HE CURES AFTER ALL THERS FAIL.

The Most Successful and Scientific Treatment of all Diseases and Weaknesses of Mankind.

After Having Tried 8 of the Best Doctors in the Country, Without Avail, Dr. Salm Cured Her.

For more than 12 years I have suffered a good deal of pain, in fact, I was in distress and misery nearly all the time, particularly on sitting down. The misery was in my left side, in the region of the heart. It was very seldom that I could attend to my labors. I tried 8 different doctors, so said, the best in our country, but I got worse instead of better, at last, I went to Dr. Salm, who makes regular visits to Sunbury, and thanks to his skillful treatment, I am now entirely cured.

Mrs. L. B. Mansell.

Dewart, Northumberland Co., Pa.

Everybody Ought to Know What Dr. Salm Did for Me. He Cured Me of a Fearful Skin Disease.

For more than 4 years I have had a most terrible skin trouble, I seemed to be covered, like a fish, with scales all over my body, even to my face, not excepting my eyes. The pain was almost unendurable, and I walked the floor many a night, on account of my agony. To work was out of the question, nor could I wash myself. I tried a lot of our best doctors, spent money on Patent Medicines, such as Cuticura, Golden Medical Discovery, Ointments, etc., got treatment from the Pierce Medical Institute, Buffalo, but it went from worse to worse. Then I heard of Dr. Salm's wonderful cures in this neighborhood, took his treatment, and to-day, I am a new man. No more skin trouble. I am working again, and as well as ever. Everybody ought to know this.

Frank Richardson.

Donlo, Cambria Co., Pa.

After Having Tried Buffalo, Pittsburg Greensburg, and Indiana Co. Physicians Her Sufferings Grew worse and worse, but Dr. Salm Cured Her at Last.

For more than 10 years I have been leading a miserable existence, on account of illness. I have tried, at least 10 doctors in Buffalo, Pittsburg, Greensburg and surrounding Towns. My sufferings grew worse and worse. I became thin, too weak to work, and so many sleepless nights. Couldn't eat, as my stomach was out of order, and my nerves seemed all unstrung. I don't want to live through another such a time, for any thing in the wide—wide world, and often I have prayed to die. After I had given up all hope of enjoying health again, I decided to consult Dr Salm, and, thank the good Lord, that I did so. After a course of treatment, I once more enjoy fine health, eat, sleep and work once more, as heretofore. I am truly grateful to Dr. Salm. He certainly understands his business, as my case is not the only wonderful cure he has performed in this County.

Mrs. S. E. McCreary.

Tunnelton, Indiana Co., Pa.

A Fearful Case of Rheumatism Cured by Dr. Salm.

I have had a fearful case of rheumatism for over 3 years, so bad that I could not lift my arms to my head, and at every change of the weather the pains were most excruciating. Any one, having ever suffered with rheumatism, can only appreciate what I mean. I have only had 3 month's treatment from Dr. Salm, you might almost say, I am cured, and I am happy once more. I was 71 years old at my last birthday.

J. D. Gardner.

Eating In India.

Colonel Pollock, who has had a half century experience in India, asserts that now it is almost impossible to procure there a good curry. The sorts commercially prepared and sold all over the world give no idea of the genuine article. To procure it in perfection is now only possible in Madras, where it is considered worthless unless it be absolutely fresh—that is, made from newly plucked cocoanuts. The deterioration of curry is in proportion to the lack of this essential quality. How far commercial preparations of the powder are inferior may be easily imagined, as they may remain for years on the shelves of dealers before use. Colonel Pollock speaks highly of the merits of East Indian cooks. In the training, however, they have acquired in the European cuisine they have lost the art of concocting their own native dishes. He makes one exception, and that relates to what he calls a Bengal steak, made of old cocks or ducks, which he declares is better than the juiciest rump steak obtainable in England.

In contrast to Colonel Pollock's picture of the epicurean delights of India we have one of a correspondent who is now in that country and is recording his impressions. He says that for food the traveler is in a bad way. Vegetables are sapless, and it is now considered unsafe to eat them on account of the presence of the bubonic plague. Meat and fruit predispose cholera. Fish is forbidden by taste and prudence. Milk and butter are more than suspicious, and soda and ordinary water are filled with dangerous germs. Soda water is made from local stagnant pools. The only safe thing is whisky.—New York Sun.

Shocked the Boston Ear.

The horse came tearing madly down the street. The coachman had jumped to save his life and the beautiful girl inside the coupe screamed for help.

Suddenly the man from Boston darted out in front of the wild eyed steed. It seemed suicidal, but upon the brave fellow's face was a look of determination that would have been the glory of a knight of old.

Bracing himself up for the shock, he awaited the opportunity that Providence seemed to have intended him for, and the people upon the sidewalks stood breathless.

With a bound the frightened brute was upon him. He clutched the reins and swung himself out of the way of the beating hoofs. The coupe swerved and was almost overturned, but righted itself, and in a moment the heroic deed was accomplished. The trembling steed stood still, the fainting girl was lifted from her perilous position.

"Where is he? Where is he?" she cried, and her rescuer was pointed out.

Without waiting to be introduced the beautiful creature flung herself upon his breast and cried:

"Oh, sir, you done noble."

A deathly pallor overspread his face. He tore away from her, and as he galloped madly from the scene muttered:

"Great heavens! She's from Chicago! Oh, that I had known it before I ruined my 50 cent pair of suspenders! But that is what comes of allowing oneself to be swayed by impulse."—Cleveland Leader.

Wealth.

Wealth is a blessing when properly used, and the mere fact of any man possessing it can by no possibility be held against him unless he came by it through dishonest or fraudulent means. One might ask with some show of reason, where would the hospitals, the infirmaries, the charitable institutions, the halls of learning and the thousand and one great interests of this country be had they not been endowed and assisted by people of means. There are many people in this country today who owe their education and training largely to the benevolence of those who gave of their substance to keep up the schools and colleges.

The American people are gifted with a fair average of good sense, and while they may for a time join in the outcry against the capitalist, as such, they can scarcely fail to come back to their normal, rational level and look upon these outbreaks as sensational, injurious, unjust and wholly uncalled for.—New York Ledger.

Reciprocity.

William Abraham, a Welsh member of the English parliament, who formerly worked in the pits and now is a Radical miners' representative, was one of the chief singers in an eisteddfod several years ago when the guest of honor was Adelina Patti. At the close of the performance, with which she was much pleased, she requested that Abraham might be introduced to her. Naturally quite proud of the honor, the musical miner and M. P. presented himself.

"Mr. Abraham," said the lady, "you sing very well."

"And, madam," replied Abraham, with a bow, "so do you."—London Tit-Bits.

Had to Admit It.

"Do you mean to tell this jury," roared the lawyer, "that you never spoke to the accused and yet know him to be an actor?"

"That's what, for he wore a fur trimmed overcoat, low shoes and white cotton socks."

"We admit, your honor, that the prisoner at the bar is a tragedian."—Detroit Free Press.

The most extensive wine cellar in the world is owned by the Roumanian government. A railway tunnel 2,600 feet long between Galtaz and Barbosh could not be used for railroad purposes because of inferior construction. Its cost was nearly 4,000,000 francs. It was leased to a wine dealer, who has turned it into an immense wine cellar.

The 5,000 horsepower pumping engine in the mines at Friendsville, Pa., raises 17,500 gallons of water at each revolution of the gigantic flywheel.

Sources of Gutta Percha.

Gutta percha, like india rubber, is obtained from the juices of certain trees and climbers. The best is produced by a tree, the Isonandra gutta, of the order Sapotaceæ, which formerly abounded at Singapore and in all Malaysia, but which now tends to disappear under the ravages committed by gatherers. Gutta, in Malay, signifies gum or lime; percha signifies scrap. Incisions are made in the bark, as on rubber trees, and the liquor flows of perfect whiteness, darkening at contact of air. Coagulation takes place spontaneously in a short time. Like rubber, the liquid forms a film on top. This cream is removed, kneaded into a large lump and plumped into boiling water. Under the action of a high temperature it softens and forms the cake usually found in commerce. Other trees in Malaysia and farther India, in Cambodia and Cochin China, produce good gutta.

In Hindustan different grades are mixed by the natives. Chinese merchants, in their depots, mix and manipulate to give a good superficial appearance to the product, as the price is constantly advancing. As the gatherers also do not scruple to add vegetable debris, earth or sand, it has become difficult to secure a pure article. An inferior quality is obtained from trees and climbers in Africa and Madagascar, and, with the development of those countries, more may be expected.—Clarke Dooley in Popular Science Monthly.

Java is very thickly populated, and cultivation is pushed to an extraordinary distance up the steep slopes of the hills. The plain of Leles in the month of July "is one sea of ripe golden rice, with here and there a village of brown thatch roofs nestling in a group of green cocoanut trees." In the middle of the island white chimneys of sugar mills peep above miles and miles of sugar cane fields.

Farm Notes.

Be careful to avoid musty feed of whatever kind with horses, whether hay, straw, corn or smaller grain. It is dear at any price. Give only good, sweet hay or fodder, and clean, sifted grain. Every wise farmer has studied the problem of feeding for himself, but there are some who yet need just so much caution as this.—Farmers, Voice.

There are farms which are year after year almost barren of fruits or vegetables, yet an eighth of an acre for a garden and a half acre in selected fruits will supply a large family abundantly with fresh vegetables and fruit. Why are men so short-sighted?

For field culture of the sunflower the rows should be about 3 feet apart and the plants in the rows from 12 to 18 inches. The Russian sunflower is considered the best. The feeding value of sunflower seed is similar to that of cotton-seed.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

Be sure and have your sweet potato ground ready so as to plant out the slips when it rains and at odd times. If the ground is in good fix and the plant strong and vigorous, no need to wait for rain. Water freely at planting time, pouring round the plant and covering the hollow place with dry soil to prevent baking.—Texas Stock and Farm Journal.

Don't spray the blossoms with poisonous solutions. It is possible, if not probable, that to do so may injure bees, and may also interfere with fertilization of the flowers and setting of fruit. Vermont's law imposes a penalty of $10 to $40 for spraying blossoms. Bees don't injure flowers or fruit, but aid in fertilizing blossoms. The unanimous verdict of experiment stations and experts (says L. R. Jones, botanist, Vermont station) is that it is not necessary to spray fruit trees when in blossom in order to give them practical protection against insects and fungus attacks. Fruit trees should be sprayed either before the blossoms open or after they fall and not during the blossoming period. The leading orchardists in the country at the present time are following this advice with satisfactory results.

That Precious Baby.

From the Philadelphia Record.

Don't think because your mother raised her children in the old-fashioned days, before children were raised by system, that she knows nothing about the proper way now.

Don't bore your friends by always talking of baby and detailing his or her smart saying. They can not be expected to feel the absorbing interest in them you do.

Don't teach your lads and lasses to say papa and mamma if you want to be up to date; plain mother and father is the thing now, and nothing is so beautiful.

Don't underfeed your baby by sticking too closely to a system as laid down in some book that dictates so much food so many stated periods of the day. Many children have grown puny and weak from this cause.

Don't overfeed your baby and thereby give it a pain in its little stomach by giving it too much work to do.

Don't try to take the advice and adopt the methods of all your friends who have lately become matrons. Inexperienced mothers are apt to try too many plans to their child's detriment.

Don't break your promises to a child; they remember better than you do, and a breach of faith is a great shock to them.

Don't be afraid to begin too early to train and teach a child to obey and form good habits. Almost from earliest infancy a child knows and can be taught that which will cause you much trouble, and some unhappiness to eradicate later on.

Don't put your children aside for anything. Make their comfort and welfare together with your husband's your first consideration.

Don't for the sake of style, or having them look nice, have them dressed too fine to play happily. City children, that are always attended by a maid, miss much that the free country child can have in food, romps in green fields and in plain clothes.

Adulterated Paris Green.

Orchadists who are preparing to spray for codlin moth should be on their guard against adulterated paris green. A rough but fairly accurate test can be made by placing a small quantity upon a pane of glass, and holding it in a slanting position, tapping gently with the finger until the material all runs off. If the film adhering to the glass is of a uniform, bright green color, it is probably pure. If there are white or colored streaks in the film it should be rejected, as it is impure, and as the amount of adulteration is not known, no estimate can be made of the amount to use. With pure paris green the proper proportion is 1 pound to 200 gallons of water. Under the new Colorado law trees can not be sprayed with poison during the blossoming period, on account of the injury to bees, but may be sprayed as soon as the blossoms fall and for the codlin moth any time within ten days thereafter will answer just as well.—Denver Field and Farm.

About Good Roads.

On an ordinary dirt road a horse can draw three times as much weight as he can carry on his back. On a good macadamized road the animal can pull three times as much as on a dirt road, while on an asphalt pavement it is said that he can draw 11 times as much as on a dirt road, or times as much as he can carry on his back.—Wisconsin Agriculturist.

It is estimated that, in existing conditions, a locomotive can haul a ton of wheat a mile more cheaply than a farmer can a bushel. The importance of having good highways in connection with railways is shown by the fact that it costs more to get the average bushel of grain from the farm to the railway station than from the station to the seaboard.—Exchange.

What We Inherit

We are not to blame for. We can not be held responsible for the dispositions and tendencies which we derive from our ancestors, nor are we responsible for the germs of disease that manifest themselves in our blood as a heritage from former generations. But we are responsible if we allow these germs to develop into serious diseases which will impair our usefulness and destroy our happiness. We are responsible if we transmit to our descendants the disease germs which it is possible for us to eradicate by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier. This medicine has power to make rich, red blood and establish perfect health in place of disease.
