A Little Girl Burned to Death.

The six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keister, of Listie, died Sunday from the effects of burns received Friday morning. Mr. Kiester was at work in the coal mine at the time and during the temporary absence of his wife from the kitchen the child undertook to bake a few cakes for breakfast, and was leaning over the hot kitchen stove when her dress caught fire. In a moment the fire barned through the victim's under-clothing and reached her flesh and the acute pain which followed caused her to rush from the house. The instant the child reached the open air the fire broke into flames which soon enveloped her entire body. The agonizing screams of the miserable victim reached her mother's ears when she hastened to the rescue, but she was unable to catch up with her terrified daughter until after the flames had burned all of the clothing from her body and she fell to the ground, her little body charred and all of the flesh burned from her arms. CHLOROFORMED AND ROBBED.

The thieves entered the house by climb ing up over the porch in the rear, after which they raised one of the windows and chloroformed Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman who are quite aged.

Mr. Hoffman's trousers were hanging on the bedpost at the old gentleman's head, and they were taken to the porch beneath, where they were gone through by the parties, who took a pocketbook containing over $150 in bills and emptied a wallet containing a considerable sum. Mr. Hoffman does not know the exact amount the thieves took, but he thinks it is about $200.

But after the robbers left, Mrs. Hoffman took sick, the chloroform having affected her, and she went out into the yard. As she was returning to the house she saw something black lying on the porch, and, thinking it was the dog, kicked at it, but it did not move.

After she returned to the bedroom she pocketbook and money were taken.

Will Increase the Size of Their Plant.

J. B. HOLDERBAUM,

The Somerset Electric Company con tracted vesterday with Mr. Vannear for the lighting of the Hotel Vannear by electricity. This is the largest contract that the Light Company has. The Hotel Vannear will require 175 incandescent lights and one are light. The company expects to be able to turn on the light in the hotel by next Monday. In this connection it is well no note that a largely increased patronage has made it necessary for the light company to increase its capacity. They have been figuring on the probable necessity of an increase for ome time and last week signed a contract with the Russell Engine Company for an enlargement. This is the second increase since the erection of the plant, consequently the company determined to make no mistake this time. Therefore a contract has been let for an additional boiler of 150 horse power; a Corliss engine of 300 horse power; an are dynamo of 80 lights, 2000 eandle power each; and an incandescent dynamo of 1800 sixteen candle power capacity. All to be new and of the latest, up to date build and style, covering latest patents and improvements to this time. This enlargement more than doubles the present capacity, and is calculated to be sufficient to light a town of 5,000 people. The contract calls
