RODDY BOYS' INMATE

Robert Herdman, one of the principal witnesses against them, arrested on a charge of perjury.

Robert Herdman, of Johnstown, whose testimony went far towards forging one of the links in the chain of evidence presented against the Roddy boys, last Thursday night, learned that the defendant was absent from home attending an encampment of the Sons of Veterans at Gettysburg, on the morning of the 3d of June, when he was in the custody of the sheriff. He was released on the morning of the 4th of June, and returned to his home at Gettysburg, where he was arrested on the morning of the 5th of June, on a charge of perjury.

The facts leading up to the arrest of Herdman were uncovered by a reporter on the morning of the 5th of June, when he was released on the morning of the 4th of June, and returned to his home at Gettysburg, where he was arrested on the morning of the 5th of June, on a charge of perjury.

As soon as the facts above stated were made known to the counsel of the Roddy boys, they had James Roddy go before Esquire Cassaber and request an information charging perjury against Herdman. A warrant for Herdman's arrest was placed in the hands of Ex-Constable Jacob Fleck, who went to Johnstown Friday morning and that night arrested Herdman. He is said to acknowledge that he was mistaken in the date when he saw Roddy and Jackson, but when on the witness stand he was very positive and emphatic in stating that he saw Roddy and Jackson on the morning of the 3d of June, and that he saw them in the window frames and on the roof timbers. The entire building is heated by hot water and Hummel, who conducted a shop in Somerset, testified that he saw Roddy and Jackson on the morning of the 3d of June, and that he saw them in the window frames and on the roof timbers. Starting Fire Alarm.

The tolling of the court house bell at nine o'clock Friday night created an alarm which was quickly responded to by a large crowd of people, who were attracted to the court house building, where it was announced that the jail was on fire. The fire companies responded promptly to the alarm, and in a short time the fire was extinguished. The cause of the fire was traced to a pair of rags set on fire intentionally or by accident, and it was with great difficulty that the burning substance could be got at. The smouldering rags were finally looked out and the crowd dispersed.

The death trap is located in the main corridor on the second floor, and the inmates of the jail take their daily exercise and spend most of their time when not locked in their cells. A table is usually standing over the death traps, and it is believed that the prisoners placed the rags in the opening where they were found burning in the night. A pair of rags, which were found in the opening, were set on fire intentionally or by accident, and it was with great difficulty that the burning substance could be got at. The smouldering rags were finally looked out and the crowd dispersed.

A Former Somerset Barber Commits Self Murder.

Tired of life, Charles Robinson, a colored giant and splendid specimen of physical manhood, committed suicide yesterday morning between the hours of eight and nine o'clock, by hanging himself in the stable on his farm in the Loop, Frankstown township.

After eating his breakfast Mr. Robinson went to the stable, telling his housekeeper that he would return in a short time. He was not seen again until he was found hanging from a beam in the stable on his farm in the Loop, Frankstown township.

When the body was discovered, the sheriff was notified, and he was taken to the hospital. He was pronounced dead at the hospital, and his body was buried in the cemetery.
