Our Washington Letter.

Special to the REPUBLICAN.

Washington, D. C., June. 23, '76. Since the Presidents message to Congress relative to the appropriation bills an earnest effort has been made to perfect and pass them before the close of the present fiscal year. From indications developed yesterday the prospect of a compromise now seems good A proposition having been prepared on the part of the Senate by Hon. Lot. M. Morrill, and a counter one by Raudall of the House. Night sessions are now in order and all appear animated by the desire to finish up the work and hasten and all appear animated by the desire to finish up the work and hasten an adjournment. The only real obstacles to an early adjournment are the appropriation bills and the Belknap trial. Should the former have been passed by the first of July it is believed that the Senate will after settling some preliminary points, postpone the further consideration of the ex-Secretary's case until November or December. The committee after having promised so much evidence of corruption on the part of Secretary Robeson is extremely loath to give him up, and to have its democratic members go before the country as willful falsefiers. Paymas-ter Gen. John O. Bradford who has just arrived from London, whence he was called by Mr. Robeson upon the unanimous request of the committee gave testimony yesterday. It was hoped by the democrats that they sould establish the fact through this witness that the Secretary had tacitly encouraged the heads of bureaus to favor the Cattells, in their bids for furnishing supplies to his Department. But he emphatically denied that the Secretary had ever disected him to show any preference to any of the bidders or had in any manner ever interfered in any way with him as a purchasing paymaster. All the evidence elicited from him was highly creditable to the Secretary and cor-minority report dissents so far as the commissioners are concerned. It is generally understood that Sen-ator Morrill of Maine will succeed Bristow, as Secretary of the Treasury, who resigned, as he says, to give more attention to his private affairs, and to secure needed rest. So far as I am able to judge the appointment of Mr. to the most earnest confidence that Morrill is received with universal sat-

Commissioners among the parties rec-ommended for criminal prosecution because of mal-administration. The President Grant has called the attention of Congress to the action of the British Government in the Winslow case, and recommend that it take the Democracy, that they must presuitable action. He appears to regard the position taken by England a vir-tual repudition of the extradition clause of the Ashburton treaty.

It is supposed that Mr. Blaine will are now in order everywhere, and the be appointed to fill the vacant seat in tide of enthusiasm is stendily rising.—

is expressed as to its passage by Senate and as to its approval by President should it be successful in the Senate.

No very important legislation will probably be attempted until the return of members of Congress, now absent at St. Louis.

The Hayes and Wheeler ticket ap pears to receive the commendations of republicans, liberal republicans and "independents" in every section of the country; and testimony from democratic sources is to the effect that the St. Louis convention must do its level best in order to have any hope of beating it. Republicans here have settled down to the belief that it was the very best selection that could have

THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

The Republican Primaries passed off quietly on Saturday last, and the ticket nominated will be found at the head of the 2d page. In town the election was conducted without much excitement. In the evening, however, a little war of words took place between a couple of our citizens, but nothing came of it. We have heard of no trouble or excitement in other districts. The only office for which there was any contest was that of Assembly, and Mr. Agnew secured that by a fair majority. We present our ticket to the voters of the county, confident that it will be fully supported and elected. So mote it be. The following is the official vote:

The Return Judges nominated Jas. Green Esq. of Hickory township for State Senator subject to decision of the district conference.

respondingly distasteful to the demo-erats of the committee. A majority and minority report from the investi-gating committee on the affairs of this District have been submitted. The majority report includes the District Commissioners among the parties rec profound enthusiasm with which our Presidential ticket is being received. Naturally, where so many had decided first preferences, a few days were required to quiet their feeling of disappointment that favorites had not been selected; but this over, and a careful examination of the merits and strength of the ticket followed. This has led the ticket is impregnably strong, and worthy the most earnest support of the Republican party. The prevailing impression now is, even among sent the very best ticket they can command, if they would make any contest at all. Ratification meetings Pittsburgh Gazette.

LONE ROCK, RICHLAND Co., Wib., June 23, 1876. ED. REPUBLICAN:-

I have been thinking to-day that, as I will not attend the Centennial Exhibition, I must inform you that we still continue to "hold our own" out west, and that rain has been the general commodity here, for we are blessed with a pleasant shower every day, and plenty of water has fallen in the last two weeks.

Our crops look splendid here,wheat, although somewhat late, bids fair for a heavy yield; oats never looked better at this season of the year; coru, although backward, is making a rapid growth, and should nothing injure our crops we will have plenty for self and some to spare to those who are not so lucky in farming. Our fruit prespect is good here, and hopes are entertained by those that have orchards that nothing will injure the apples this season.

Lumber is coming down the Wis-

Lumber is coming down the Wisconsin in large quantities, for the river is at a spendid stage for rafts, and has been all the spring. We supply the Mississippi valley with lumber, for Wisconsin has millions of acres of pine lands; and I may say, some as choice pine lumber comes from our pineries as can be found in the United

Quite a number of our people have gone to the "Great Show" at Philadelphia to spend their surplus change. And several of those who went to the Black Hills last spring are returning, disgusted with gold digging, Indians, Custer City, Black Hills, and everything else connected with the expedition. Although our State is only about twenty-eight years old we have made more advancement than the Eastern States in the same length of time, for a few months is all the time required to build a town here, and should a saloon be opened a vilinge will soon spring up around it.

But I close for fear that this letter will be consigned to the waste basket. More anon, N. B. Hoop:
