In March, 1892, thinking a change in lecation might add vigor to Clara, they took up their abode in a beautiful little town situated between the mountains, known as Little Marsh, Pa., and where nature itself seemed to be a physician superior to all mankind. Here, for a time, the change of air seemed to revive their daughter Chara, but soon other weaknesses established themselves in her body, which promised to take her from their mislst.

Physicians were summoned, but she continued to grow worse and it was very evident that only a few short days remained for her on earth. The mother was distracted upon realizing the situation of her loving daughter, and it was while relating her condition to a peichlor. We southworth in different kinds of medicine were kept on her feet.

Several different kinds of medicine were tried but her condition steadily grew worse.

'I had almost given up hopes of bettering my condition," said Mrs. Carey to a newspaper man, "when I concluded to give Pink Punksutawney, Pa., had been marvelously cured of heart trouble by these wonderful pills and I concluded to see what virtue they possessed for the ailments of people of my age. Before I had taken the contents of one box, I noticed a change in my condition. upon realizing the situation of her loving daughter, and it was while relating her condition to a neighbor. Mrs. Southworth, in January, 1895, that she learned of the wonderful results obtained by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for female weaknesses. Everything else having failed to add one glimmer of light to the life so fast fading away, a fifty-cent box of Pink Pills was procured from the druggist, hoping that there might be something in this new remedy. Already Clara's complexion had grown to be of that fided color so well-known to all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered in the range cattle are becoming better bred than a large part of the steers in lowa, and says the farmer may well fear the ranchman's competition, if he Already Clara's complexion lad grown to be of that fided color so well-known to all similarly affected.
