THE DREAM-GOD.

Adown the winding thoroughfare The rosy dream-god came. "Here's dreams for sale?" rat "Ho! dreams of wealth and fame!"

The throngs they wavered round him Like eddies on a stream; The old and sear, the young and fair, All strove to buy a dream. "Ho! dreams for sale, for one and all! Old maid, here's youth again;

Here's beauty, for a pittance small, That made you loved of men ! Old man, here is a dream for you. A brimming oup of foy: Lift to your lips the Magic brew, And be once more a boy !" Youth bought "To-morrow" dreams, Bought dreams of "Yesterday:"

The fool was there, so was the sage, Each took a dream away. and, Sweetheart, prithee let me add That, ere he passed from view, I gave bim all the gold I had, And bought a dream-of you! - The Century.

A Vegetable Explosive.

A curious fruit has been discovered growing wild in Batavia and a sample has been sent to a French professor of botany at Paris. It appears to be a species of bean, resembling a cigar both in form and color, though only about an inch in length. But it has a peculiar characteristic which renders it a very unique and interesting object, and this is the exceedingly energetic manner in which it scatters its seeds. If one of these little fruits be thrown into a basin of water it will rest quietly on the surface for from two to live minutes, then it will explode with violence, hurling most of its contents into the air with a noise and splash for all the world like a small torpedo. It is hardly necessary to say that this phenomenon is eaused by the pressure of the elastic substance of its interior overcoming the resistance of its hard outer shell.

The fruit usually splits open lengthwise. If plucked before maturity and allowed to ripen in a warm spot, it opens gradually from apex to base, making, as it were, a pair of diverging If left to ripen on the plant, since the that which takes place when it has been placed in water. In this case the dry but porous tissue of the surface of the fruit quickly absorbs the liquid, especially at the grooves caused by the lunction of the two valves or outer shells of the fruit. The internal tissue being very elastic, exerts upon the latter a tension which soon results in the violent bursting already described. The eurious property of explosion is given the little plant for the dissemluation of its seeds, which would otherwise stand a poor chance of propagating its species.
