WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 15, 1874.

-The Venango Spectator has the following items:

Mr. Dan Grimm's stable was burned to the ground on Friday afternoon last. He had rigged a temporary smoke house close to it, and it caught fire from that arrangement. Loss small, but experience in the erection of smoke houses considerable. The valuable buildings in the neighborhood were saved by the prompt action of Franklin Fire Company No. 1, which was the first company on the ground, and the only one in service.

Mary Bell, living on Otter street, was found lying drad upon the floor lease, and get their territory tested. The rising price of oil promises a forhusband came in on Saturday night and found her in a state of helpless this summer. intoxication, with her head resting upthe stove, placed something under her ed its charter. Note holders are rethe season. In the morning the poor placed with other currency. Exactly creature was lifeless, having perished what reasons are assigned for this act by whisky and exposure. Mrs. Bell we are unable to say; but of one thing was formerly the wife of David Barry, we are certain, it was not compelled who was murdered on the line of the J. & F. R. Mr. John Welch, of Plum township, died suddenly last Saturday, in the office of Drs. R. & J. K. Crawford, at Cooperstown, from the effect of a dose of chloroform administered preparatory of a surgical operation. Mr. Welsh was suffering with an ingrowing nail on one of his feet, and as the operation would be long and painful it was deemed necessary to administer an anaesthetic. After a few inhalahave been composed of three parts of ether and one of chloroform, he became so boisterous that it required the efforts of four persons to restrain him from violence. His muscles then recondition and died in less than a minute. Mr. Welsh was a grandson of Mr. John Richey, and was about twenty years old.

Our colored brethren on Mount Zion have their own share of internal disputes and crosses just like the white trash. The Church Aid Literary Society is one of their organizations for mutual benefit and assists to pay their church expenses. On Saturday, March 28, the society was gathered for debate. The question for solution was, "Is the Negro or the Indian the most oppress-ed?" The debate was going along The dehate was going along smoothly, and with varying preponderence toward one side or the other, when some uppleasantness arose. The result was a lawsuit before Alderman Ellis on Thursday last, in which J. M. Harris was plaintiff, and Charles Law defendant. Mr. Law was charged with laughing out loud and throwing over the stove during the discussion. Twenty-two witnesses, male and female, all colored, were examined by the court, among them Capt. S. A. Hull, white. After hearing the parties, their proofs and allegations, the Alderman discharged the defendant and signified to the plaintiff that the costs amounting to $14.80 cts, must tional Bank can remit a check or post-be paid by him. The next question is, Who frode dat stove over?

Taylor McKellip, of the firm of Mc-Kinley & McKellip got his right hand terribly cut last Friday, by a heavy shaft falling on it, in their planing mill. The hand was completely split in two from the middle finger back past the heart of the hand.

On Monday last a little son of David Smathers of Helen township, was standing near a sled watching his father load a log, when the log slipped and fell on the boy, crushing his leg near the thigh. Medical assistance was summored, and the fractured limb described.

improper to publish anything concerning the matter.

A sad and terrible death recently occurred in Porter township. A little daughter of Mr. R. Chandler was playing where her brothers were at work moving straw, and while rolling a large heap, the fork struck her, penetrating the brain. The boys supposed she had gone to the house, and were horrified at the unforseen accident. She lived but five hours.

James' spirit well is now down about 2,100 feet. He is going to try to get down 2,111 feet before he quits. In the mean time is trying to get a company organized to sink a test well, at some favorable point, where he can get a sufficient lease of land and liberal terms enough to get persons to aid him. He proposes putting down a well either at Blyson, or some other point on Millcreek or between that and Clarion.
