They Kept House and Got The

My favorite boarders in the oak were the gray squirrels. The boys knew their hole from the woodpeckers' at a glance, for it was in the living trunk of the tree, and the red brown margin always showed where their powerful teeth had been cutting away the bark that threatened to grow in and close them up. I have oftened wondered how the woodpeckers knew that it would imprison them, and that they must put up with while doing so. Any other occupation the dead limb.

As for the grays, they were not afraid to live in the heart of the oak, and what stores of nuts, harvested in the hickories | pal. on the hill they did manage to "tote" up there. The abduction of their pretty children did not seem to weigh much on their minds. They gave no sign of the poignant grief, not to be comforted, that I have seen, for instance, in bluebirds whose nest had been despoiled, but refitted their den as snugly as before and raised another family.

When my sonirrels went harvesting, one of them first held his head in the month of the hole for half a minute to see if the coast was clear. Presently out he whisked and stopped again to make sure, while bis mate followed. Then Mr. Squirrel gave a rasping, long drawn bark of defiance, which must have filled his lady's heart with admiration for his boldness and with apprehension lest | ble. Then-if you didn't betray yourself and send both scampering in wildest fright back to the hole-after playing hide and seek for a few moments they ran in single file out to the topmost twigs of a great bough, gained a branch of the neighboring bare walnut and, crossing to its farther side, made a des perate flying leap into the top of a young hickory. Running half way down this, they used a succession of dogwoods and oak saplings until they had reached York, made the first portrait photothe grove of tall, straight hickories on graph. To the monastery of the Grand Chartreuse women, as a rule, are inexorably refused admittance, only a very few having had the privilege of seeing the Carthusians (monks of the order) at home. A story is told of a French daughter of Eve, blessed with even a greater share of curiosity than that possessed by the generality of her sex, who, having heard from her husband and brother of their late interesting visit to the monastery, tried by every means in her power to effect an entrance there, but all to no avail. Determined, however, by book or crook, to succeed, she at last hit upon the happy idea of presenting herself there dressed as a man, managing to persuade her husband to allow her to do so, and to take her with him on his next visit.

The Search For Truth. In the search for truth no aid is so effective as the ever ready spirit of acsivity. He who postpones putting what he knows into practice until he knows more will find his journey a long and discouraging one. Carlyle well says: "Conviction, were it never so excellent, is worthless till it converts itself into conduct. Nay, properly conviction is not possible till then, inasmuch as all speculation is by nature endless and formless. Most true is it, as a wise man teaches us, that, 'Doubt of any sort cannot be removed except by action." On which ground, too, let him who gropes painfully in darkness or uncertain light and prays vehemently that the dawn may ripen into day, lay this other precept well to heart, which to ale was o invaluable service, 'Do the duty which lies nearest to thee,' which thou knowest to be a duty. The second duty will already have become clearer."

by Dr. Salm.

For more than 3 years our 2 children have been suffering from exturn and thront troubcase of cutarrh, stomach and general frouble.
Took cold continually. For one and one-half years I could eat only bread and milk. Tried 9 different doctors to get rid of my misery,
but got worse and worse. So I went to Dr.
Salm for treatment, and to-day I am as strong

Going to Die, but Dr. Salm Cured me.

For 2 years or more I have had a fearful trouble, began to get very weak. My limbs would not earry me any more. Couldn't walk a stretch of 15 yards, and my heart would beat at a fearful mte at the least exertion. It seemed my blood turned to water. I gradually became pale as one dead. I was no earthly asset to any one, and all my heighbors and relatives thought I was going to the. Home does too any one, and all my heighbors and relatives thought I was going to the.
