

WEDNESDAY, January 27, 1897.

SENATOR THURSTON, of Nebraska, has been ordered by the Populist legislature of his State to vote for free silver.

IN the United States last year there were 125 legal executions and 131 lynchings. Mob law appears to be on top.

THE fact that the deficit is about $30,000 a day is tempered by the reflection that the number of days the present bill will have to stand it is tapering off beautifully.

IT may be true, as reported, that Major McKinley is having some difficulty in forming his cabinet, but it will be a good one when it is done. And that is all the people ask for.

JOHN SHEPHERD'S career shows that a man need not be President in order to make American history of the highest importance. A President lasts eight years at the outside, while Sherman's tenure has been over forty years.

THE Republicans of Virginia and Tennessee were cheated out of their victory last year, but they can see in the vigorous growth of their party the coming regeneration of two great States, and when it does come it will stay.

IN the last Cuban rebellion American citizens lost property valued at $100,000,000, and they will suffer in the present war to a greater amount. The inconclusive hostilities that Spain is dragging on are ruinous to herself and a costly nuisance to others.

MR. AND JAMIE are about the only two real Christians in this town, "and some of the old lady in the story, "and sometimes I have my doubts about Jamie." It is largely that way with the professional reformers when they begin to call other people spoilsmen.

ACCORDING to the returns, as canvassed by the Legislature, the plural vote of the Democratic candidate for Governor of Tennessee is 15,968. It seems strange that the experts who had charge of the counting did not make it an even 16,000 while they were at it.

THE official statement of exports and imports for December shows very clearly that the wave of prosperity is steadily approaching, and that the beginning of a healthy revival is well advanced. It is a relief to find that the country's former prosperity.

THE Executive Committee of the Republican State League of Clubs met in Harrisburg on Thursday last. Wilkes-Barre and Williamsport were the only two places mentioned for the next convention, and Williamsport won by a vote of 29 to 7, and on the conference of Thursday, the 25th and 26th of September, 1896, were fixed as the dates of the convention.

THE bubonic plague now epidemic in India, through fears of contagion, is attracting much attention throughout the world. It is said to bear a very close resemblance to ague. The victim first becomes dazed and distracted, and then has headache, fever, and a burning thirst. The disease is usually fatal, but if a patient survives the first attack for five days he generally recovers.

CONDITIONS are favorable to a general improvement in the industrial world, and the business world is only awaiting the inauguration of a Republican administration when the confidence it carries with it, and a forward movement in the direction of protection, to take a new life. All this will be realized in a very few weeks, and better times may be expected with full assurance of realization.

A NEW steamship company has been organized in Yokohama, the vessels to be run from that city to San Francisco. This is but another evidence of the progress Japan is making, and indicates that she proposes to become a power on the sea, as well as on the land. The Pacific cable will undoubtedly soon be laid, and will be of valuable assistance in the conduct of the great ocean traffic between Japan, the islands of the Pacific, and the United States. This country wants all the trade she can get with Japan.

A REMARKABLE tale is told of a trial in Kentucky, where it was officially announced that all the men in the courtroom would have to submit to a search for weapons if they wished to remain. Two barrels full of revolvers were secured, and that a couple of spectators cried like children when their weapons were confiscated. All of which goes to show that the complaint about the destruction in advancing civilization of all pretensions in life is not entirely well founded.

IN VIEW of the many attacks on wills because of the alleged incapacity of the persons making them, a Connecticut legislator proposes a law to the effect that every individual who makes a will may deposit it with a legal officer who shall give public notice that a will has been offered, and that all who wish to question the testator's capacity shall have a certain time in which to do so; and if no objection is made, then the will shall not be subject to attack on that ground after death. The passage of such a law in all of the States would materially reduce the number of will contests, and promote the distribution of property according to the real desires of testators, besides lessening the fees of lawyers who now often get large shares of estates through controversies of that kind.

THE election of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Cameron was a very dignified and decorous proceeding, attended by none of the exciting scenes that characterized the elections in Illinois and Delaware. Pennsylvania may have a great deal of excitement in nominating a candidate for Senator, but the instances are few where the Republican party squabbled over the nomination was made. The friends of Mr. Wannamaker swept gracefully into line and voted for Mr. Penrose, and the young Philadelphia goes into office with the hearty good wishes of the people of a great State who have followed his public career and are proud of him. We are satisfied that Mr. Penrose will make a good public servant in the highest and most dignified body in the United States. He has had the experience, he is able, and he will take high rank from the start.

The Black Death.

The pestilence which is depopulating Bombay at the present time is the same as that which died to 66,336 inhabitants of London in 1665, which once reduced the population of Norway from 2,000,000 to 300,000, and from which in the 14th century 25,000,000 persons are said to have perished in Europe. It is characterized by boils and carbuncles, especially in the groin. These are known as buboes hence the name, bubonic plague, which is now generally used.

The following from the New York Sun, gives some idea of its devastations since the dawn of history: As cholera has its home in the lower valley of the Ganges, so plague has for centuries had its habitat and starting point in Yunnan, a province of southern China, about midway between Hongkong and Calcutta, and near the headwaters of rivers which flow southward through Burma and Siam. From Yunnan the disease was carried in 1394 to Canton, where 60,000 died in a few weeks, and to Hongkong, where for a time there were 100 deaths per day. It was at Canton and Hongkong in that year that the eminent Japanese bacteriologist, Dr. Kitasato, discovered the characteristic bacillus of plague and by his fearless investigations demonstrated that the malady was identical with that which ravaged London in 1665, and of which DeFoe wrote in 1720, when England was almost at the mercy of mortality from the same disease in Marseilles.

The historical accounts of the appalling epidemics of plague during the last 750 years are almost incredible. It may be said that the germs were always borne westward from India, to which they had been brought from Southern China, and that the paths followed were substantially those which cholera followed in the Middle Ages. Constantinople and Egypt were the half way houses of plague. There is a long list of devastating epidemics, but the worst of them was what was called the Black Death, prevailing throughout Europe and Asia in the years 1345-51. The path of this pestilence was from China to India, Egypt, Constantinople, and Italy, and thence through Europe. London's loss was much greater than in the epidemic of which De Foe wrote, (when 40,000 died in two months), and even in such a town as Norwich the dead numbered 17,000. It was estimated and reported that 130,000 persons died in China of the plague during this epidemic and that in other parts of Asia there were 23,800,000 victims. Certain countries were said to have been depopulated. In Cairo the mortality exceeded 10,000 per day. Germany lost 1,244,000 of her people. One-half of the inhabitants of Italy are said to have perished. Dr. Becker, of Berlin, a respected authority, estimates that this epidemic swept away one-quarter of the people of Europe, or 25,000,000 persons!

The disease which so ravaged the world in the fourteenth century was identical with the malady prevailing in Bombay now, and that which half a century ago has appeared in Europe only once in serious epidemic form—in 1878-9 at the mouth of the Volga. Owing to the famine and to conditions indicated by a death-rate increasing for the last decade and a half, there may be a great loss of life in India during the next six months, but the European powers can protect themselves.

"I am a soldier of the Rebellion. A year ago I was in bed all winter with chronic rheumatism. Three doctors failed to give me relief. Two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters put me on my feet. It is the best medicine I ever used."—Y. B. Knapp, Littlefield, Hillsdale Co., Mich.

Brother Married Sister.

WICHITA, Kan., January 22.—The village of Malvern, a few miles south of here, is stirred up over disclosures brought to light on the occasion of the thirty-ninth wedding anniversary of Peter Wilson and wife a few days ago. Their nine children and several grand-children were present, with many neighbors. In the company was Isaac Ashton, foster father of Mrs. Wilson, who was en route to Oklahoma, and Robert Wilson, foster father of Peter Wilson, who abated in a neighboring county. The men were neighbors forty years ago, but had not seen each other since. Their reminiscence talk brought out the fact that in 1838 Alexander Taylor, wife and two children, lived in Malvern, Ind., having moved there from Noble county, Ohio. Taylor went as a volunteer to the Florida Indian war, and died while on the expedition. Mrs. Taylor died soon afterward, leaving her children, Peter and Rachel, six and two years old, respectively, to the care of strangers. Isaac Ashton and Robert Wilson had been friends of the Taylors. Ashton adopted Rachel and Wilson adopted Peter Taylor. Ashton moved to Iowa soon afterward, and Wilson went to Northern Missouri. They never spoke to the children of their antecedents, and they grew up to consider they were the children of their respective foster parents.

When Peter Wilson was seventeen years old he went to Sioux City, Iowa, to learn the carpenter's trade, and at a temporary meeting he met Rachel Ashton, who was visiting her sister near St. Louis. There is no embalmment and undertaker near St. Antonio and a telegram was sent here for one. The young man was still alive, but his physical condition was positive he would be dead in a few hours.

The St. Antonio undertaker arrived at Malvern next morning, and found the young man still alive. He waited 36 hours and then pronounced him dead. Improvement. The undertaker left in the coffin for St. Antonio and Richmond was brought here on the same train, arriving last night. The trip did him so much good that he will now leave the hospital in a few days a well man.

Three Millions for a Book.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 20.—The most expensive book that has ever been published in the world is the official history of the War of the Rebellion, which is now being issued by the Government of the United States at a cost up to date of $2,342,811. It will require at least three years longer and the total cost undoubtedly will reach nearly three millions of dollars. It is composed of 112 volumes, including an index and an atlas. Copies are sent free to public libraries, and 1,347,968 are sold at prices ranging from 50 to 90 cents per volume.

Ex-Congressman W. A. Harris is considered to be in the lead for United States Senator in Kansas. A new and strong candidate was announced Saturday night, however, says a dispatch from Topeka, in Ex-Governor John P. St. John. Though a Prohibitionist of National standing, he is in the eyes of the Populists, and may slip in as a compromise.

Charles has been able to produce his condition at will, and, though unable to forget his subject after the trance, he is able to remember a little of his disincarnate life, but not enough to render him any more intelligent in his everyday life and not enough to do anything else any good.

Senator Hunsbrough, Republican, of North Dakota, succeeds himself.

Boies Penrose, Republican, was elected in Pennsylvania.

After a prolonged fight the Illinois Republican caucus unanimously nominated ex-Congressman Wm. E. Mason, who is said to be the champion campaigner of the State.

Wm. A. Harris, Populist, has been elected from Kansas to succeed Wm. A. Foster.

Over. Willie H. Platt, Republican, re-elected from Connecticut.

James K. Jones, Democrat, re-elected from Arkansas.

Dr. Gallinger, Republican, re-elected from New Hampshire.

This Boy Hero May Die.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 22.—There are in jail here four men who attempted to commit a midnight burglary at the home of 70-year-old Jane Richardson, of Plum County, this county, but were heroically driven off by a 16-year-old boy, who with an old-fashioned shot gun successfully held the robbers at bay, although he himself received a pistol wound that may yet prove fatal.

Len Fortune is the name of the lad. He is an orphan, and for some time past has lived with the aged Miss Jane Richardson, whose reputed wealth—gold hidden in a trunk—made her and her lonely little home in the woods a target for burglars.

The attempted robbery occurred last Wednesday night and the men under arrest, and one of whom has confessed, are West and Samuel Stanford, brothers, and Silas Caruahan and Henry Strahl, father-in-law and son-in-law respectively.

It was after 9 o'clock at night when Miss Richardson was awakened by a terrific thumping on the door of her little home. She called to the boy, Len Fortune, but before he could raise the window she saw the robbers at bay, although their mission might be the front door gave way in the face of their onslaught and a minute later the inmates of the house heard several men coming upstairs.

But young Fortune was not cowardly and he held the intruders at bay and he had them. In reply a pistol bullet imbedded itself in the ceiling above him.

Then it was that the lad, having armed himself with the old-fashioned shot-gun, put himself on the defensive. He fired in the direction of the men, who by this time had halted at the foot of the stairs. His salute was answered by two pistol shots and instant death struck him in the side. Nothing daunted, however, he fired the second barrel of his gun, and a moment later he had the satisfaction of hearing heavy footsteps descending from the yard outside.

Relucting his gun, young Fortune fled across the fields to his nearest neighbor, a half-hour later two young farmers, R. M. Billig and George Graves, mounted on horses and heavily armed, started in pursuit of the robbers. The farmers followed four men's tracks in the snow, and after covering nearly 15 miles and just at the break of day, Billig and Graves came up with two men, who were almost exhausted from walking. They had two prisoners and before a half-hour had passed the elder of the two, who proved to be Silas Caruahan, confessed that he and his companion, Henry Strahl, a mere boy, were the robbers. They had stolen Miss Richardson's home the night before. Subsequently the other two were also captured while breaking away to escape from their home in Oil City.

At the jail Strahl confessed that it was he who shot young Fortune.

A Thermometer Free.

Warner's Safe Cure Co., of Rochester, N. Y., are sending out a limited number of accurate spirit thermometers graduated from 20 degrees below zero to 120 degrees above and mounted on heavy 4x6 inch card board, in red and green mail, free by air express on receipt of 2 cents in stamps, plus postage. To be sure, this free distribution is intended to advertise the celebrated Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure (see advertising columns) but nevertheless the thermometer will be a useful as well as an ornamental article for the home or office and well worth the little trouble and expense of sending for it.

Death in a Love Letter.

SHAMOKIN, Jan. 21.—Miss Helen McGrave, of Cameron township, found death in a letter to her lover. While moistening the back of the envelope preparatory to sealing it the young girl's tongue was slightly lacerated, from which she died Sunday.

The girl had a quarrel with her lover, Herman Schmitt, about two weeks ago, and he was gone; however, she repented, and for several days she worried over the affair, and sat down and wrote the letter, asking forgiveness and pleading with him to return. It is in sending this letter that her tongue received the laceration that caused her awful death.

Her tongue began to swell, and on the fourth day after the letter was mailed sharp pains racked her system. Doctors were called in, but after a careful examination found that she could not recover. The patient bore the announcement of her fate bravely, but asked that her lover be notified of her condition. His response was prompt and he arrived last Saturday, but only to find her dying. With tears in her eyes she asked him to kiss her, and then she sobbed in each other's arms. Death ended her sufferings early Sunday morning, and she was buried this afternoon.

No Use For An Undertaker.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Jan. 21.—Robert Richmond, a young man from St. Louis, was taken sick at Marfa, a small town 40 miles west of here on the Southern Pacific Railroad. He grew rapidly worse and became unconscious and his attending physician telegraphed the patient's parents in St. Louis that their son was dying. The parents wired instructions for the body to be embalmed and sent to St. Louis. There is no embalmment and undertaker near St. Antonio and a telegram was sent here for one. The young man was still alive, but his physical condition was positive he would be dead in a few hours.

The St. Antonio undertaker arrived at Marfa next morning, and found the young man still alive. He waited 36 hours and then pronounced him dead. Improvement. The undertaker left in the coffin for St. Antonio and Richmond was brought here on the same train, arriving last night. The trip did him so much good that he will now leave the hospital in a few days a well man.

Consumption.

Out-door life and Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites have cured thousands of cases of consumption in the early stages. They cure old, advanced cases too; but not many, nor so promptly. In these cases it comforts and prolongs life. Don't experiment with cures that destroy the digestion. Pin your faith to the one remedy which has been THE STANDARD FOR OVER 20 YEARS.

Blizzard in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 23.—The temperature in the Northwest has been dropping all day, and to-night it is excessively cold from Bismarck to St. Paul. It is twelve degrees below zero to-night here, and the prospect of a fine snow drop of ten or twelve degrees before daylight. No rise in the temperature is expected for at least three days. Trains are moving irregularly.

The State Treasurer of South Dakota, who is nearly $28,000, under a guard of militia, is stuck in the snow thirty miles east of Pierre. This cash is being taken back to the banks from which it was drawn.

Aberdeen, S. D., reports the present winter as breaking all records for heavy snow storms and early blizzards. Nearly six hundred miles of the Dakota division of the Northern Pacific was blocked by Thursday's storm. It will take days to clear the cuts. A dispatch from Willmar, Minn., says the storm of last night has kept up more or less all day. The wind reached a fearful velocity and heavy snow fell for years. The Sioux Falls train has not yet reached here, and the snow plow sent to help them is stuck near Hamlet Falls. Gary, S. D., reports thirteen feet 17 degrees below zero.

Child Found a Bear Cave.

DANVILLE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Little Elsie Yarrow wandered away from her home near Germania, in the Black Forest, one day last week, and all traces of her were lost. Her father had fallen ill, and searching parties were organized by Elsie's father. Tracks of the girl's feet were finally found, which led to a bear's den, where the child was found unconscious, though unharmed. The bear was killed.

The child doubtless wandered to the den in search of shelter.

The Greatest Menace.

Is a fit subject for pity if he is troubled with dyspepsia, while his poorest subject who digests properly may well be envied by a prince thus afflicted. The dyspeptic of every clime and nation owe a debt of gratitude to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which rescues them from one of the most agonizing and troublesome complaints against which modern medicine directs. On this continent, in Europe and in the tropics, this sterling remedy is pre-eminently and justly popular, not only as a stomachic, but also as a means of preventing and curing malaria, rheumatic, kidney, bilious and nervous disorders. It improves appetite and sleep, hastens convalescence and the acquisition of vigor after exhausting maladies, and counteracts the influences of age. A wineglassful taken before retiring has a tendency to promote tranquil, health yielding sleep, a boon much coveted by nervous invalids.

The End of Little Pete.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Little Pete, the most noted Chinaman in San Francisco, was murdered by his countrymen in Chinatown last night. He was sitting in a chair in a Chinese barber shop when three Chinese entered and shot him, inflicting a wound from the chest effects of which he died in a short time. The murderers were arrested.

The murder is the outcome of a quarrel between two of the Chinese Six Companies, and is supposed to have been the work of Highbinders hired to do the job.

Little Pete had a varied and remarkable career in San Francisco, and for years was the most influential Chinaman in this part of the country. Whenever any of his countrymen were in trouble Little Pete was called upon to help them, and he achieved a reputation for jury fixing that almost landed him in the penitentiary. He was at the head of the business of importing Chinese women to this country for immoral purposes, and was wealthy. Little Pete, although he spoke English fluently, retained his Chinese dress as a matter of policy. He controlled many of the gambling dens in Chinatown, and his revenues from that source were large.

Every Section of the Country in Winter's Iceless Grass. CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—The people of Chicago were aroused to-day to take prompt action for the relief of the city. The two-score suffering destitute inhabitants, whose throats for want of fuel, food and clothing had reached an extreme stage on account of the cold weather which came upon the city Saturday, increasing in intensity, until to-day it reached the lowest point officially recorded in a quarter of a century.

Between 5 and 7 this morning the weather bureau in the Auditorium tower, Park Street, reported that the thermometer stood 20 degrees below zero. Only once in the history of the bureau—Dec. 24, 1872, 23 below, has the temperature fallen lower.

Mr. Sewitt issued a proclamation this afternoon, appealing in urgent language to all who have the means to spare to contribute to one money and supplies to prevent the starvation and freezing of unfortunate thousands. He urged the subscription of $100,000 as being some 100 much to afford the help needed.

The doctors after exhausting their remedies, pronounced my case hopeless, saying they could do no more for me. At this time a bottle of AYER'S Cherry Pectoral was sent to me by a friend who urged me to take it. I did, and soon after it was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H. WARD, S. Quincy Av., Lowell, Mass.
