Bootile Mountain Tribes That Prevent the Engloration of Territory That the Span-

Years Ago-Persistent Mr. Woodford, A few years ago the English and the Cormons divided the beautiful group of the Solomon = lands between themselves and then looked around to see if their was really worth anything. They decided that the islands were lovely to the eye and good enough to keep, but that the natives were the wildest and most untamable savages they had ever met. It was all a man's life was worth to venture among them. A gunboat or two have been kept in the pleighborhood of late years, but these have not prevented the head hunters and cannibals from looping off a white man's head on every convenient occa-

The scene of the latest native exploit is the large island of Guadalcanar. Several members of an Austrian scientific expedition, while climbing the mountain known as the Lion's Head early in August, 1896, were attacked by the bushmen or island natives. Five of the party were killed and six were wounded, including two guides and some sailras. A simultaneous attack was made upon the climbers and the small party they had left in camp below. Of course the natives were no match for guns, and they were soon driven into the buth, but not before they had inflicted terrible less. Among the killed was Buron von Norbeck. The Lion's head is in the very heart of the island, being almost equidistant beween the sides and ends of Guadal-No white man had ever been there before. No white man had ever penetrated the interior before except Mr. C. M. Woodford, and he went only about 15 miles inland, ascending the Adla river. Then he had to turn back for excellent reasons, in which the natives were concerned. into the bush when they saw him coming, but their fears were allayed by his native friends, who would shout that he was a good white man who bought butterflies, birds, snakes and stone axes and measured the water. But the people of the mountains still farther inland could not be mollified, and all his attempts to reach Lion's head and the still higher mountain of Lammas resulted in failure. The farther he and his coast natives went up the river Aola in their canoes the more timid his escort became. They rounded every bend in the river with spears poised and keeping a good lookout.

Any white man on the coasts of the lorum group must be constantly on his guard. If he attempts to go inland and ascend a mountain, his life is hardly worth purchasing, even though a man-of-war may be lying in a neighboring harbor ready to burn a dozen villages if any harm is done. This is the mistake the Austrian party made. The natives are very superstitious about the mountain tops. Some dread object, a hage fish or clam or a devil, always lives there, and wee will betide the town to town. Not a few white traders and natives coming to the Selemon is funds on vessels have been killed solely r their heads, for all these natives, like many other savages in the Pacific, regard a collection of buman heads as a reasure beyond price. Men-of-war always visit the coast after these murders. out they are usually unable to capture the culprits, as the natives invariably etire into the bush when they see a warship coming. Awhile ago the English did catch one of the murderers. They got together a large crowd of the matives, and most impressively shot the periminal, but no deep moral effect seems to have been produced. In 1888 Mr. Woodford again visited the islands, and again he failed to reach the mountains of Guadalcanar. The Austrians reached the mountains, but paid a terrible price for it. So these islands, discovered by the Spanish more than 200 years ago, are still almost as little known, excenting their const lines as the antarctic comment.-New York

IT'S PLAIN AS DAY

All those terrible backaches, limb aches, headaches and a dozen other kinds of aches are simply the result of the failure of the kidneys to take the poison out of the blood. No use trying to be healthy with uric acid and other poisons flowing through the system. Sensible thing to do is to get the poisons out.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS Regulate and strengthen the kidneys, and good health follows as naturally as night follows day.

"There been troubled with my kidners for five years. Had terrible pains in my back and sides; sometimes a dull ache, other times sharp pains. My who e system was affected. A Northside turnverein which boasts of a large female membership has introduced among other gymnastic exercises intended, says the Chicago "Chronicle," to develop the figure and reduce to a minimum the tendency to avoirdupois what it calls the somer sault cure. Two afternoons a week class of a dozen of the most advanced pupils go through an hour of this tumbling exercise. To those who are nimble of limb and light of weight this exercise is none too violent. It t for those ladies who have developed a matronly embonpoint the exercise is the inside and readily accessible to gym. Sometimes the occupants of the divided skirts fall on their feet, and then again they fall on some other portion of their anatomies, which invarbly provokes shouts of uproarlalaughter, and, of course, the floor is to the window and makes his demand, plentifully supplied with soft mattressthe cashier grabs the money with one es which in a measure reduce the hardness of the fall. In the course of time the bar is removed and the instructor's arms alone assist in the tumble. Finally even that is removed and then the pupil is promoted to class work.

"It looks harder than it actually is," said an instructor at the Turner hall, "but its benefits in the development of a good figure are incalculable. At first I found it hard to persuade fleshy women to try a somersault. But a little patience and some coaxing finally bring them in. During the summer many of my pupils were bicycle riders, and not a few of them century makers. The cold weather now prevents bicycle | 2 riding, so they come to the gymnasium, And after they have once taken to the somersault they prefer it to any other exercise. The exhibaration of the thing grows on you and its effects on one's girdle measurement is simply astonishing. I recommend it unhesitatingly to any woman inclined to a superfluity of flesh."

The Polygamist and His Wives.

At a recent Universalist Convention at Portland, Me., the Rev. Mr. Wells told a story of a polygamist who had himself. The expert barber, who has two wives, the one old, the other young. The young wife, not wanting him to look old pulled out his gray hairs, and the old wife, not wanting | 200 him to look young, pulled out his black hairs. So he became bald. Lard and Dyspepsia

One who has made a study of dyspepsia claims that in a large number of cases the disturbance is due to the use of lard. He suggests the liberal use of beef tallow to the exclusion of all pork fat as a remedy. He says a person who is fond of "grease" can saturate his food in this with no resulting digestive disorder.
