COMBATS AMONGST THE ANCIENT FRANKS. During the eleventh century the means of justice among the Franks, was a combat between the accuser and the accused.

NINE BRAVE MEN. A special correspondent of the Baltimore American, in a letter from Port Deposit dated 22d January, gives the particulars of the rescue of the Roberts family from their perilous situation on Kerr's Island.

A SHOWING OF SEALDOM. A glimpse at Alaska, as given by a correspondent of the Alaska Herald, is well worth showing. At Sitka, as a type of the country it seems to have started in a civilizing course with, including the blessings, leaves out the curses.

There are now in circulation two sets of counterfeit five dollar United States notes. The first of these bogus greenbacks is poorly engraved on tolerably good paper, and purports to be No. 9,812. The statue of "America," on the left hand side of the note is faintly and badly executed, as is also the medalion portrait in the lower right hand corner.

A hop in your walk is a halt, but a dance upon nothing is a halter. One finger by itself may be a numb, but ten fingers are a number. A deal of gold may be a plumb, but a dealer in lead is a plumber.

Among other things that Wells & Fargo's firm is not responsible for as carriers is one couched in the following language in their regulations: "Not for any loss or damage by fire, the acts of God, of Indians, or any other public enemies of the government."

A garter was pumped up at the Court House well at Bloomington, Ill., last Saturday. Upon the supposition that a woman had been attached to the garter, a number of gallant young men fished in the well during the greater portion of the afternoon.

A certain little damsel having been aggravated beyond endurance by her brother, plumped down upon her knees and cried: "O Lord! bless my brother Tom. He lies, he steals, he swears; all boys do; us girls don't. Amen."

Major Zeb Crummet in his lecture, "New Fangled Notions," says—"It requires more brains to run a popular local newspaper than is usually carried into the White House under the hat of the President of the United States."

O, the snow, the beautiful snow; such a hunky thing you know; blueing your nose and chilling your toes; as whirling along streets it goes. No silly praise, not any for Joe, for that coldest of frauds, the beautiful snow.

Another, in the delicate, pungent Western style: "Ten million dollars is the sum that S. N. Pike was unable to take with him. We have not heard whether any evidence of insanity exists in the shape of a will."

The Jacksonville Journal states that a blooming, blushing school-girl called at that office the other day and inquired for "papers for a week back." The idea suggested was that she wanted them for a pauper.

A ragged newsboy paid a delicate compliment to a pretty young lady who bought a paper of him. "Poor little fellow," said she, "ain't you very cold?" "I was, ma'am, before you passed."

There is only one paper in Illinois that did not thrill the world with the announcement that "the old year is dead," and that one said, "To-morrow the old year dies."

American readers more newspapers than any other people, but do not read more books. Probably because the average newspaper is better than the average book.

When a new town is started on the plains, Chicago drummers camp out and wait for the new stores to be completed, to sell the owners a bill of goods.

A country paper in Minnesota wants to know who swindled the Indians out of "such an infernal cold country as Minnesota is, and who deluded the white people into it."

The silicate of soda mixed with zinc white makes a very good paint, and can be used for rendering fire-proof wood, paper, linen, &c.

It is considered cool to take a man's hat with his name written in it, simply because you want his autograph.

The Augusta Herald has for its motto a prominent line as follows: "Two Almighty Dollars a Year."

Why do honest ducks dip their heads under water? To liquidate their little bills.

When is a newspaper the sharpest? When it's field.

The most likely thing to become a woman? Why, a little girl.

A San Francisco firm advertises for skulls of deceased Indians.

Some time since a young minister, wishing to impress his Sabbath-school with the dignity of life by reference to the fact that men had souls, while ordinary animals have none, struck an attitude, and asked: "Now, children, what is the great difference between a monkey and a boy?" "The tail, the tail, the tail," came from all parts of the house, and minister was satisfied.

Portland, Oregon, is rapidly improving. A local paper says that "long strings of teams loaded with whisky can be seen from our door, and envious are going up like magic."

Only the seconds were allowed to speak. The combat began at a given signal. A blow previous to the starting-signal or after the final signal, forfeited the battle.

Every combatant had four seconds, one advocate, one marshal of arms, one trainer (who instructed in the mode of fighting, but whose voice durst not be heard during the battle), and one monitor, who was posted in arena, but was allowed to communicate with the combatants only through the advocate.

The dress usually consisting of close-fitting trousers, jacket and hood, fastened with a leather strap, and cut from one piece of gray woolen cloth. The shield (which, however, was not worn in battle with a woman,) was of wood and leather, covered with white linen, and ornamented with a red cross.

Before the fight both combatants drank St. John's wine, to thwart all evil arts. The days of judicial combat are past and gone; but the heroism of those women who maintained their dearest rights through the only legal means allowed them, is a vivid page in history.

Renewing their labors, after severe toil they succeeded in getting back to the shore again, landing at Lapidum on the west side of the river. The news of the attempt had spread over the country, and when they got back to the shore some hundreds were gathered upon the bank on that side, who filled with admiration at their courage, cheered them repeatedly.

A sea captain just arrived in San Francisco from New Orleans, exhibits an Irish setter dog, to whom he accredits one of the most remarkable exploits in canine intelligence. The dog was the property of the first mate, and was early noted for extraordinary sagacity.

The late Bishop Doane, of New Jersey, was strongly opposed to temperance, and his side-board was loaded with brandy, wine, &c. On one occasion, Rev. Mr. Perkins, of the Sons of Temperance, dined with the Bishop, who, pouring out a glass of wine, desired him to drink with him.

"Can't do it, Bishop. Wine is a mocker." "Take a glass of brandy, then." "Can't do it, Bishop. Strong drink is raging."

By this time, the Bishop, becoming somewhat excited, remarked to Mr. Perkins: "You'll pass the decanter to the gentleman next to you?" "No, Bishop, I can't do that. 'Woe unto him that putteth the bottle to his neighbor's lips.'"

A minister in Aberdeenshire sacrificed so often and so freely to the jolly god that the Presbytery could no longer overlook his proceedings, and summoned him before them to answer for his bad conduct. One of the elders, and a constant companion in his social hours, was cited as a witness against him.

"Well, John, did you ever see Mr. G—the worse for drink?" "Well, I wot no; I've money a time seen him the better o't, but I never saw him the waur o't."

"But did you ever see him drunk?" "That's what I'll ne'er see; for before he's half slockened I'm ay blind fu'."

A lover once wrote to a lady who had rejected him saying that he intended to go "to some secluded spot and breathe away his life in sighs!" to which the lady replied by inquiring whether they were to be medium or large size. The man has not since been heard from.

It was Daniel who said "Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge be increased." He clearly referred to reporters in this remark, and this suggests the idea that Daniel was in that line himself. It is certain at all events that he was allowed to pass in free to see the lions.

A wag of a student declared that a certain dull preacher was a revivalist—as there was a "great awakening" after the delivery of all his discourses.
