Not Fond of New Things.

Samuel Spring, chaplain to the expedition against Quebee under Benediet Arnold, was one of the most raliant and eloquent of the revolutionary preachers. He was pastor of a shurch in Newburyport for 40 years. He did not like new ways and when a hurch near by purchased an organ he eferred contemptuously to "our neighor's box of whistles." Once some inwise parishioners conspired to modernize the music a little in their own church. They did not tell the pastor; only, when it came time for the first hymn, the tentative, gentle, prolonged opening wail of a bass viol was heard.

Back went Dr. Spring's spectacles; up came his tall form to its utmost height, his black eyes gazed fiercely oward the choir seats, and he said, quietly, but in a voice not to be dis bever!:

"Remove that fiddle from the house of God?"
