Discharged This Morning. RODDY MURDER CASE THURSDAY.

Regular form of criminal court conrened at 10 o'clock Monday morning with Judge Longenecker and Associate Judges Torner and Black on the bench Allegheny. Attorneys for the Roody boys, charged with murder in the first degree, asked the Court to make an order directing that the County Commissioners arrange to pay the expenses of twenty witnesses for their clients, alteging that their clients

s attending to legal business in Somerwere unable to do so, and that the presnee of the witnesses named was necessary in order to establish their innocence. Judge Longenecker referred the matter to the solicitor for the County Commissioners who refused to make the order in the abscence of an act of Assembly requiring them to do so.

The President's Favorite. Of all the McKinley nieces, says a writer in Harper's Bazar, Miss Mabel McKinley, daughter of Abner McKinley, seems to be the favorite; at least this is so among the McKinley family itself-She is not only pretty to look at, but charming in manner, and possesses that rare and all-winning grace in a woman, a sweet, modulated voice. She is a cultured musician and a student About her there is little of the smart, assured wordly air seen in so many modern maids. She seems like the old-fashioned flowerlike girl eulogized by the poets a decade ago, but to this great charm are added the interest of modern culture and the spice of independence. The family say that she makes her friends according to her will, and is as stanneh to them as her uncle was to his duties as a soldier and to his political convictions. Her relatives give her the pet name of "Sunshine," She is slight, fair of skin, with blue eyes, 28, 29.
