LONGER A MYSTERY Harry Weller and Milton Sheets, Aged 18 and 19 Years Respectively, Confess That They Committed the Crime. MAKE CONTRADICTORY STATEMENTS. Shests Put on a Bold Front, but Finally Weakened When He Learned That Weller Made a Clean Breast of it. The mystery surrounding the murder of Mirth. ingustus Glessner, who was found in a condition on the public road a mile and a half from Berlin on Sunday mornng, October 20th, has been cleared up. Harry Weller, aged eighteen, has made a full confession, admitting that he was an accessory before the fact, but he places cinn.) the blame for the foul deed on Milton Milton Sheets, aged nineteen, has also Bread made a full confession, but claims that he was lead into the awful crime by young Weller Both of the self-confessed criminals winter at Lakewood, N. J., among the are in the county juil, where they are not in the hope of benefiting his permitted to communicate with one Young Weller had been under surveillance by detective James Egan, of Pittsburg, who was employed by the county authorities to ferret out the murderers of essner, for more than a week. Yesterday morning Egan interviewed several of Weller's young companions with the result that Reed Warshall agreed to pump Weller. Marshall not only succeeded in getting Weller to make a full confession, but induced him to visit the scene of the tragedy and recovered the bludgeon that had caused Glessner's death. After securing their work. a confession from Weller, Marshall took him before Justice of the Peace Robert Heilley, when it was decided to bring him here to jail. Egan soon learned that Marshall had secured a confession Weller implicating Milton Sheets, who was employed as a toby roller at Bob Cober's cigar factory in this place, and he telephoned Sheriff Hartzell to place tricken with paralysis.
