The people of Somerset will have just cause to hall the day when either the property in this vicinity for the purpose of utilizing it for a soldiers' home or a State institution, but is there any good reason why they should convey the privilege of utilizing their public highways to an individual or corporation who desires to be relieved of an unprofitable investment? Are the streets of Somerset to be given gratuitously to included in the sale of a property in which the municipality has no interest in the world?

As said last week, if the right to utilize the streets of Somerset for street railway purposes is of value to strangers, it is certainly of some value to the ownersthe people-and should not be voted away at the solicitation of an unknown protnoter, whose obvious object is to hawk the property and rights of others porate advantage and to the future disadvantage of the owners thereof.

The sixth clause of the ordinance inroduced in the personal or corporate interests of Mr. Scott is altogether too ingenious to escape attention. It provides that after the expiration of twenty-five (25) years the borough of Somerset shall have the option of acquiring the plant of the traction company.

Existing laws do not contemplate or provide for municipalities acquiring or operating street railways and it is not probable that that function will be given structed on an improved modern plan, with solid foundation and roadbed, and them in the future; and in case it should be, would it be expedient for the present an agreement for an unborn generation Fifteen years ago the person or syndi-
