OBITUARY.

DIED.—At Tionesta, April 3, Misa Sallie Knox, third daughter of Capt. and Mrs. D. S. Knox, aged 16 years, and 10 days.

The subject of this notice was called away in the morning of life, when the thoughts and aspirations were pure and holy, and the heart was filled with the soul-inspiring joys of childhood. Her illness was of short duration. That fatal malady, pneumonia, carried her quickly to her grave. She was a young lady of promise, sweet and amiable in her disposition, which endeared her to all her friends and schoolmates. She was a child of the Sabbath School,-in it she learned something of the cross and its sweetness, which enabled her, before her departure to express a desire to "depart and be with Christ, which is far better." Let us all hear the monitory voice: "Be ye also ready."

"Oh, to be ready when death shall come Oh, to be ready to basten home;

No earthward elinging, No lingering gaze,-No step at parting,

No sore amaze. No cloud like phantom to fling a gloom Twixt heaven's bright portals, and earth's dark tomb,— But sweetly, gently to pass away

From the world's dim twilight, into day."

The funeral services take place this afternoon at two o'clock, at the Presbyterian Church? Her remains will be taken to the church at 12 o'clock, where all wishing may see them.

-C. J. Fox, well and favorably known to a great many of our citizens, and especially to the lumbermen of this vicinity, died at Jamestown, on Monday of last week. Mr. Fox was for many years a resident of this of Treasurer.

-S. J. Wolcott Esq., was in towe last week, looking well himself, and reporting all his folks in the same condition. Mr. Welcott informed us that he would probably move back to this place before another year. If he does he may rest assured that he will be heartily welcomed by all.

Wallace, and all the other leading men of the party, put him at once into the foreground and rendered him a prominent figure. He was probably one of the most marked delegates present, and had undoubtedly much influence in shaping the action of the Convention. LACYTOWN, Mar. 31, 1876. ED. REPUBLICAN:-

We again write you with all the glories of wipter around us, but with a sense of future foolishness; true, no one can tell what the morrow may bring forth, -we predict a flush of April fools,

-Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wales started for New York on Monday; they intend making their home at Portville, that State, for a time at least.

-Homer Towner was afflicted with a serious sore throat and cold for nearly a week; we are glad to see him around

-Several petty thefts have occured in the neighborhood lately, of provisions and bed clothing. Hard times do not cover such offenses.

-One load of Mr. Harringtons household goods passed through here yesterday bound for Edenburg. We consider him a truer prophet than the ground-hog; he was sure of sleighing enough to finish hauling the sawed lumber, and so there is, almost. Hope he will come back to sun himself occasionally.

-We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. McCray and wife, now of Tionesta, yesterday.

-Miss June Siggins is about to return to her home, after a quite lengthy visit; the young people will regret her departure, in the words of that good old tone, "March is not so pleasant

-While coasting this morning, Charley Bush was thrown in to a briar bush and had his face and hands badly scratched. Dr. Bollus treated the county, and at one time held the office injured members to a bath of soap and water; -patient is doing finely.

Southern Travels.

On the 16th of February, we arose from our slumber, with a sore throat, which we proceeded to lubricate in the prevailing Southern fashion, and wasted some powder at pelicans and plume birds. The old sailor cooked breakfast for us, and we bid him farewell and started on.

After getting through the Narrows, we ran upon several oyster beds, but as the wind was not very stiff, and our Forest House. Wm. Killmer, who boat was strong, we suffered no inconvenience except having to get into the water to shove the boat off. On account of the small size of our boat, and the large amount of luggage therein, we didn't take in any oysters, but we were assured by several reliable parties, that those taken here were superior to any they had ever seen Shortly after leaving the Narrows, we pass St. Lucie P. O., which is about a mile and a half North of In- future. dian River Iulet. Here lives old man ronized, and we have no doubt but Payne, who is postmaster; Jim, his turn from your Southern tour, for I (although just how much of the story which was gotten up by the Granger is fact, and how much fancy we don't political party of this State one year pretend to know) that the old man on ago, and as you are aware this law one occasion, some years ago, went was to control our Railroads. So down to Jupiter, took the man out of far as that was concerned it did the lighthouse, stole all the oil, and well enough, but they went so far as waited patiently for some vessel to to legislate compelling the Railroad come ashore on account of the absence Companies to keep up the roads and of the light. All we know of him is, carry freight and passengers at lower that he will not sell northerners, bread, rates than they could afford to; conseflour, or anything else, unless they will quently the companies discharged board with him, and pay $2.50 per day therefor.

The Inlet is about a hundred yards wide, is five to eight feet deep, and is tors. a good place to catch fish. There is not very much sailing done through the inlet, because boats that are useful on the sea, would at once stick on the oyster bars if they came in; while those used on the river are not of much use on the high seas.

At Bell's, just opposite, we stopped Cooked some very sail flapjacks, and fair. some good coffee and pork. While cooking, along came a "cracker," who was acquainted with Paget, and he ate to 25 cts., and other produce in profew, and easily supplied: A little of our "old topers are taking the mes), a little pork, and a little whisky, pledge, to abstain from getting en gets on this earth; but he never smiles, will prove true, for liquor is injuring His look is always melancoly, and many of our best and smartest men, -Landlord and Tenant Leases, the nothing appears to astonish him as ing semething in the west to stop the The men all drink; the women all smoke, but that's as near as they ever come to levity. They are not ambitious. Casar's death, according Brutus, was caused by ambition. Now if all the ambition of all the "crackers" in Florida, were condensed and hypodermically injected into a cockroach, that animal's death would never, directly or indirectly, be attributed to ambition.

LONE ROCK, RICHLAND Co., Wis., March, 28, 1876. ED. REPUBLICAN:-

Thinking that a short letter from this locality would interest some of your readers, I would mention the fact that we can at this date enjoy the privileges of a sleigh ride, for snow fell on the 17th inst., to the depth of fifteen inches, consequently the young people are making up lost time, and horse flesh has to suffer. This present month has been the most severe winter month of the season, On the 18th inst., we were visited with a severe thunder and suow storm combined, in fact, nothing of the kind has ever been witnessed. During the afternoon of the above date, dark clouds rolled up from the west, and incessant flashes of lightning accompanied with constant roar of thunder and wind; being one of the severest storms ever known in this locality. In the adjoining counties, south of this, Iowa and Grant; great damage to property was done, also with great loss of life. Some fourteen persons were killed, and twenty severely injured. Buildings were destroyed, and dwellings, in some instances, were carried ten or fifteen rods, and for miles the country laid waste. A thriving village was nearly totally destroyed, and in one or two instances, whole families were either killed or crippled for life. In sympathizing with our friends in Grant Co., we feel thankful that no serious injuries were done in this imediate locality, and our people have shown their generosity by lending a belping hand to the unfortunate and needy

"Crooked Whiskey" trials appear to attract considerable attention here, and as Milwaukee has had her share of such characters they are being handled pretty rough; and I would state right here that nine-tenths of those connected in this nefarious plot are "rale ould democrats."
