removed it, but in doing so the young lady suffered excruciating pain. The bug was petrified, and is being kept as a relic.—Johnstown Tribune.

CONTESTED ELECTION CASE.

The Court Called Upon to Decide Who Are the Republican Nominees for School Director in the Mother of Townships.

The Republican voters of Milford township held their annual primary election on Saturday, January 26, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various township offices. Among other candidates to be nominated were two for School Director for a term of two years and one for a term of three years. There were four candidates for the office of School Director, namely: Geo. Seehler, L. H. Bridigum, Alex Markle and Geo. F. Kimmell. The count of the ballots disclosed that Seehler had received 52 votes, Bridigum 26, Kimmell 34 and Markle 33. Of the 34 votes cast for Markle on 29 of them the words "for two years" was written opposite his name, thus indicating that he was the choice of the voters for the two year term. The remaining 4 ballots cast for Markle did not designate the number of years, nor did those cast for any of the other three candidates. The election officers certified the nomination of Seehler and Bridigum for the three year term, they having received the highest number of votes, and Markle for the two year term, he being the only candidate whose tickets specified for which office he was a candidate. Mr. Kimmell and his friends at once got up Nomination Papers, by which, under the appellation of "Citizens' Republican Party," they placed on their ticket the names of all the other candidates nominated for the various offices at the Republican primary with the single exception of Markle, in whose place was substituted Kimmell's name.

Kimmell also filed objections to the Certificate of Nomination filed by the election board, alleging that Markle's name had been erroneously placed upon the certificate as candidate for School Director for the two year term, and praying the Court that it be stricken off and his, Kimmell's, name be inserted in its stead, giving as a reason that he had received one more vote than had Markle. A hearing in the matter was had before Associate Judge Horner, in the law library, Monday afternoon, which adjourned to meet at the same place at 7 o'clock Friday evening, at which time President Judge Longenecker will be present.

After Kimmell had filed his objection to the certificate of the regular election officers Markle concluded to try his hand in the same line and promptly filed objections to the ticket of the "Citizens' Republican Party," praying the Court to restrain the County Commissioners from printing the ticket of the "Citizens' Republican Party" on the official ballots for Milford township for the following reasons: First, that the words used to designate the party or policy are used in contravension of the fourth section of the Act of June 10th, 1893, (Baker ballot law.) Second, that the Nomination Papers were only filed seventeen days before the election, whereas the Act referred to requires that they be filed eighteen days before. Both petitions will be heard by the Court Friday evening. Messrs. Kooser & Kooser appear for Mr. Kimmell and Messrs. Scull, Biesecker and Scull appear for Mr. Markle and his associates on the ticket.

Of the thirteen candidates placed on the ticket of the "Citizens' Republican Party," all but four have filed withdrawal papers with the County Commissioners, leaving but Mr. Kimmell and three others on the ticket as the representatives of that party or policy.

Publish the Acts of Assembly.

The publication of the laws in the county papers is a matter that should engage the attention of the legislature. Several states have such laws, and find them a good investment of public money. As it is at present, in this state, the great majority of our people to be governed have no knowledge whatever of what the laws are, and but little opportunity to make themselves acquainted with the laws' provisions. Publish them in the county papers, at a fair rate of compensation, and every man, woman and child will have a chance to know the nature of every law they are required to obey.
