The best thing to do for the protection of wheat from the fly is:

2. Do not plant the wheat (except the small piece just spoken of), until about September 20th; by that time almost every fly will have died, and there will be none left to lay their eggs when the wheat comes up.

There is a tendency in Pennsylvania, as well as elsewhere, for the farmer ench year to get his sowing done a little earlier than the year before. This is directly favorable to the fly. Wheat winter kill, and this method has been tried in states farther north than Pennsylvania for many years with success.

3. Some kinds of wheat are less attacked by the fly than others.
