DERRINGERS' CHUM.
"That's the way to talk," Old Derringer exclaimed approvingly.

He glared up at the dugout on the hillside, at the sparkling stream at his feet, at the gleaming peaks, hundreds of feet high, which shut in the narrow Dakota ravine on both sides.

Tom watched the miner as he worked again at a spot about 20 yards below the dugout. He stopped long enough to glance at his watch, and he saw that he had not a minute to spare.

NEW YORK CITY MERCHANT.
HOW HIS LIFE WAS SAVED.
From the New York City (Globe News).
No one would think to look at Richard B. Brown, a commission merchant, of No. 345 Washington street, New York City, that for six weeks he had suffered in agony in his bed, and the physicians had said it was impossible for him to regain his health.
