The colonel ordered out the entire command, to the utter consternation of Miss Winifred Berrien and the supreme disgust of some half a dozen junior officers, who, counting on the weather indications at nine n. m., had eagerly accepted Mrs. Bereven to such a saviour, when urged by rien's suggestion that they spend their the charlatans in every village, the surainv afternoon at the major's hospitable quarters, by way of making it pleasant for two young damsels from town and three or four from the fort itself, dening dance went ou. all of whom were supposed to be deeply interested and engaged in the embroidery of certain altar cloths, lectura and pulpit adoruments, with which to rejoice the eyes of their amiable chaplain at Christmastide. Here it was well along in November, and beyond a vast amount of chatter and conjecture over the pros-nothing had been done. True, the colonel had astonished everybody by ordering out the entire regiment, at least the eight companies theret the post, to parade for inservice, at nine-thirty that morning, and only reluctantly recalled the order when the parditent plashing of the rain warned him that it would take a day or two of sunshine to dry out the clothing and equipments subjected to such a downpour. And then if anything should happen and they should be suddenly called upon to bundle everything right into the waiting train- But, pshaw! the thing wasn't possible; the idea could not be entertained. Of course matters were looking squally, very squally, up there in the Dakotas, and everybody from Missouri to the mountains and morth of the Platte was already out in the field, and in little detachments from the scattered posts even far away in Montana, even far in southern Wyoming, the soldiery were converging to ward those swarming agencies where thousands of truculent warriors of the great Dakota nation were drawing rations for every man, woman, child and pappoose they possessed. Oh, if the truth could ever reach the ears of the general public what tales of Indian ragacity might not yet be in store for them! What annals might not be unfolded! Dealing with his own, his white children, who are nonvoters, Uncle Sam serves out one ration a day to each enlisted soldier.

The wife and the lads and lasses that tumbled about the married men's quarters in the oneer old days were all to be fed from that one ration, unless, perchance, mamma was a laundress. But when dealing with the wronged and lajured red man he sould not be too magmnimous. Every head counted. The numbling old beldam, great-grandmother of "countless thousands," braced year-olds, reveling in the dirt about the reeking shambles, the tiny hour-old papoose, even many a pappy, blanket

Spiders in History.

Spiders have played a greater part in history than most people are aware of. Everybody knows how the perseverauce of a spider encouraged Robert Bruce to regain his kingdom of Scotland, but not so many know that according to Jewish tradition a spider saved David's life. Saul was hunting for him, and his soldiers approached a cave where David was hidden.
