Miscellaneous.

The tools with which editors hew out their fortunes—the "ads." Why is the sun like a good loaf? Because it's light when it rises. What State is round on both ends and high in the middle? Ohio. The nearest the Parisians can now come to mutton is a little raw weather. An African in a dress circle was the cause of a rumpus in a Richmond Theatre lately. The National Land Company, of Colorado have disposed of 84,000 acres of land since April. A Cincinnati thief stole an Episcopal minister's black silk robe, desiring the same for a masquerade costume. Wolves enter the churches in Duluth. One weighing 100 lbs. was recently shot in the Second Presbyterian Church. A Buffalo man aggravates his wife by wearing five bands of crape on his hat, which constantly reminds her that she is the sixth sharer of his affections. It was cold, in Ottawa, Canada, on Sunday night. One of the papers says that water left in kettles on the stove, with a good fire, froze solid. The Chicago Times in chronicling the fact that a man married to get out of jail, remarked that "some chap" have a queer idea of liberty. Josh Billings observes: "Secrets are kissed poor property, enny how; if you circulate them you loose them, and if you keep them you loose the interest on the investment." Daughter: "Well, to tell the truth, I do not think much of the close of the sermon." Father: "Probably you were thinking of the close of the congregation." A good deal of the consolation offered in the world is about as consoling as the assurance of the man to his wife when she fell into the river: "You'll find ground at the bottom." Olive Logan, in her advocacy of women suffrage, remarked to her male auditor, "that they had swallowed the negro, and," she added, "I think it pretty hard, indeed, if you can't go to the white woman as far as your lips."

SEASON OF 1870-71. MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS. Important Improvements. Patent June 21st and August 23d, 1870. REDUCTION OF PRICES. The Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., have the pleasure of announcing important improvements in their Cabinet Organs, for which Patents were granted them in June and August last. These are not merely meretricious attachments, but enhance the substantial excellence of the instruments. They are also enabled by increased facilities to supply all orders promptly. The Cabinet Organs made by this Company are of such universal reputation, not only throughout America, but also in Europe, that few will need assurance of their superiority. They now offer Four Octave Cabinet Organs, in quite plain cases, but equal according to their capacity to anything they make for $50 each. The same, Doubt's Reed, $65. Five Octave Double Reed Organs, Five Stops, with Knee wheel and Tremulant, in elegant case with several of the Mason and Hamlin improvements, $125. The same Extra with new Vox Humana, Automatic Swell etc., $150. Five Octaves, three sets Reeds, seven stops with Euphone; a splendid instrument, $225. A new illustrated catalogue with full information, and reduced prices, is now ready, and will be sent free, with a testimonial circular, presenting a great mass of evidence as to the superiority of these instruments, to any one sending his address to MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN CO., 154 Tremont Street, Boston, or 896 Broadway, N. Y. 4-6 P. M. Freight and Accommodation daily.

Newsy.

A Nova Scotia genius has invented a stove pipe damper that regulates itself by the thermometer.

The people of Peoria complain that they have much difficulty in digging wells, on account of the immense gold mine that underlies that city.

A New Year's Address, cleverly adapted from "Paradise Lost," was rejected by a Western editor as "miserable trash."

The deepest excavation in the United States is said to be a copper mine near Lake Superior. It is 1,300 feet deep.

Milwaukee was completely snowed under last Saturday and Sunday. Well, good night, old friend—we'll wake you up in the Spring, by thunder and lightning!

Sound! Gov. Hoffman says: "If the Government redeemed the National Currency in specie, a dollar greenback would be worth as much as a dollar in gold."

The Baltimore police have taken a census that makes the city's population 283,070, and they think it correct. The second Government census found 267,354 people.

Miss Ella Brown, of Boston, Mass., is in England trying to get that property of her relative, Charles F. Brown, "Artemus Ward," which the executors have never accounted for.

A Mr. Chikon, of Tennessee, has settled near Live Oak, Florida. He brought with him only eleven of his sons. The others will be along after a while.

The peculiar religious sect known as Dunkards have been opposed to college education, but having got over that, have just established a college at Bourbon.

A Corinne judge proposes to solve the Mormon problem by starting a grand gift lottery for some library, and put in all the extra wives of polygamy as prizes. The trouble is that nobody would want tickets.

Two newspapers in Halifax, the Chronicle and the Recorder, favor the American side of the fishery question, and fail to see the justice of the protection given to the Canadian fishermen by the Imperial and Dominion governments.

Washington county, Tennessee, is excited over the trail left in the snow by a serpent of paleontological magnitude. It can't be the great original serpent, however, for he only showed himself before the fall, whilst this one manifests a preference for winter, probably to avoid summary destruction.

Smith, the colored West Point cadet, is said by a disloyal person to have such long heels as to cause his next neighbor to step on them—and this is the cause of all the recent Court-martial. The Government can't afford to have its cadets riding around on Smith's heels.

Senator Conkling must be a wag, as well as an orator. The other day he congratulated a member of the House who had just concluded one of his great efforts, thus:—"A great speech—the best speech I ever heard delivered by a man who knew so little about his subject."

A writer in the National Standard gives a pitiable account of the squalid poverty prevailing among many of the blacks of Washington. Thousands of them, it seems, are there without employment, and the writer calculates that it would require a million dollars annually to relieve the wants of the indigent colored people.

The manufacture of beet sugar, which was commenced about a year ago at Sacramento, and from which much money was to be made, has been suspended. The cause of this is said to be the incompetency of the superintendent to make the business a paying one. The sugar produced from 3,000 tons of beets would, under the present system sell for $46,800; but it would cost $76,000 to produce it.

For more than a year two colored composers in the government printing office at Washington have applied to the Typographical Union for admission as members. On Saturday night the question came up again, and admission was refused. It is said that an appeal will be made Congress asking for an act to prohibit the Government Printer from employing members of the Union.

A lady traveling East to join her husband on the Pan Handle Road, in the express train which left Columbus the other night, unexpectedly gave birth to a bouncing girl, and a few moments after and just as the train crossed the Ohio line, the same mother gave birth to a fine boy. Twins certainly commenced life under extraordinary circumstances. Born on a fast-going Pacific train, the one in Ohio and the other in West Virginia, it is safe to promise they will be a remarkably fast young couple. The mother is represented as a most estimable lady, but not given to study almanacs.

Exotting.

A young lady of Terre Haute, is about to write a book on "What I know about Courtship."

In the Sandwich Islands it is death for a man's mother-in-law to visit him without permission.

A Richmond woman asks for a divorce, saying that she has not seen her husband since he murdered her father.

Waste-paper dealers will be interested to know that the "Patent Office Report" is going through the press at Washington.

"Father, won't you buy me a fish-pole?" said a pious boy. "You know the Bible says, 'Spare the rod and spoil the child.'"

A Chicago widow gave a druggist $1,800 worth of real estate to marry her. He took the property but refused to wed, and she sued him for his hand or money.

A Bostonian visiting England, a short time ago, was inquired of in London, "if the Indians in Boston worshipped at the same churches as the white residents."

Catskill has got the laziest man yet discovered. He got up the other morning with one ear frozen, because he was too lazy to turn over on the pillow to warm it.

A Boston papa the other evening gave his daughter in marriage, and threw in a matter of $200,000 in bonds and a house in New York city;—all of which was good to take.

A citizen of Newburg recently died penniless, who at one time lit his cigars with a five dollar note. If the bill wasn't a counterfeit his subsequent destitution was richly deserved.

A convention was held in Oregon lately to devise means for elevating the Indians of the Pacific coast. On the eastern reservations whiskey is found to be very effective.

"Why did Joseph's brethren put him in the pit?" asked a Sunday school teacher. The reply was, "Because there was no room for him in the family circle."

The approaching wedding of Wm. Sprague Hoyt, of the firm of Sprague, Hoyt & Co., of New York, with the youngest daughter of Chief Justice Chase, is announced.

Still another way of killing a cat has been found. One died recently in New York from licking the face of a lady who had just dressed herself for the street and had improved her complexion.

The St. Louis Republican is a Democratic paper, and the St. Louis Democrat is a Republican paper. It would be a great relief to the news editors of the country if they would swap names.

A certain editor wrote an editorial under the caption, "Shelling Paris." When the paper came out, and he saw his editorial headed "Shelling Peas," he was real mad.

Wendell Phillips says it is a mistake to teach the boy at school that there are thirty-seven States in this Union; there are thirty-six States and a railroad—the Camden and Amboy.

It took two or three hundred men two days to open one of the Chicago street car lines, after the great storm. The ice hugged the pavement most persistently, and the ax and pick were the only implements that could make any impression.

That man out West who is always doing surprising things, recently sent an order to Chicago for a piano, and soon after wrote to the dealers that he and his wife couldn't find the place to wind it up, and they wanted to be told at once how to make the thing go.

The testimony of the Salt Lake Tribune is that liberal sentiments are rapidly spreading in Utah. One thing is certain that if many silver discoveries are made in Utah, and railroads traverse the territory, it will no longer be Brigham Young's "pocket-borough."

A Rochester bill-poster, unable to get his money from a firm in that city, stationed himself in front of their store with a placard on which was printed, "Pay your debts." Having thus collected a crowd (but not the money) he was arrested, fined $10, and told not to do so again.

The Nathan's assassin, and the Rogers' murderer having been discovered—by the newspapers!—it is pretty certain that the inhuman wretch "who struck Billy Patterson" will be driven from his long hiding place! The outrage upon "Billy" is as old as the hills, but his friends are now more numerous than when the indignity was put upon him, and "they are eager for the fry!"

What do farmers persist in making many fences for? They little realize the fact the fences of the United States have cost more than the ships, boats and vessels, of every description, which sail the ocean, lakes and rivers; more than any one class of property, aside from real estate, except, it may be, the railroads of our country.

A hotel at Ellenville, N. Y., has one of its features, a "drunk room." When a transient customer becomes so much intoxicated that he is unable to take care of himself, he is put into this room and kept there until he is able to navigate. This is certainly a round in the ladder of progress. How long will it be before every hotel with a bar in it has its snug and cozy "drunk-room?"

Gossippy.

Early in life, Peter Cooper broke down in three different kinds of business, and then tried the manufacture of glue. That stuck.

A traveling piano player undertook to whip an Illinois editor, and when he got through, the piano pounder had only one ear for music.

The Columbia, S. C., Union complains that "a set of beardless, half-grown boys" have stolen the doors of a meeting house in that town. This it calls "pure cussedness."

Talk about proxy editorials. The London Times for Dec. 1st, 1870, had for its leader an article ten columns in length, containing over 13,000 words, mostly about the French war.

Mrs. Alice Cooley, of Natchez, is at work on a life-sized bust of the late General Lee. Here's a chance for Gov. Geary to protest against the competition of Cooly labor.

Mr. Arp, of Iowa, took home a can of the non-explosive kind the other day. Uncorking the spout led to the usual result. The dealer said he wouldn't have it Arpen for a dollar.

See to what woman's rights are bringing us. A man tried to commit suicide in Chicago because his wife wouldn't give him twenty-five cents so that he could play a game of billiards.

Haldeman, the member from York, has hopefully reformed since the fit of delirium tremens in which, last month, he so shamefully abused his wife, a daughter of Senator Cameron.

When Governor Merrell, of Iowa, visited the State Penitentiary and commenced a speech to the prisoners by remarking that he "Was glad to see so many there!" the was no applause, and he modified the sentiment.

Putting a stick of long wood in a short stove, then taking it out and placing it in a wood box and piling shavings on top of it, was the reason a New Albany man had to rent a house the next day.

Mr. Colfax has been presented with a mallet made from wood out upon the Mount of Olives. If the waving of that olive branch does not maintain peace in the Senate, let him bring down his other olive branch.

A colored pensioner of the war of the American revolution, named John Baden, died last week in Canada at the age of 105, having been on the pension list for more than eighty years. He fought on what was the "loyal" side of the period.

Indiana "cussedness" can go no further. Some wretch has stolen the only pair of boots owned by a Crawford county editor, thus confining him to the house till the opening of the barefoot season.

It took two or three hundred men two days to open one of the Chicago street car lines, after the great storm. The ice hugged the pavement most persistently, and the ax and pick were the only implements that could make any impression.

Amusing.

Paradoxical as it may appear, to become round it is necessary to eat square meals.

The shrinkage in the value of Pacific Railroad securities, within the last two weeks, is twenty-seven million dollars.

A medical journal estimates that the people of the United States pay $125,000,000 yearly for physicians' services and for medicines, but they spent a good deal more than that for liquors and other things to make them sick.

For many years popular opinion has declared that New York was the heaviest taxed city in the United States. Figures, however, show that the taxes of Boston, considering the relative amount of population, are greater than those of New York.

The Nation is responsible for the statement that "a story has been long current, and is tolerably well authenticated, that antipathy and distrust of Mr. Motley were first roused in the President's breast by seeing that he parted his hair in the middle."

Dr. M. S. Latham, of Laramie, Wyoming, has arranged to inaugurate sheep raising on the Laramie river, on the Union Pacific Railroad, on a scale that may enable the New England men who are in the enterprise in a few years to regulate the price of the wool market of the world.

Dr. Hammond advances the novel idea that Spiritualism is a disease, hysterical and cataleptic in its nature. He professes to be able to cure the worse case of medium by a treatment of iron and strychnine. The efficacy of the latter if taken in sufficient doses, may be safely warranted.

A sad instance of how much many people suffer, who are supposed by the world at large to be in comfortable circumstances, was seen in Jersey City on Sunday. A young lawyer, supposed to be doing a good business and who had many friends, was discovered to be insane, the cause being that for four days he had not tasted food.

The Mallet published at Wampun, Wis., has a subscriber who has been promising for years to pay his subscription in wood, and the editor, getting tired of waiting, has investigated the case, and found the nearest he has got to paying is to plant an acorn. When the tall oak grows up that editor is going to have all the wood he wants.

The Elmira Advertiser says: A young couple were married at Cattaraugus last week. The bride's shoes hurt her feet so bad that she had to sit down while the minister was performing the ceremony.—She said she wouldn't postpone the wedding, but would get married that night if she had to go to bed to do it.

The statement that the buffalo are deserting the plains is pronounced a fiction. They cover the plains for miles and miles. The railroad track bothers them. They consider it a snare and will not cross it. They run along by the side of the track for miles and when they come to a culvert dive under.

The census taker has brought to light the best living specimen of a man entirely without curiosity. The phenomenon resides in Indiana, and although he has been married five years, he doesn't know yet what his wife's name happens to be. He has felt satisfied to call her "Say" ever since he has known her.

Boxford, Conn., is a quaint old Puritan town—not a glass of ale sold in this place. It borders on eight towns, is eleven miles long and six miles wide, and has a population of eight hundred and fifty souls, about the same as one hundred years ago. Appropriately enough, the chief industry of the town is the manufacture of boxes for shoes and matches.

There is a paper in New Orleans that is strong on coincidences, and its latest is this: A child was stolen recently while the bells were ring for a fire in a certain building. The evening the child was found another fire occurred in the same building. An on Thursday morning last, when the trial of the abductors of the child was begun in the criminal court, the same building took fire a third time and was burned down.

The other evening Mattie Patterson delivered an excellent temperance lecture in Poughkeepsie, before a good audience. The Chief of Police of the city, in looking over some photographs sent to him to aid in making arrests, found the likeness of Miss Patterson in the collection. It was soon ascertained that she was a runaway wife, who had taken to lecturing to pay her hotel bills.

The third son of the Czar will come to this country next spring. He is twenty-one years of age, and has the rank of captain of the fleet and aide-de-camp to the Emperor. He will be accompanied by Admiral Poise, who superintends his studies. Prince Alexis has already been on a tour through Europe and Asia, and will travel throughout the United States. He will take a trip down the Mississippi and perhaps visit California.

The man who does not admire beauty in woman is not properly constituted. There is something wrong somewhere. His heart cannot be in the right place. For ourselves we often time our walk so as to meet the troops of young girls on their way to or from school. The sight of them does us good. The clear complexions, bright eyes, red lips indicate health and happiness. No cosmetics there! They have not yet arrived at that stage. The powdered beauty may be more distingue than the young girl whose cheeks are painted by nature, but she lacks the ineffable charm of freshness which men find so fascinating. In our opinion no lady adds to her beauty by the use of cosmetics. She may make herself more brilliant but clear rich blood that comes and goes in the cheeks of the rustic beauty is infinitely preferable. We know that the weary belle is strongly tempted the day after a ball when she expects her gentlemen friends to call to borrow the bloom dissipation has robbed her of. We advise her, however, to let cosmetics alone. Let her be natural and she will please all who are worth pleasing.
