Our Washington Letter.

Special to the Republican.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 14, '76.

From accounts received here of the recent massacre in Hamburg, S. C., it appears that the Ku-Klux of that vicinity surpassed themselves in any previous effort of their atrocious calling, and almost rival Sitting Bull and his band in every savage characteristic.

It is contemplated in the Senate to make the terms of the Lawrence Pacific railroad bill which recently passed the House, still more severe upon those monopolies. It is a bad year for Pacific railroads, and their lobbies here are agnost at the outlook.

President Grant's letter to ex-Secretary Bristow, relieving him from any obligations of secrecy as to a knowledge of State matters and whisky wars, which came to him as a member of the Cabinet, and expressing the hope that any member of his Cabinet summoned before a committee, will gratify its curiosity, has taken the wind completely out of the Democratic sails.

The slight ripple occasioned by Jewell's retirement from the Cabinet has already subsided.

The House managers in the Belknap case have completed their evidence except the examination of Evans, who is expected here every day, and it is not probable that the defence will consume more than two or three days.

—In referring to the extravagance and injustice of the House appropriations for river and harbor improvements, wherein the South takes the lion's share, the New York Times says: "This is an economical and a frugal House. At this very moment it is appealing to the country to behold it as it stands by to prevent the Senate from wasting money in Norfolk and New York harbors, while the mill-streams of Buncombe and the Kanawha are drying up for want of Congressional aid."

$3,000,000, and the House abated its demands to the extent of $700,000. The abolition of the regulations relative to the registration of voters and the supervising authority of U. S. officials, removes every restriction to the villainous election frauds that have made New York city, Baltimore and other Democratic strongholds infamous in the past.

The Conference Committee have agreed upon the silver bill. It issues $50,000,000, in subsidiary coin and removes the legal tender feature of the trade dollar. The silver issued under its provisions will be legal tender for five dollars, but it does not provide for the retirement of greenbacks paid into the Treasury for silver.

The legislative, army, diplomatic and Indian appropriation bills are before the Conference Committees, with no immediate prospect of an agreement upon either. The Banking and Currency Committee yesterday postponed again the vote upon the proposition to repeal the resumption act till Monday. It is believed that it will fail.

The swindle which passed the House months ago, known as the river and harbor appropriation bill, and in which about every member of the committee sought to increase his home popularity by securing appropriations for the duck and frog ponds in his district, has undergone a severe course of treatment in the Senate. It appropriates about the same amount of money as contemplated by the House reformed; but the number of its bequests are reduced and their amounts increased by striking out the House appropriations for unheard of streams, and harbors unknown to commerce, and adding the same to sums already appropriated to places of importance.

—The editor of the Democratic organ in the county in which Governor Hayes resides says: "I don't believe in Hayes politically, and shan't vote for him, but he's a square man, and will, if elected, make an honest President." That appears to be the testimony of all honest Ohio Democrats.

—Tilden's endorsement of Tweed's check for $5,000 to pay campaign expenses in New York, is not exactly the kind of reform people want. Nor do the people fancy any one who addressed the "Boss" at a time when his arms, up to his elbows, were in the Treasury of New York, as "my dear friend Tweed."

—The Democrats insist upon it that Governor Hays should resign the Governorship, now that he has been nominated for President. As Tilden and Hendricks are both Governors, Hays is probably waiting to see what they will do.

—Democratic journals are profoundly disgusted at the "indecent haste" which the independent press has exhibited in "rushing" to the support of Hays and Wheeler.—N. Y. Tribune.

—In his letter addressed to the Hayes and Wheeler ratification meeting in New York, General Dix says of Tilden:

"The four months before us will afford time to canvass the question intelligently and thoroughly, and, what is of equal importance, they will enable us to demonstrate by an analysis of his public acts, that the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, instead of being a reformer, as he and his followers assert, is himself in an urgent need of reform as the party which put him in nomination. Moreover, it will enable us to demonstrate by indisputable facts that the Government, for the chief office in which he has been nominated, would not now exist if his example during the rebellion had been followed by his countrymen."

The Democratic ticket, on the great question of finance, is like a certain class of war vessels built for service during the late rebellion. They were called "double enders," from the fact that they could run either way with equal facility as occasion might require. Tilden, a pronounced hard money advocate, and backed by that influence in the East, and Hendricks, representing all that is wild in the West on the inflation side. The financial plank adopted at St. Louis is equally ambiguous, and sustains both ideas or neither as desired.

NEW YORK, July 17.—A special from Saratoga to the Commercial Advertiser says: "It has leaked out that there is an irreconcilable difference between Tilden and Hendricks, and hence the non appearance of Tilden's letter of acceptance. It is very evident from the hurried manner Tilden and Hendricks left Saratoga, that the meeting was not a harmonious one, and that there are wide differences between them on the currency question, which may oblige Hendricks to repudiate Tilden or peacefully withdraw from the ticket."

—The editor of the Democratic organ in the county in which Governor Hayes resides says: "I don't believe in Hayes politically, and shan't vote for him, but he's a square man, and will, if elected, make an honest President." That appears to be the testimony of all honest Ohio Democrats.
