CAUCUS ESSENTIAL TO PARTY SUCCESS

President McKinley Sets an Example to Pennsylvania Republicans.

BLACK EVE FOR BOLTERS

Thought They Were Strong, Insists Tpen Purty Layalty From Republican Nominees for the Congress and the State Legislature.

(Special Correspondence.) Harrisburg, March 13.-There has een considerable discussion of the estion of the propriety of the Republican organizations of the several of the state insisting upon candidates for nomination for congress, the state senate and the assembly pledging themselves if elected to abide by the action of Republican cuses. It is manifest that those who oppose such action have an ulterior purpose in so doing. Throughout the entire state there has not been a single Republican county committee which has declined to adopt such a resolution whenever it has been offered. The latest county to act in this respect was Lebanon, which on Satrday last, through the Republican county committee, decided to make every aspirant for congressional or state legislative nominations append his signature to a pledge to abide by will be the people's parks, free to all | the action of all Republican caucuses The offering of a motion of this character was quite a surprise to the local expect anything of the kind in Lebanon, where they thought they were in control of affairs political. Their success in a previous contest in the ounty made them imagine that they would have everything their own way. They have discovered that there has been a greaf change in sentiment, and not propose to indorse the action of men who, while elected as Repub licans, refuse to abide by the rules and traditions of their party. They recognize that a caucus is a prime necessity of any political organization. The American republic is founded upon the principle of majority rule. With this principle ignored all would be discord

CAUCUSES IN NATIONAL POLITICS. To preserve the integrity of the Republican organization of the United States and to sustain the McKinley administration it was necessary to call a caucus of the Republican members o the house of representatives at Washington last week, when the Puerto Rican bill was under consideration. It was believed to be absolutely necessary, if the policies of the Republica party were to be carried out, to have publican newspaper in the entire State | the Republicans of the house vote as a unit. There was a difference of opinion, even between the president and the ways and means committee, as to the hest metaod of treatment of the question of tariff for Paerto Rico. There was a very serious division in Republican newspaper opposes the pledg- Kinley administration sought to obing of candidates, for if the Gazette op- tain. Under these circumstances a conclusion was reached by which accordance with the action of the caucus. This was not an unusual action, but a time honored practice. When General Henderson was pro posed for the present speakership of the house of representatives at Washoment it ceases to be a Republican ington, there was a big field of asnewspaper, and that proves the "Tele- pirants for that honor. But when he secured a majority of the Republican aucus ell the other candidates gracefully abided by the action of the majority and he was elected withou trouble. Had the friends of the rival candidates for the speakership followed the example of the Flinn-Martin incurrents in Pennsylvania politics they would have bolted the Republican rancus and joined forces with the Bryanite Democrats. Then if they could not get one of their own number in the speakership they would have elected a Democrat to that important place. Caucuses in congress and every other legislative body in the United States are considered essential, and they are invariably called in the interest of either the Republican or Democratic party, as the case may be The caucus is a recognized institu tion in American politics and mer who take pride in the success of a povitality, and restore vigor to the weak littical organization to which they belong will always advocate the holding of the caucus to preserve the integrity and advance the interests of such or gunization. in the various counties of the commonwealth primary elections are beld. primary election is really a caucus. Voters choose either delegates to a onvention, or, in some counties, directly between candidates. When these candidates once have been nominated they become the candidates of the entire party. There is no other way of selecting them, and when party voters refuse to be governed by the will of the majority they become bolters. It is just as necessary for party caucuses to be held at Harrisburg when a Uniit is for counties to hold primaries or for congressmen to caucus over the selection of a speaker. In the last Senator Quay was made the nomines. the majority have been discovered Certain enemies of Quay refused to ties to visit the National Capital during a bolting party of their own. The result was cases. It is now proposed by the insurgents to cet up candidates in various districts who, while pretending to be Republicans, will refuse to unite with the Republican majority unless that majority should happen to go their Such methods do not commend themselves to honest men. If a candidate takes a party nomination it is his duty to sink his individual preference and abide by the majority decision. If it were not for the caucus 20 different Republican candidates might be named for senator, and in such a state of affairs it might well be that the Democrats would elect their candiis very well known that the Democrats will have a candidate for senator in the fey, and they will act together, and it is also very well known that the insurtheir own way of thinking to the leg- of kid gloves, slature will undertake to elect Demo cratic members. REEDER SELECTS NEW QUARTERS.

STALWART YOUNG REPUBLICANS.

They Are Lining Up With the Party Organization in Preparation for the Republican National Conven-

(Special Correspondence.) Philadelphia, March 13.-General Frank Reeder, chairman of the Reublican state committee, came to town a few days ago for the purpose of selecting new headquarters for the Republican state committee. The less on the present quarters, on Walnut street below Thirteenth, will expire shortly, and as it is the intention of the owners of the property to tea the structure down and rebuild for an apartment house General Reeder determined to lose no time in securing other desirable quarters. After an inspection of several sites he finally made a satisfactory arrangement with the owner of the premises formerly occupied by the Utopian club, a well known social organization of this city. This property is a four story brick structure originally intended for a residence, and it was so used for a number of years. General Reeder is having the building refitted so that several branches of the state committee work may be properly accomme dated. When the alterations in the building are completed it will be one of the best equipped and most desirable political headquarters in the REEDER'S INNOVATION.

It is noteworthy that to General Reeder must be given credit for the idea of having permanent headquar ters for the state committee, instead of following the practice of former years and locating in a hotel for a few weeks prior to each election. After each campaign the state chairman some years ago would bundle up the documents of the party and cart them off to a storage warehouse or to his own offices until they were needed in the following canvass. General Reeder declared when he first assumed the of "The Philadelphia Sunday Press" that that the great Republican organization of Pennsylvania should have a permanent home where its party council could be held if desired and where its valuable list of active Republicans. state, county and vigilant committee men, campaign documents and other data could be carefully arranged and have been occupied since 1892, and it | $5 each and one hundred of $1 each, so is worthy of comment that since these headquarters were secured the Republican party in Pennsylvania has not had a single candidate on the state ticket defeated and the majorities for Mayor Ashbridge has seured nearly three fourths of the guar antee fund of $100,000 which was promised to National Chaleman Hanna and the work of refitting the Export Expo sition building will be begun in a few days. The plane of the Republican clubs of this city for the entertainment of the visitors are being perfected, an the indications are that Philadelphi will surpass the efforts of any conven ion city in this particular. J. Hamp ton Moore, president of the State League of Republican Clubs, is at the head of the local organization, and he is co-operating with Mayor Ashbride in all the arrangements. There will be many clubs from the interior of Penn tions during the national convention week, and a number of them will have miformed delegations.

The occasion will be made one that will be memorable in the annals of stalwart Republican politics. With the presence of Chairman Hanna, Sen ator Platt, of New York, former National Chairman Carter, Senator Elkins, Senator Foraker and others of the stalwart Republican leaders there will be an inspiration to the party loving Republicans of the Keystone state. The insurgents, caucus bolters and par-iy wreckers will be entirely out of place at this gathering. The young Republicans of Pennsylvania will avail themselves of this exceptional opportunity to attend a Republican national onvention, and they are expected to flock here in great numbers. They are already getting in line throughout the state to be in touch with their party organization. The guerrillas of the Flinn-Martin combine, who have no respect for party organization and who recognize the rules of the party only when it is to their personal interest to do so, are finding out that the young Republicans of this state do not propose to follow their selfish leadership out that they are going along with the egulars and will be found working with them at the primary elections, and when the national convention meets they will come here in the ranks of the stalwart Republicans of Pennsylvania to march and cheer with stalwart Republicans from every state in
