Have Had Ample Notice.

The Department of Agriculture has deelded that process and others who have articles of food upon their shelves in vioation of the pure food law of the last Legislature have had ample notice, and Frank N. Moore, who represents the Deartment in the Pittsburg district, has een instructed to bring suit for five or ix flagrant violations which have been rought to his notice by the analysis of lected samples by one of the experts of the Department. It has been found that buckwheat flour is seldom pure, and that n most cases it is adulterated with coarse flour at the rate of from five to ninety five per cent. Lard has also been selected as a prominent source of adulteration and some samples have been found to contain twenty-five per cent. of water, hemicals having been added to enable the lard to hold this amount of moisture The stir which has been caused among manufacturers by the notice of the Deeartment, that it intended to enforce all aws relating to impure or adulterated ood, has increased the correspondence o he State officers, and manufacturers are showing a desire to comply with the law s soon as possible. In many cases manufacturers are supplying grocers and oth ers who have their goods upon their shelves with large numbers of labels bearing the word "compound," under the supposition that the presence of these labels will make all mixtures securfrom suits by the State officers. To meet such cases Secretary Edge has decided that the indiscriminate use of the word compound" was not contemplated by the aw and that its addition to articles not usually compounded is no protection The officers of the Department state that they meet with nothing but commendation in their work, and that the press and people are ready to assist them in any possible manner.
