UP HEAD ON A BLUNDER.

Erroncous Answer Winn Commendation From a latin Teacher. "The class in Latin will now recite," said the Latin teacher at one of the city high schools the other day. The members of the class in Latin, consisting of 30 or more bright looking girls, with three or four boys, came orward and took their places. All noved along smoothly until the declination of the noun "donum" was in order, and there was trouble. It was the ablative that caused the trouble. For the benefit of those not acquainted with the mysteries of Latin it may be mentioned right here that the ablative is "dono," and the pronunciation is the same as if one should say "don't know," slurring the two words, as is so frequently done, to "don' know."

"Miss Jones," said the teacher to the head of the class, "what is the ablative of 'donum?'"

Miss Jones gave her version and was told to sit down. The question in the class, all falling, until it reached the last, a boy who had a reputation for baseball and football, but none for scholarship.
