It is which struck him in "less time than a man could count five" to use his own language. He did not fall but two comra les started for the rear with him. The Confederates charged and he told his omrades to lay down and save themselves which they did. Two balls passed through his lungs, one crushing the left shoulder blade, and causing the blood to spurt from his mouth. Two struck him in the side, one lodging under the hip bone and the other close to his spine near his kidneys; these two balls passed through a rubber blanket which he carried in a roll diagonally across his waist, which checked their force, otherwise they would have gone clear through his body and caused speedy death. The other three bullets made bad wounds. The tide of battle passed over him and McClellan's retreat left him in Confederate hands. The rebels cared for their own wounded first, occasionally giving corn pone when he asked for something to eat. He lay thus without attention or

Mr. Moses M. Taylor, Biackburn, Westmoreiand county, had a fleshy growth from the inner corner of each eye grow up over the pupil, blinding him so he could not work. Dr. Sadler, 894 Penn avenue, was consulted through Mr. Samuel Harris, whom the doctor had cured of the same thing. Mr. Taylor's eyes were perfectly cured also.

Mr. Geo. Meyers, Springdale, Pa., had the same kind of growth, which had advanced to the danger line. By the doctor's operation, by his special method, which after hundreds of trials has never failed, his eye is as perfect as ever.
