

OUR NEXT VICE PRESIDENT.

We take the following sensible article from the Meadville Republican:

The State Journal of the 10th has the following pertinent paragraph: "Pennsylvania has, without a doubt, earned, at the hands of the Republican party, a noble recognition in the coming national campaign for President and Vice President."

The remarks of the Journal with respect to the consideration to which our State is entitled from the National Convention of '72, will meet an approval all over the State.

The great advance in population since the present representation was fixed, renders it every way desirable that the membership of both branches should be considerably increased, and it is also shown by experience that a numerous body is less readily corrupted than a scanty one.

Mr. Scott is a young man, in the prime of life, being now forty-seven years of age. He has filled several public stations, and has always succeeded in retaining the confidence of those who elevated him to place.

When John Scott was elected United States Senator, he was not the candidate of any faction. In the absence of any one man of the older politicians, upon whom all parties could unite, a new man was found necessary, and he was selected with great unanimity.

At home, Mr. Scott is known as a pure Christian man, whose most intimate acquaintances entertain for him the highest respect. Indeed, amid all the turmoils of political contest through which he has passed, his most bitter opponent has never dared impeach his private character.

this State than any other man that could be selected, while his national reputation makes him available in every other State.

Constitutional Reform in Pennsylvania.

The overwhelming vote by which the people of Pennsylvania have declared in favor of a convention for the revision of the State Constitution, is warmly commended by the New York Tribune, which makes a number of well considered suggestions concerning the subject.

The great advance in population since the present representation was fixed, renders it every way desirable that the membership of both branches should be considerably increased, and it is also shown by experience that a numerous body is less readily corrupted than a scanty one.

To prevent venality and corruption in office, the acceptance of fees or perquisites, other than in payment of legal salary, by any person holding office under the laws of the State, should be treated as felony, punishable by five years' imprisonment, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Provisions similar to these were embodied in the New York constitution, voted down by the Democracy in 1867. One can readily see how its adoption would have rendered the rule and the robberies of the Ring impossible.

The last legislative apportionment was based upon the election returns of 1869, when Governor Geary was re-elected, and awarded an equal number of Representatives in the lower House, outside of Philadelphia, to Republicans and Democrats, making forty-one to each party.

The American Newspaper Reporter of the 16th inst., says the following testimonial from J. B. Dinmore, Esq., will be read with interest, as based upon a varied experience in advertising:

"I should prefer to have my advertisement inserted in a country paper having 500 circulation rather than have it in 500 copies of a city daily paper. The country readers have fewer papers and more leisure, and consequently read their papers more thoroughly and take better care of them, while a daily paper after being glanced at is thought no more of than last year's almanac. My opinion is based on twelve years' study and experience in the business."

On Monday night a man by the name of Lentz entered Mr. Volk's saloon on Railroad street and insulted the proprietor several times, and was finally ordered out doors. The rough went out and still bent on a row continued his abuse. Volk's son, Wm. finally went out and advised him to go away and save trouble, but instead of taking good advice, he pitched at him with a knife. The boy succeeded in knocking him down, but not until after he had received two severe wounds, one in the head and one in the side. Lentz was arrested and lodged in the fort. Next morning he had a hearing before Justice Tolmer who bound him over under two hundred dollar bonds to answer at next term of court. He is now in Fort Lessor at Ridgeway, awaiting his trial.

Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Sanford, a well known resident of the village of Plumer, met with a terrible accident, which will probably cost him his life. He was engaged in chopping wood near Prather's mill on Pitohole Creek, a short distance below Pitohole City, and had a tree nearly felled when suddenly a dead limb broke from the tree and came to the ground, in its course downward striking him on the head, and badly fracturing the skull. He was picked up in an insensible condition and removed to his home in Plumer. The wound was dressed by Dr. Mease of that village, who gives small hopes of the unfortunate man's recovery.

Man must have occupation or be miserable. Toil is the price of sleep and appetite, of health and enjoyment. The very necessity which overcomes our natural sloth is a blessing. The world does not contain a briar or a thorn which divine mercy could have spared. We are happier with the sterility, which we can overcome by industry, than we could have been with spontaneous plenty and unbounded profusion. The body and the mind are improved by the toil that fatigues them. The toil is a thousand times rewarded by the pleasure which it bestows. Its enjoyments are peculiar. No wealth can purchase them, no indulgence can taste them. They flow only from exertions which they repay.

The Titusville Herald says that strangers stopping over night in Oil City are not allowed to take the train next day, unless they make a solemn affidavit before the mayor that "Love's block" is the handsomest building they ever saw. One chap from Rochester, who remarked that "though perhaps 'Power's block' was a trifle larger, and also a little more expensive," was clucked into the lockup, while a foreigner said "the coliseum at Rome must have been more roomy when complete," has been missing for three days.

It is said that if a puff of air were to be blown into a vein of an animal, death would instantaneously follow, because circulation would be stopped. The blood makes the entire circuit of the human body every seven minutes, and whenever this circulation is impeded or any of its channels are clogged by impurities which ought to be carried off, disease follows—fever or a disorder of liver or kidneys, or scrofula, or dyspepsia. To get at and remove the source of the difficulty use the old and infallible blood purifier, Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters.
