Prominent Young Man of Cumberland Arrested for the Murder of Grant Zuffa. A Saturday dispatch from Cumberland, Md., says: There was a great sensation here in the morning when Deputy Sheriff McDermott took to the D. & N. Johnson Milling Company, in this city and told R. D. Johnson, Jr., that he had been indicted by the grand jury for the murder of Grant W. Zuffa, on Wednesday, and that he must accompany him to jail.

Johnson quickly placed himself in the deputy's custody, and is now behind the bars at the State House. Johnson is one of the most prominent men in this city, and is about 25 years old. He is also a brother-in-law to Ferdinand Williams, the Democratic candidate for Judge in the Fourth Judicial Circuit.

All efforts to find out the testimony produced before the grand jury is unavailing, as the lips of those who know it are sealed. The grand jury in the case of Zuffa in this county, which makes the charge laid at Johnson's door all the more serious.

REMOVED TO THE ICE. Lawyers are now working preparing the papers, and Johnson will be taken before the court Monday on a writ of habeas corpus, in order to have him released on bail.

Shot Dead By a Robber. HONKESDALE, Pa., Oct. 26.—An encounter with three burglars at Hawley last night ended in the murder of George Scott, one of the attacking party. Several men have been captured on suspicion of being the burglars. Hawley is a small town in this county. James Milham keeps a general store there, and during the night neighbors discovered that thieves had broken into it. Asher Atkinson, George Stott and several other men surrounded the store, hoping to trap the intruders. They were cautiously and quietly at work when suddenly the front door of the store was opened and one of the three thieves shouted: "Let her go!" At the same moment all three thieves were in the street, and they ran as fast as possible. The robbers fired several more shots at their pursuers, who were soon outdistanced in the dark. The store was killed.

At the first volley, George Stott dropped to the ground, mortally wounded. His companion sent for a doctor, who discovered that a bullet had pierced his abdomen. The wounded man died in a few minutes.
