SIXTEEN TO ONE. A Concise Explanation of a Frequently Asked Question.

What is free coimage? What is meant by the ratio of 16 to 1? These questions asked and answered thousand of times, will figure with renewed frequency, both in the newspapers and in personal conversations during the next five months. It will be often said when the one or the other of these questions comes up: "I saw that explained in some newspaper only the other day, but don't exactly recall it." Whereupon the speaker will perhaps proceed to drop a card to some paper to repeat the explanation. municated to him after your adjournment and without opportunity of making any response to you directly. But as that action has been made public unofficially and irresponsibly, it is proper that the public should know exactly what it is, and accordingly, his response to you is made in this manner. Your action, a ommunicated by the Secretary of the Board, is as follows: "Resolved, That without bringing any direct, specific charge against the Franklin Professor of Greek Language and Literature, and simply realizing that the dissatisfaction with him is too great for him to be retained with any degree of comfort to the Board of Trustees or to the harmonious working of the Administration of the College, we notify him of the termination of his services, according to the terms on which the Franklin Professorship of the Greek Language and Literature was tendered him by the Board of Trustees." That you bring no charge "direct" and 'specific" or of any sort, is for the good reason that there was none that would bear the light, and at once stamps your action as arbitrary. Your committee spent one day at Gettysburg, inquiring into a lew things, and went away without being a: le to make out a case sustained by credible evidence. From the puerile questions put to your Professor then, he was convinced of what his own consciousness already assured him, that there was nothing on which he could be reasonably or justly arraigned to his hurt. This your inability to find any direct, specific, legitimate charge, is as gratifying as his own sense of faithful-

so weak; why they get tired so easily; why they start at every slight but sudden sound; why they do not sleep naturally; why they have frequen headaches, indigestion and

Palpitation of the Heart. The explanation is simple. It is found in that impure blood which is continually feeding the nerves upon refuse instead of the elements of strength and vigor. In such condition opiate and nerve compounds simply deaden and do not care. Hood's Sarsaparilla feeds the nerves pure, rich, red blood; gives natural sleep, perfect digestion, self-control, vigorous health, and is the true remedy for all nervous troubles.
