HMONG the financial concerns of ers that he decided that there was an opening for an enterprise of this charneter. He called to his assistance his son, Geo. R. Scull, Esq., and to his efforts and well-known business enterprise is due, perhaps greater credit than to any other for giving Somerset county an exceptionally well-conducted bank. Nach well-known and influential citizens and business men as John R. Scott, Eq., Charles H. Fisher, Valentine Hay, Esq., Michael Stpc, James L. Pagu, Esq., George R. Parker, Jacob S. Picking, William B. Mer, Fred. W. Biesecker, William H. Miller and others were readily induced to invest some of their surplus capital in the renture.

Application was made to the Comptrofler of the United States for authority to institute the First National Bank, of Somerset, with a capital stick of $50,000, and immediately after the application was granted the bank was organized with the following efficers: President, Edward Scull; Vice President, Valentine Hay ; Directors, James L. Pagh, Chas. H. Fisher, John R. Seatt, Larue M. Hicks, Geo. R. Scull, W. H. Miller, and Fred W. Biesecker. Andrew Parker was elected cashler.

On the second day of September, 1850 the First National opened its doors wide experience, clear-headed, painsfor business in a frame building on the taking and always alive to the interwhich it occupied for a period of six one of that pleasant class of gentlemen weeks until its present banking house, whose good fellowship, fondness of anof $50,000 and at the close of the fiscal

Mr. Reitz is known as a straight, opright man in his dealings, and all he asks of the people is to give him a trial. To the farmers who have never been to his mill we say, come once and you will be treated so nicely you will return again. His mill has a capacity of one bundred barrels of flour per day and is busy supplying the demands of the trade that his good work has built up for him.
