These lessons on "intelligent voting" are given in secret, behind closed doors, and by such past-masters in the art of 'intelligent voting" as D. J. Horner, W. H. Koontz, J. A. True, the discussion of such topics a the organization of a "McKinley League" would seem to be out of place. President McKipley has always been known as a firm believer in party regularity, organration, majority rule, and unalterably opposed to "kicking," "bolting," or 'scratching" a regularly nominated ticket, so that the name is apparently a misomer, and, we are informed that the "McKinley League" scheme has already been abandoned as it was considered too dangerous a "fake," it being difficult to make voters believe that it was necessary to hold secret meetings, where none but the truly good could be admitted, for the innocent purpose of organizing a "Me-

Kinley League." The first lessons in "intelligent voting" were given at Jenners some ten days since, but the doctrine attempted to be enitentiary on the two bills of indict- taught does not seem to have been acceptable to the Republican voters of that township, who naturally think themselves sufficiently intelligent to do their own voting without instructions from Assemblyman Koontz, his side-partner and obiquitous shadow, D. J. Horner, J. A. Berkey, et. al , and they rightfully resented the insult attempted to be placed upon them, and to such an extent that the "bosses" received word from one of their "sub-bosses" at Jenners a few days after the meeting to the effect that "that meetin' had stirred up mullin in Jenner township, and that onless the slated candidstes could get in there and stem the tide, Jenners could be counted as lost to the cause of 'boss' dictation and minori-

Unique Position of Samuel Peter Meyers Twice Convicted of Murder in the First Degree.

CASE WITHOUT A PARALLEL.

At 4:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the jury returned a verdict of murder in the first degree in the case of Samuel Peter Meyers for the killing of John Lenhart. The jury retired shortly before 2 o'clock and their deliberations occupied two hours. The solemn countenances of the jurors when they filed into the box aided ill for the defendant and no surprise was expressed when their verdict was announced. The defendant was noticeably affected during the formalities of taking the vardiet, and once resumed his seat, but quickly arose to his feet when Attorney Holbert told him to do so. His face was ashen white and he shifted neasily from one foot to the other When the verdict had been recorded Attorney Holbert asked that the jury be polled and as each juror arose to his feet Meyers elevated his eyes and looked straight into the face of the juror. Mr. Holbert received permission from the Court to file motions for a new trial and in arrest of judgment within four days

Anticipating that the application for new trials will be denied and that the two cases will be taken up for review by the Supreme Court, and that the verdicts will be affirmed by that body, his counsel may still have recourse to the Board of Pardons. Should the Board of Pardons refuse a pardon or commutation of sentence it will then devolve upon the Governor to issue two murder of John Lenhart.
