-It will be seen by reference to the first column of the second page, that some candidates for the various offices within the gift of the people, are anneuncing themselves, or being anmounced by their friends. It has been the custom of the REPUBLICAN, ever since it has been in the hands of the present proprietor, to say nothing as to the comparative merits of the different candidates for nomination, and we see no reason at this time for varying from this rale. We only say to the people, that all the candidates will be announced, and they will probably be variety enough for them to select from. It is, of course, material to the injerests of the county and the party, should be chosen as our candidates. As to who fills the bill, judge ye.

ON THE RIVER, May 16, 74. EDITOR REPUBLICANI-

Being duly aware that the REPUBLICAN is closely identified with the lumbering interests, and that a large number of your subscribers are interested, either directly or indirectly, in the welfare of the lumbermen, I therefore concluded that (with your permission) I would lay before them, through your columns, the existing state of affairs in the lumber market.

The Lumber business, as well as the Coal, Iron and Oil business, has been overdone; and, unfortunately, has on hand a supply larger than the demand. Result: fluctuations in price, with scription book is yet in our hands, and have been endeavoring to carry their old firm. heavy surplus stocks, and have successfully done so, for the last eighteen months, and have thereby bolstered up a ficticious market. All seemed to ron smoothly as long as monetary matters were in a healthy condition, but the "panio" of '73 prostrated every legitimate business. This panie was not the result of a want of funds, but of reckless speculation and stock gambling. We had, and have money enough to overstock every branch of industry except farming; the money Committees of Citizens and Odd is in bank, and in Government securi-Fellows, met in Odd Fellows Hall. ties. As soon as some legitimate, pay-Dr. J. Winans was chosen charman of ing business appears, in which it looks the joint committee, and S. D. Irwin, safe to invest, this money will again be in circulation.

I assert, without fear of contradicthrown on the market this spring would have brought more money than it all will. And had-two-thirds of the lumber been left standing in the forest, lumbermen would then have saved the additional expense of preparing and marketing, and would still have the pine timber growing in the woods and yielding them ten per cent. annually on the investment. I ask, it all candor, would it not be far preferable to the same amount of pay?

Choice lots of lumber will not command 15 ets. cubic measure, and the average price is 121 ets. Of boards there have not been many "lots" sold.
