DAVID HUNTER'S MENAGERIE.

Our remarks a couple of weeks ago about Mr. Hunter's collection of beastesses, has aroused that gentleman from his usual placid mood, and tighthim to produce the following:

HUNTER'S STATION, Nov. 19, '72. MR. EDITOR:-I see in your last issue an account of my menagerie, which is very fine, but then you ought not to misrepresent a feller, 'cause why, you see I have only two dogs instead of five. And as for the coons, one of them died at the hands, (or rather the mouth) of one of the dogs and the other was purchased by Lon. Stroop and Jim Hulings, consequently I am clear out of coons. As regards the deer, you guessed pretty close; I have a pair of very fine ones. It would do you good to see them dis- Lumber Co's, . pose of a glass of cider. I am prepared to wager that either of them will hide a glass quicker than you can,

But you should see my Ourang Outangs, the very finest creatures in the world. One is called "Buck" and the other "Brindle." They are very intelligent and have thus far escaped the epizoo. Mr. Rowley refuses to let them ride on his train, averring that the Superintendent don't allow such looking critters in the cow-boose. I think they will compare favorably ber of other military organizations will with him, Darwin, Greeley, or any other man.

If I wasn't hard up for currency just now, I should purchase another "dorg" and present him to some fine looking editor. I hear one of my Ourangs blowing his horn, and must suspend for the present.

-The last arch of the bridge is up Jubilate! Excelsior! Sic Semper Tyrannis! E. Pluribus Unum! All that now remains to be done is to put on the plank, and finish filling in the abutment at this end of the bridge, and then all that remains to do is for some chap to stand eternally at one end of it and collect toll. Time works wonders. For several years past the bridge question has been the standing joke all winter, especially if the crossing were difficult. A year ago no man, unless it was Geo. Hunter, would have risked ten dollars that a bridge would be built across the river at this place for ten years to come, barring oil excitements, or unusual growth of of the city. But it's come; is actually a standing monument to the obsti- lids, two sizes. -Mr. D. W. Clark, Commissioners Clerk, met with an accident on Saturday evening last, which might have proved serious, but, we are happy to say, didn't. He was engaged in the very laudable undertaking of chasing some cows out of his lot, and was putting in his very best licks, and gaining on the cows, when he was hauled up sudden by his neck coming in contact with a wire clothes line, which had escaped his notice during the excitement. He turned a back summersault over that clothes line, and reclined on his mother earth, and for four hours knew nothing about county matters nor anything else. He was out next day and looked like a chap who had been cut down while trying to commit suicide. There was a very red streak extending from ear to ear, under his chin, and he's been troubled with a stiff harness; one cutter; one Taylor &

-We understand that the borough schools are to open on Monday next, with Miss E. Mays and Miss Ella Davis as teachers. It is to continue in session for two months. The school ened his grip on his quill, and moved treasury seems to be in a continual state of depletion, the cause of which. we suppose is that the school tax is not paid promptly. We should have school about eight months in the year, but do not average more than five or six. As a consequence there is a vast amount of youthful intellect running to waste, which, when not employed in accumulating useful knowledge, is very apt to accumulate that which is not of much use to its possessor in after life.

A num be present. The Hartranft clubs and Lincoln club, of Pittsburgh, will also participate in the ceremonies.

Something New: We observe at the Susperior Lumber Co. Store a novelty in the stationery line that can not fail to commend itself to all persons of good taste. It consists of a blue tinted envelope, which when written upon by a chemical ink provided especially for it, decomposes the color wherever the link touches it, causing the writing to stand out in white, and presenting very much the appearance of engraving. A Trial of 50 Years.

The New York Observer has passed through the ordeal, and sfarts out anew on the second fifty years with a larger list of readers and more numerous friends than ever. Such a steady course of prosperity is unexampled, and inspires confidence. We heartily rejoice in the great success of a paper which has always advocated those sound principles that underlie the foundations of society and good government. Orthodox in the truest sense, both in Church and State, its influence is always good. We see its publishers propose to give to every subscriber for 1873 and appropriately embellished Jubilee Year-Book. Those who subscribe will have no cause to regret the step. 83 a year. Sidney E.
