Correspondence from Utah.

OPHIR CITY, UTAH, Aug. 27, '71. ED. REPUBLICAN:--Your excellent paper comes to hand every week for which I have to thank my cousin, D. W. Clark, of your place. It does me good to see a paper from "America," even though the place is strange to me.

I have been at work recently running an engine in a smelter, but at present am working at my trade, to-wit, carpentering. Am getting $4.00 per day, which is quite good wages, considering the price of provisions, as we can buy provisions here about as cheap as in Omaha, where they pay $1.50 per day, and work scarce at that. I suppose you will not have room for more, so I will close, wishing yourself and the REPUBLICAN a prosperous future. Yours &c., H. G. CLARK.

Alphabet of Proverbs. A grain of prudence is worth a pound of craft. Bonsters are cousins to liars. Confession of faults make half amends.

Dehying a fault doubles it. Envy shooteth at others and woundeth herself. Foolish fear doubles dangers. God reaches us good things by our hands.

He has hard work who has nothing to do. It costs more to avenge wrongs than to bear them. Knavery is the worst trade. Learning makes man fit company for himself.

Modesty is a guard to virtue. Not to hear conscience is the way to silence it. One hour to-day is worth more than two to-morrow. Proud looks make foul work on fair faces.

Quiet conscious gives sweet sleep. Richest is he that wants least. Small faults indulged are little thieves that let in greater. The boughs that bear most bend lowest.

Virtue and happiness are mother and daughter. Wise men make more opportunities than they find. You never lose by doing a good turn. Zeal without knowledge is fire without light.

After he built the Drew Church, one of his neighbors was inquiring of Daniel his experience about special providence. "Believe in special providence? Of course I do," said Daniel.

"Why, when I subscribed ten thousand dollars for that church I had no idea where the money was coming from, but Providence was with me. I went down to Wall street, got in with some of those New York smart fellows, and in less than six months I had skinned them out of ten thousand dollars as clear as a whistle."

A dyspeptic read that by sending a dollar by mail he would receive a cure for dyspepsia. He sent the money, and received a slip with the following printed on it: "Stop drinking and hoe in the garden." The man was mad at first, then laughed, and finally went to hoeing, and stopped drinking, and he is now as well as ever.

The Delaware Peninsula will, it is reported, this year ship three million five hundred thousand baskets of peaches, or five hundred thousand more than last year.

Twenty-five hundred women, convicted of setting fire, or attempting to set fire, to buildings in Paris, have been sentenced to transportation to New Caledonia.

The Earl of Shaftesbury used to say that all men of sense had one religion. "And what religion is that?" asked a lady. "That, men of sense never tell," replied the earl.

A gentleman in Massachusetts, from the 4th to the 25th of May, realized sixteen hundred dollars net from the sale of strawberries grown on six acres of land.

Those famous antique statues--the Venus of Milo and the Polyhymnia--were destroyed in the partial conflagration of the Louvre.

The cholera has appeared in the south of France. Measures have been adopted to prevent if possible, the spread of the disease.

An honest banker sometimes fails in making money, but a dishonest one makes money by failing.

The sting of a bee carries conviction with it. It makes a man a bee-layer at once.

The German army of occupation in France has been reduced to 150,000. Grocers are requested to remember that honest tea is the best policy.

Stage drivers look upon rainy days as peculiarly fare weather. Card players may know a good deal and then not be very wise.

France is now cruelly called the Gaul of bitterness. The rose that all are praising--he-roos.

Shocking--the telegraph business. The inodorous rose--shad roos.

CLIPTOGRAMS.

Not long since an elderly lady entered a railway car, and disturbed the passengers a good deal with complaints about a 'most dreadful rheumatism' that she was troubled with.

A gentleman present, who had himself been a severe sufferer with the same complaint, said to her, 'Did you ever try electricity, madam? I tried it, and in the course of a short time it cured me.'

'Electricity!' exclaimed the old lady; 'yes, I've tried it to my satisfaction. I was struck by lightning about a year ago, but it didn't do me a single morsel of good.'

A student who had been imbibing copious draughts of grape essence, and who was reveling in a harmless state of inebriation, overheard two gentlemen discussing the merits of the celebrated Galileo.

The worshipper of Bacchus interrupted the speaker by observing that, according to his ideas and views on the subject, Galileo was a fool. 'Why so many mental calculations to discover that the earth revolves? Three bottles of Burgundy enabled me to find that out.'

The 'local' of the Chicago Republican says: 'The newest method of making an honest living is to go round at night with an accomplice, and play tom-cat under the widows of irascible bachelors. Then they throw boots and boot-jacks, and hair brushes, and crockery, and--and things at you, and you pick them up and sell them for old rags. We got part of a bed room set worth $7.50 last night, and to-night we are going back to get the rest of it.'

Here is a good one on the 'tater bugs.' Three men were comparing notes: One says, 'There are two bugs to every stalk.' A second says, 'They have cut down my early crop, and are sitting on the fence waiting for the late crop to come up.' 'Pshaw,' said the third, 'you don't know anything about it. I passed a seed store the other day, and the bugs were in there looking over the books to see who had purchased seed potatoes.'

'What are you disturbing the whole house with your yells in this way for?' demanded a New Jersey landlord of a guest whom he found late at night seemingly in pursuit of invisible fees, and yelling at the top of his voice. 'I'm shouting the battle cry of freedom,' answered the guest, as he went ahead with his search and his yells.

A Norwich man is very angry with his wife. He bought an India rubber air-bed. She didn't believe it was healthy to sleep on a mattress that wasn't ventilated, and so during his absence punched about fifty holes in it. That husband has lost his faith in woman's ingenuity.

A country fellow came to the city to see his intended wife, and for a long time could think of nothing to say. At last, a great snow falling, he took occasion to tell her that all his father's sheep would be undone. 'Well,' said she kindly, taking him by the hand, 'I'll keep one of them.'

A gentleman in Chicago, who was accused for cruelty to a miserable looking horse, was asked if he ever fed him? 'That's a good one,' was the reply. 'He's got a bushel and a half of oats at home now, only he ain't got time to eat 'em.'

A husband advertises thus: 'My wife Mariah has strayed or been stolen. Whoever returns her will get his head broke. As to trusting her, anybody can do so if they see fit; for as I never pay my own debts it's not likely I'll pay her's.'

An old lady from one of the rural districts astonished a clerk in one of the stores, a few days ago, by inquiring if he had any yaller developments, sick as they as they did up letters in.

A lad in Hartford, whose fifth birthday occurred last week, asked his parents if the schools would keep open that day, adding, 'They didn't on Washington's birthday.'

An eccentric clergyman lately said in one of his sermons, that 'about the commonest proof we have that man is made of clay, is the brick so often found in his hat.'

'Are dose bells ringing for fire?' inquired Simon of Tibertus. 'No, indeed,' answered Tib, 'they abn got plenty of fire, and de bells are ringing for water.'

A Mississippi negro recently gave the following toast: 'De Gubernator ob our State--He come in wid very little opposition; he goes out wid none at all.'

Among the 'wants' in one of the papers is this: 'Partial board for single gentleman; house kept by a widow and daughter; busses and cars convenient.'

An Irishman, upon seeing a squirrel shot off a tree, said: 'Faith, and that's a waste of powder. The fall itself would have killed the squirrel.'

A bachelor in this city having read that the Chinese cement mended everything, is trying it on a shirt which he has just rented.

One of the neatest toasts ever given: 'Woman--The last words on our lips, because it comes from the bottom of our hearts.'

What evidence is there that there was beer in the ark? The kangaroo was seen to go in with hops, and bruin soon followed.

A Love-lorn New Orleans youth blazed away at his head with a pistol. Being brainless, he was not much injured.

'Sir, you have the advantage of me.' 'Quite right; you are quite right, sir. Almost everybody of common sense has.'

How to be happy on the cheap--Go without your dinner, and see how happy you will be--when supper time comes.

Half the vices in the world rise out of cowardice, and one who is afraid of lying is usually afraid of nothing else.

Why don't they take steps in Tartary to establish insane asylums? Because they're no mad people there.

A Doctor lately sent in a bill to a widow lady, which runs thus: 'To curing your husband until he died.'

A man in Kansas, on whose shoulder a lady laid a lash, didn't sue for damages, because it was an eyelash.

The reason why editors have their manners spoiled, is because they receive so many evil communications.

'Are cats good to eat, mother?' asked a little boy. 'Of course they are, my son--good to eat mice.'

On a gay widow giving up her weeds for colors--Behold how brightly breaks the morning!

Charley Howard has decided not to attempt performances upon the dramatic stage at present.

One ought to have dates at one's finger ends, seeing they grow on the palm.

Why are euchre players like old bachelors? Because they like a lone hand.

'Hold your jaw,' as the man said when his head was in the lion's month. No class put more real feeling in their vocation than pickpockets.

When is the wind like a certain fruit? When it is a current.

Why is love like a potato? Because it shoots from the eye.

A thing that should take well with every-body--Vaccination. 'You'll break my heart,' as the oak said to the hatchet.

According to one of the resolutions lately adopted at a Western women's rights meeting, "the most detestable sight ever seen is a parcel of old bachelors lounging around smoking and talking about the horrors of married life."

The capacity of women to bear arms, which has been urged against their claims to political citizenship, is alleged by the women's rights, was fully tested in Paris during the late reign of the Communists there.

A little four-year old girl who has 'been there' gives the following recipe for vaccination: 'Scrape your arm a little; scrape it till it hurts; put in a little putty; let it dry; and that's all--till it takes.'

A young woman employed in one of the Lowell mills spends her earnings in the study of phonography, rhetoric and French, intending to become a reporter, and eventually an editorial writer. Success to her.

'My dear,' said Mrs. Bumble to her daughter, 'you must have something around you in the carriage.' Miss B. mentioned the request of her mother to her beau, and he immediately complied with it.

Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau has developed remarkable popularity as a star. Her next season's tour includes all the principal cities of the country, and covers a term of nearly thirty weeks.

This remark was made by a young lady of St. Louis: "It is wisely ordained that the same wind that sweeps our dresses aside also fills the eyes of naughty young men with dust."

Jennie Collins "Biffin's Bower," in Boston, already at the end of its first year, is to be merged in a new institution, which it is intended shall be a great benefit to the sex.

A man in an ecstatic mood exclaimed, 'Woman is the primeval cause of all happiness; when a bystander remarked: 'No doubt, fog she is the prime evil herself.'

Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant has accepted a present of a spinning wheel tendered by the Belfast Linen Trade Committee, through the American Consul at that point.

This isn't very slow, is it? Two of the old Red Stockings have joined a choir. One of them officiates as short stop on the organ, and the other sings third base.

A Memphis belle challenged a man to marry. He valiantly accepted, and in twenty minutes there was a wedding. In twenty days more there was a divorce.

Miss Ada Shriver, daughter of Dr. John W. Shriver, of Dayton, has received the appointment of instructor of painting in the University of Michigan.

Tedesca, the lady violinist, is now at her family home in Baltimore, studying and increasing her repertoire for the autumn, when she goes back to New York.

Mrs. Conway is busily engaged upon her section of the Western Maryland Railroad. She is said to have been an active and energetic contractress.

A little girl wants to know if fleas are white because her uncle told her that "Mary had a little lamb, with fleeces as white as snow."

Wm. Horace Lingard, with the fascinating sweet Alice Dunning, arrived in New York from San Francisco, on the 10th--last Thursday.

Mrs. Jas. A. Oates, with a new company, will commence an engagement at Crosby's Opera House, Chicago, Illinois, September 18.

Charlotte Cushman is definitely engaged to play six weeks at Booth's Theatre, immediately succeeding the engagement of Lotta.

The illness of M'lie Marimon is said to have occasioned a loss to the management of the Drury Lane Opera of not less than $35,000.

The wedding trousseau of Miss Throckmorton, who was married a few days since in New York, cost twenty-nine thousand dollars.

Why is a woman tying her corset like a man drinking to drown care? Because, in so lacing herself, she becomes tight.

The Worrell Sisters and their dramatic company commenced a brief season at Dubuque, Iowa, July 27th.

The Lydia Thompson Troupe will not play in Chicago the coming season; nor in Baltimore, it is said.

A daughter of Josh Billings, recently married, is said to have been as beautiful as her papa is ugly.

Marion Taylor, a burlesque actress, who has talent as well as beauty, is disengaged in New York.

A Chinese actress is reported as appearing in London. She does not talk pigeon English.

Nine-tenths of all the school teachers in Massachusetts are said to be women.

A female latherer monopolizes the shaving business at Edinburg, Indiana.
