

DEATH OF DR. STANTON, AUDITOR GENERAL ELECT.

Dr. David Stanton, State Auditor General elect, died on the morning of 4th inst., at his residence in Beaver. His complaint was erysipelas with which he had been ill only a few days; nor was he supposed to be in any immediate danger before Saturday night, when the symptoms became alarming. The announcement of his death the following morning shocked the entire community. As the recent successful candidate of his party for the office of Auditor General, his name had become familiar to the people of the State, upon whom the announcement of his death will fall with startling suddenness.

In regard to the manner in which the vacancy which will occur in the Auditor General's office, on the expiration of Hartranft's term, shall be filled, the law says:

"In case any vacancy shall occur in either of said offices (Auditor General or Surveyor General) by death, resignation or otherwise, the same shall be filled by appointment of the Governor and the person so appointed shall continue in office until the end of the term for which his predecessor was elected."

THE FALL ELECTIONS!

Nine States go Republican.

A Republican President in 1872 a Sure Thing.

The momentous November battle of the polls is over, and the results of the struggle are every way encouraging to the intelligent and virtuous classes of the whole country. Briefly stated, the Democrats have succeeded in Virginia, Maryland and New Jersey, three States out of eleven; while the Republicans have carried New York, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas, and without a doubt, Mississippi and Arkansas as well. The chief interest of the fight of course centered on New York; since on its issue the fate of Tammany, with the countless corrupt agencies and organizations which its example created and fostered in other parts of the country, in great measure depended. Had Tuesday's sunset gone down on Tammany triumphant, good men would everywhere have become sick and disheartened, and fraud and robbery would have entered as dominant political elements into the future of the Republic. Hence the breathless interest with which the whole country awaited the verdict of the people of the Empire State on the perpetrators of the crimes and infamies which had for years pervaded and polluted it. Had that State proved untrue to itself, the spirit of Tammany would have taken strength, and grown and blossomed into corruption over the whole land. The moral courage of the nation was at stake in New York, and within its borders the battle of free institutions was being fought for the country at large. That the arch-seducer Tweed was re-elected is not to be wondered at. There was, of course, outrageous cheating in the count, and it is probable that the lawless and dangerous classes which compose his constituency, would have voted for him had he stood before them as a convicted manured felon, instead of yet permitting an untried criminal as being permitted to walk at large. But the people of that great Commonwealth have proclaimed, in language impossible to be misunderstood, their abhorrence of the frauds and villainies perpetrated by the Ring, and has rescued the humiliated State from their control. That is the moral triumph, and it is one of the greatest and noblest that ever illuminated our political history.

By no means the least noteworthy and gratifying feature of the election was the intense interest which the leading business house manifested in the struggle. Men who have heretofore taken no part in politics were aroused to the pitch of enthusiasm. The Stock and Gold Exchanges, the Produce, Cotton and Grocers' Exchanges—in fact, all bodies of that character—suspended operations for the day, which their members devoted to the discharge of their duty as citizens. The young men, particularly, were thoroughly enlisted in the cause of honesty and justice against thievery and oppression. Thousands of them volunteered as watchers at the polls throughout the entire day, and it is largely to their vigilance and integrity in preventing ballot box stuffing that the result is due. It is not easy to overestimate the importance of yesterday's victory. We have several times alluded to the disastrous effect which the corruption and faithlessness of New York had exerted on the credit of United States abroad. There is now a prospect of better things. The scepter of Tammany is broken, and it is henceforth merely a shattered and ruined faction. Now let the people all over the country take heart of hope from the triumph, and push the good work of political rectification without stop or pause. Bring every plunderer, whether municipal, State or national, to the bar of public conscience. At least the most enlightened citizens of the country have been aroused to something like a proper conception of their obligations. It is to be hoped that the fires thus kindled may not die out. The November campaign is ended, but the war in behalf of purity and economy should be only fairly begun.

With respect to the other States in which the Republican ticket has been successful, it remains simply to be said that in them all the two great parties were before the people purely and simply upon their distinctive merits as political organizations, and upon the character of the principles and policies which they involved. The decisive and emphatic manner in which their verdict was pronounced, determines beyond all doubt the question of the Presidential succession, and prove that, no matter what may be the policy to which Democracy resorts, the people of the country have no confidence in it whatever. Repudiated so often as it appeals for support, it is now clear that its proposed scheme of masterly inactivity will be as futile as has been its past aggressive and reactionary course. The elections of Tuesday mean that the country has full confidence in the substantial wisdom and integrity of the Republican party, and that neither by force nor fraud can it be torn from this safe anchorage. The doom of Democracy is sealed, and nothing which that party can say or do will be able to avert it.—Pittsburgh Commercial.

The following items are from the Conneautville Courier:

ACCIDENT AT CROSSINGVILLE.—An eighteen year old son of Mr. James Lynch, living near Crossingville, met with a serious accident on Saturday. In company with two or three others, young Lynch was out gunning, and having treed a squirrel and being unable to get sight of it, he decided to climb the tree and scare the game out. When up about twenty-eight feet, by the breaking of a limb young Lynch lost his hold and fell to the ground. His head struck upon a root, inflicting a terrible wound nearly ten inches long, in circular form, a piece of the scalp four inches long by three wide being torn from the skull and only left attached on one side. He was taken up insensible and carried home, where his wounds were dressed by Dr. L.V. Knapp, under whose care he is doing well. It seems little less than a miracle that the fall did not result fatally. An older brother of young Lynch, it will be remembered by our readers, had one of his legs badly broken while working for Messrs. Ticknor & Co., last February.

If anybody asks you whether the following little incident happened in our town tell him you don't know: A few days since, a young lady sitting at a front window, tossing in her hand what might have been a ball of white yarn, attracted the attention of a middle aged chap on the street, whose gallantry prompted him to hold up his hands for a catch. The interest she displayed in hurrying it down to him was no deeper than he showed in catching it, although several who saw the performance charitably remarked, no one could have known that the egg was a bad one.

The numerous burglaries committed hereabouts during the past few weeks seem to indicate that there is a regularly organized band of house-breakers in our midst, whose members are thoroughly posted as to the points where their efforts are likely to reap the richest reward. In town, where the money is kept deposited and but little is carried, we hear of no burglaries being committed, the sufferers generally being persons who are known to have received money and are supposed to have it about their persons. The bank offers to all such a place of deposit, and it should be taken advantage of. Next to this precaution, a loaded gun or revolver is very handy to have about the house, coupled with a determination on the part of every person caught about your premises at night.

A large force of men are at work between Titusville and Shafter farm, grading for a new railroad. It is not known to the public in whose interest the road is to be constructed. Some claim the Oil Creek Railroad Company are doing the work to keep other parties out. Others say it is to be built by the Pennsylvania Petroleum Railroad Company in the interest of the New York Central Railroad and Vanderbilt. Time will tell, however, we suppose.—Record.

On last Sabbath one thousand dollars was raised in the M. E. Church, in this city, for the purpose of assisting the Methodists of Chicago in rebuilding their church edifices. It is proposed to raise twenty thousand dollars within the bounds of the Erie Conference. Franklin leads off by giving one-twentieth of the whole amount.—Citizen.

A large number of lots have been sold recently, in this city, to persons who intend erecting buildings this spring. We learn that a number of fine business blocks are to be erected on Liberty street, next season, among them a fine brick structure, with iron front, for the Exchange Bank, on corner of 13th and Liberty streets.—Citizen.

FOUR EVILS.—Whoever habitually uses any alcoholic preparations as an "appetizer" will be likely to suffer from four evils, viz: an overplus of food in the stomach, impaired ability to digest it, the pangs of dyspepsia, and a doctor's bill. Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters, the great Tonic and Restorative of the age, without over stimulating the palate or irritating the stomach, imparts a healthful appetite, promotes digestion, regulates the liver and bowels, purifies the blood, and thus, instead of enlisting four evils, confers four inestimable benefits.—22

Letter From Lacytown.

LACYTOWN, Nov. 4th, 1871.

MR. EDITOR:—We have just had an excitement here, and as anything of an excitable nature is very rare in this neck of woods, I will give you the facts.

Yesterday Janitor Rhodes rushed into the Forest House with the news that a manous buck was in the creek, then "Then there was hurrying to and fro, and shouts of 'Gracious! see him go!' Men grasped their guns, clubs, and whatever else they could get, and rushed for the creek. The deer was first seen passing the house of Jas. Flynn, then crossed the creek to the Island opposite the Forest House, going toward the pond, but on being headed there crossed the race and came into the lot belonging to the house, and would have escaped had it not been for J. B. Haggerty, S. Grubbs, and the mighty sway of a cornstock held by the latter. Finding escape impossible in that quarter, he turned and ran towards the house, almost running over a lady who had gone near the barn for a better view. The lady no doubt recalled to memory the words, "Distance lends enchantment to the view," for she soon lengthened the distance between herself and the frightened deer, but perhaps she, like the boy who ran against the elephant, was not frightened but wished to look at something across the road. The lady, however, after finding herself at a safe distance clapped her hands and screamed "shoo! shoo!" when caused the deer to run through the wash-house, and on the croquet ground, when he took time to make one wicket only, then rushed frantically to the saw mill, and from there made his escape across the creek, after receiving two shots from the rifle of L. Arner. But fate was against him, and his doom sealed, for soon the bounds were on his track, and the excitement waxed stronger. However it not long to last, for another bullet from Arner's gun hid him low at Sugar Run. He was brought back, and gazed upon with looks of admiration, and pity, but pity folded her wings when the great slices of stake came to the table. He weighed over two hundred pounds.

I believe this is all of interest that has transpired in Lacytown of late, as there is no work being done of any account, so the place is quite monotonous. Respectfully, Sum.

Lost Cattle.

STRAYED away from my farm near Emonton, in June last, one brown cow, with blackish head, large horns, 12 years old; another, a light brind, same age; another that will be 3 years old next spring; also a dark-red yearling heifer, white below the knees, that had a strap round its neck with a ring in it. All were taken from Forest two years ago, and are supposed to have strayed back. Liberal reward for their return, or information where they are.

WM. HAGGARTY, Emonton, Pa.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

Notices of the Press. There are few intelligent American families in which HARPER'S MAGAZINE would not be an appropriated and highly welcome guest. There is no monthly Magazine so intelligently and judiciously edited as this. It is not a cheap Magazine published. There is not, confessedly, a more popular Magazine in the world.—New England Homestead.

A repository of biography and history, literature, science, and art, unequalled by any other American publication. The volumes are as valuable as a more work of reference as any encyclopedia we can place in our libraries. HARPER'S MAGAZINE is a record of travel every where since the hour of its establishment. Livingstone and George Cumming in Africa, Strain among the Andes and Ross Brown in the East, Spoke and his men in the Arctic, the Jorion—indeed all recent travelers of note have seen their most important discoveries reproduced in these pages. Most of our younger and many of our older writers find here their literary biography. Our artist sees the best evidences of their genius and the most enduring specimens of their work in the Magazine.—N. Y. Standard.

It is one of the wonders of journalism—the editorial management of Harper's.—The Nation, N. Y.

A MIRACLE!

Mr. Samuel Bell, of W. E. Schmertz & Co., Wholesale Boot and Shoe Manufacturers, 31 Fifth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., has been afflicted with chronic rheumatism for 31 years, from his right hip to his foot, having to use a crutch and a cane, at times so painful as to utterly incapacitate him from attending to his business. Having tried every remedy known, without effect, except Gilliland's Pain Killer, he was finally induced to try it. A second application enabled him to lay aside his crutch, and a third effected a permanent cure. Mr. Bell is a popular and well-known citizen, is a living monument of the efficacy of this great medical discovery, Gilliland's Pain Killer. The afflicted should ask their grocer or druggist for it, and try its wonderful power. Mr. Gilliland, we understand, wants a respectable agent in every town and county for it. The principal office is at 72 Third Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. 31-41

Prospectus for 1872.

FIFTH YEAR.

A Representative and Champion of American Art.

THE ALDINE:

An Illustrated Monthly Journal claimed to be the handsomest Paper in the World.

NEW FEATURES FOR 1872.

ART DEPARTMENT.

As a guarantee of the excellence of this department, the publishers would beg to announce during the coming year, special reductions from the following eminent American Artists:

W. T. Richards, Victor Nohlg, Wm. Hart, Wm. H. Wilcox, Wm. Bead, James H. Beard, The Knapples, James Stanley, Aug. Will, R. E. Placet, Granville Perkins, Frank Beard, F. O. C. Darley, Paul Dixon, H. Hows.

These pictures are being reproduced without regard to expense, by the very best engravers in the country, and will bear the severest critical comparison with the best foreign work, it being the determination of the publishers that THE ALDINE shall be a successful vindication of American art in competition with any existing publication in the world.

LITERARY DEPARTMENT.

Where so much attention is paid to illustration and get up of the work, too much dependence on appearances may very naturally be feared. To anticipate such misgivings, it is only necessary to state that the editorial management of THE ALDINE has been intrusted to Mr. Richard Henry Stoddard, who has received assurances of assistance from a host of the most popular writers and poets of the country.

THE VOLUME FOR 1872

will contain nearly 300 pages, and about 250 fine engravings. Commencing with the number for January, every third number will contain a beautiful tinted picture on plate paper, inserted as a frontispiece. The Christmas number for 1872, will be a splendid volume in itself, containing fifty engravings, (four in tint) and, although retained at $1 will be sent without extra charge to all yearly subscribers.

A Chromo to every Subscriber was a very popular feature last year, and will be repeated with the present volume. The publishers have purchased and reproduced, at great expense, the beautiful oil painting by SEIS, entitled "DAME NATURE'S SCHOOL." The chromo is 11x13 inches, and is an exact fac-simile, in size and appearance, of the original picture. No American chromo, which will at all compare with it, has yet been offered at retail for less than the price asked for THE ALDINE and it together. It will be delivered free, with the January number, to every subscriber who pays for one year in advance.

TERMS FOR 1872.

One copy, one year, with Oil Chromo $5.00.

Five Copies, " " " 20.00

Any person sending 10 names and $40 will receive an extra copy gratis, making 11 copies for the money.

Any person wishing to work for a premium, can have our premium circular on application. We give many beautiful and desirable articles offered by no other paper.

Any person wishing to act, permanently, as our agent, will apply, with reference, enclosing $1 for outfit.
