TERMS, $2.00 A YEAR. No Subscriptions received for a shorter period than three months. Correspondence solicited from all parts of the country. No notice will be taken of annonymous communications.

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

TIONESTA LODGE No. 369. I.O. of O. F.

MEETS every Friday evening, at 7 o'clock, in the Hall formerly occupied by the Good Templars. C. A. RANDALL, N. G. S. H. HASLET, See'y. 27-ti

TIONESTA COUNCIL, NO. 342, O. U. A. M. MEETS at Odd Fellows' Lodge Room, every Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock. P. M. CLARK, C.

S. A. VARNER, R. S. J. E. BLAINE, Y. D. R. A. EGBERT, M. D. BLAINE & EGBERT, . OFFICE and residence in house former-ly occupied Dr. Winans. Office days, Wednesdays and Saturdays. 324f

A TTORNEY AT LAW, Tionesta, Pa. 40-1v

J. B. ACNEW. W. E. LATHY, AGNEW & DATHY,

Attorneys at Law, - Tionesta, Pa. Office on Elm Street.

May 16, 1875.-tf

MILES W. TATE, ATTORNEY AT LAW,

TIONESTA, PA

F. W. Hays, A TTORNEY AT LAW, and NOTARY PUBLIC, Reynolds Hukill & Co.'s Book, Sensea St., Oil City, Pa. 89-1y N. B. SMILEY.

KINNEAR & SMILEY,

Attornoys at Law, - - - Franklin, Pa PRACTICE in the several Courts of Ve-nango, Crawford, Forest, and adjoin-ing counties. 39-1y.

NATIONAL HOTEL,

TIDIOUTE, PA BUCKLIN & MORE, PROPRIETORS. Frist-Class Licensed House, Good stable connected. 13-1y

Lawrence House, TIONESTA, PENN'A, C. F. Mc-CRAY, PROPRIETOR. This house is centrally located, Everything new and well furnished Superior accommoda-tions and strict attention given to guests. Vegetables and Fruits of all kinds served in their season. Sample room for Com-

Tionests House, NDREW WELLER, Proprietor. This now open for the accommodation of the publis. Charges reasonable. 34 ly

BONNER & AGNEW BLOCK. L. nouse, and has just been fitted up for the accommodation of the public. A portion of the patronage of the public is solicited.

FOREST HOUSE, S. A. VARNER PROPRIETOR. Opposite S. Court House, Tionesta, Pa. Just opened. Everything new and clean and fresh. The best of liquors kept constantly on hand. A portion of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

4-17-1y

W. C. COBURN, M. D., PHYSICIAN & SURGEON offers his services to the people of Forest Co. Having had an experience of Twelve Years in constant practice, Dr. Coburn guarantees to give satisfaction. Dr. Coburn makes a specialty of the treatment of Nasal, Throat, Lung and all other Chronic or lingering diseases. Having investigated all scientific methods of curing disease and selected the good from all systems, he will guarantee relief or a week. systems, he will guarantee relief or a in all cases where a cure is possible. No Charge for Consultation. Alt fees will be reasonable. Professional visits made at all hours. Parties at a distance can consult him by letter.

Iffice and Residence second building below the Court House, Tionesta, Pa. Office days Wednesdays and Saturdays. 25tf

Dr. J. L. Acomb, DHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, who has I had fifteen years' experience in a large and successful practice, will attend all Professional Calls. Office in his Drug and throcary Store, located in Tidioute, near Tidioute House.

IN HIS STORE WILL BE FOUND A full assortment of Medicines, Liquors

Tobacco, Cigars, Stationery, Glass, Paints, Oils, Cuflery, all of the best quality, and will be sold at reasonable rates.

DE CHAS. O. DAY, an experienced physician and Druggist from New York, has charge of the Store. All prescriptions put up accurately.

JNO. P. PARK.

MAY, PARK & CO., BANKERS

Corner of Elm'& Walnut Sts, Tionesta.

Bank of Discount and Deposit.

Interest allowed on Time Deposits. Softsetions made anall the Principal points of the U.S. Collections solicited. 18-1v.

FELT GARRETINGS, 85 ets. per yard, class order, and is now run all kinds of Plaster. FELT ROOFING and SIDING CUSTOM GRI For samples, address C. J. FAY, Camden,

The Forest Republican.

VOL. IX. NO. 17.

TIONESTA, PA., AUGUST 2, 1876.

$2 PER ANNUM.

Painting, Paper-Hanging &c.,

E. H. CHASE, of Tionesta, offers his

PAINTING,
GRAINING,
CALCIMINING,
SIZING & VARNISHING,
SIGN WRITTING,
PAPER HANGING,
AND CARRIAGE WORK,

Work promptly attended to and Satisfaction Guaranteed. Mr. Chase will work in the country when desired. 13-tf.

WILLIAMS & CO., MEADVILLE, - PENN'A. TAXIDERMISTS.

BIRDS and Animals stuffed and mount-

MERS. C. NE. HERATER, DRESSMAKER, Tionesta, Pa.

MRS. HEATH has recently moved to this place for the purpose of meeting a want which the ladies of the town and county have for a long time known, that of having a dressmaker of experience among them. I am prepared to make all kinds of dresses in the latest styles, and guarantee satisfaction. Stamping for braiding and embroidery done in the best manner, with the newest patterns. All I ask is a tair trial. Residence on Water Street, in the house formerly occupied by Jacob in the house formerly occupied by Jacol Shriver. 14tf

TIME TRIED AND FIRE TESTED

THE ORIGINAL

ÆTNA INSURANCE COMPAN'

OF HARTFORD, CONN. ASSETS Dec. 51, 1873, $5,735,D25.79. MILES W. TATE, Sub Agent, Tonesta, Pa.

Frank Robbins,

PHOTOGRAPHER (SUCCESSOR TO DEMING.)

Pictures in every style of the art. Views of the oil regions for sale or taken to or-

CENTRE STREET, near R, R. crossing. SYCAMORE STREET, near Union De-pot, Oil City, Pa. 20-tf

PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY.

ELM STREET. SOUTH OF ROBINSON & BONNER'S STORE.

Tionesta, Pa., M. CARPENTER, - - - Proprietor.

Pictures taken in all the latest styles

I SHALL ATTEND

TOMY

Business as Usual!

CVATCHES

L. KLEIN,

(in G. W. Boyard's Store, Tionesta, Pa.)

PRACTICAL

WATCHMAKER & JEWELER

DEALER IN

Watches, Clocks, Solid and Plated Jewelry, Black Jewelry. Eye Glasses, Spectactes, Violin Strings, &c., &c.

Particular attention given to Repairing Fine Watches.

NEBRASKA GRIST MILL.

PHE GRIST MILL at Nebraska (Lacy I town,) Forest county, has been theroughly overhauled and refitted in first-class order, and is now running and doing

FLOUR, AND OATS.

FREE GIFT of a Plano for destributing our circulars; address U. S. Plano Co. sto Broadway, New York, 34 Gm. H. W. LEDEBUB,

A DOCTOR'S CALL.

JANUARY 1, 18-. Dear Charley Laid up with a sprained ankle, and must turn over my patients to your tender mercies. I inclose list of names, addresses, course of treatment, etc., for your edification.

GODFREY HERMAN. This was the note that Dr. Charles Stevenson stood perusing with downeast face and clouded brow on New Year's morning, not many years ago. thought flas The gentleman in question was just son's mind. twenty-five, handsome and talented, "Mrs. Gra possessed a moderate income independent of his practice, was a favorite in friends upon whom he might call on pare from a written prescription. I New Year's day.

Upon the morning in question Dr. Stevenson had gone his professional quoted above.

"Confound it all!" he muttered. 'Why couldn't Godfrey wait until tomorrow to sprain his ankle? And while the doctor watched his patient, what a list! Rheumatism, pneumania. studying the effect of his medicines, Hem! here is one that sounds and finally being rewarded by seeing lung fever. Well, I suppose I must go, and cut down my visits to a few this evening.'

for a brief time, and emerged, no that she was hovering very close to longer in fashionable attire, but in what he called his "doctor's toggery, warranted fever-proof."

In every youthful heart, though the tender love that makes a life may not yet have come, there is ever one face, and followed by consciousness. one voice, upon which the fancy lingers, as a little brighter, a little sweeter than other faces or voices can be. To Charley Stevenson this face and dleton, a blonde beauty, and only child of one of the leading lawyers of the city. As yet love had not come to either heart, yet it is certain the lovely blonde accepted the attentions of the handsome young doctor willingly, and gave him sweetest smiles in re-

Just a society flirtation so far, but one likely to become something more, for Dr. Stevenson was heir expectant the necessity of securing a "handsome over his patients to me." establishment" with other matrimonial sparkle of her blue eyes were the magnets that hurried the doctor in his lung fever. I dare say it is only a round of professional calls, till he cold; but in the meantime I must find stood at door of the last patient, Miss Graham, who had lung fever.

Into a darkened room, where pover-ty had set her ugly seal, yet where some of those heart-rending relics of better days lingered yet, the doctor was ushered by an elderly woman, a gentlewoman in the true English sense send to the sick gi with pitiful anxiety for his directions.

"She seems much worse since last evening," she said, when the doctor had explained the accident that had kept his friend at home, "the delirium continues, though she is so weak she can hardly speak."

A few professional inquiries followed, and the doctor approached the bed. A face, thin, yet exquisitely delicate, with large black eyes unnaturally brilliant, met his gaze. A face strick-en by illness, wasted and worn, yet the most beautiful in all its pain his eyes had ever rested upon.

While he felt the rapid pulse at the delicate wrist, bent low to listen to the murmurs of the delirious fancy, a knock at the door summoned the mother away.

It was impossible in the deep stillness of the room to avoid hearing the conversation between the new-comer and Mrs. Graham.

"You have an answer to my note?" the lady said eagerly. "No, ma'am. Miss Middleton was dressing for call-ers and couldn't be bothered."

"She sent me some money, Joe; just a dotlar or two?"

"No, ma'am. You must wait until next month."

while the man was dressing of her hair, and I told her, ma'am, how awful sick Miss Daisy was, but she said I was an impudence and might talk

"Well, Joe, you can do no more." But ain't I to go for the medicines and the wine?"

when I was asked. She's a proud mother seeking charity? or did the of dressmaking, and I was thinking if blonde beauty, who haunted all his dreams, owe her rightful payment? and make her useful, it would be a judge to the attorney for the plaintiff. tiou at this time.

Either way his idol was dimmed by the words of the errand boy.

Yet he felt instintively that charity from a stranger wound not be accepted here. The face of the elderly lady, through all its sadness and gentleness, was proud; and every tone of the low voice showed education and refine- time,"

No money, not a pitiful "dollar or two," and the patient wanted expensive medicines and stimulants. A bright thought flashed over Charley Steven-

"Mrs. Graham," he said, turning his eyes delicately from the tearful face, your daughter needs medicine I do society, and had a goodly list of lady not like to trust to a druggist to prawill return in an hour and administer the first dose myself."

Whether she understood the delirounds very early, and had returned cate kindness or not, Mrs. Graham's Is Miss Daisy pretty?"
home to make a proper toilet for the grateful eyes sufficiently thanked the "Lovely, and so gent usual round of New Years calls, when young physician, who hurried away. his office boy brought him the missive scon returning with the medicines and wing cleverly disguised by a prescrip-tion label plastered over the original.

More than three hours slipped away while the doctor watched his patient, interesting; Miss Graham, No. 298 her fall into a quiet slumber. It was street, lung faver. Dear me, too late when he reached home again too late when he reached home again to make any calls, and as he sat over what a detailed description of treat-ment and symptoms! Decidedly God-his cheery grate he dreamed, not of frey is interested in Miss Graham's Maud's golden curls, but the pale, her mother was I will speed the woosweet face of Miss Graham.

It saddened him to think of a coffin-lid hiding it forever from the ma-He retired to his sleeping apartment | ther's loving eyes, and yet he knew | the call. the borders of the future life.

glad eyes of the mother he knew the life-giving sleep had been prolonged it, and so pave the way for a new

Very weak and ill she was yet, but home. there was hope now, and Charley Stevenson wondered that this fact should so lighten his heart when but twenty- Middleton, who re-entered her phæton voice was the memory of Maud Mid- four hours before he had never even heard of Miss Graham. But in his passed him, paused till he came up, and Maud Middleton, leaning forward, held out her hand to the young physician.

"You don't deserve to be spoken to," she said, with her great blue eyes merrily cordial, "for you should have followed your bouquet yesterday,"

"I was only too sorry I could not,

"Doleful!" with a shrug. "Sickness is a horrid bore. I am out now The ripple of her golden hair, the hunting up a substitute for my dressmaker, who sends me word she has some one else. Shocking, ain't it?" you."

Do come to see us soon." And after a few more parting words Maud carried her golden curls from

It was a debt, then. She owed the money she had heartlessly refused to send to the sick girl. All the glamour of the word, who hore the traces of faded at once and forever from Charsorrow upon her sad face, and looked ley Stevenson's heart. It was impos- ley." sible for a man whose every action was controlled by honor and Christianity to give even admiration to a wo-man for whom he felt no respect, and Charley Stevenson was conscious of a feeling of bitter contempt for Maud as the phreton bore her out of sight.

his way toward evening to Daisy Graham's sick room, and when her eyes met his, full of gratitude, and a whisper thanked him, he wondered how he had ever seen any beauty in the fair face of Maud Middleton.

But that young lady did not proexcuse to visit her elderly friend; and bring me a drink of whiskey." often Charley was there, ever courteous and pleasant, but never again with troubled him, too, that his aunt had tem. so evidently set her heart upon a match between himself and Maud, for he dearly loved her, and was loth to a drink-a drink of whiskey." cross any of her wishes. So not wish-"Did she read the note?" ing to make any violent rupture, cun-"Yes, ma'am. I seed her read it uing Charley, one evening in the early brimming full. spring, said :

"Auntie, do you remember once wishing you could replace your old companion, Miss Bruce?"

will share our home.

"Very true. In the meantime, Auntie, I have a patient who has been "No—there, never mind."

It was a whole tragedy to Charley Stevenson's kind heart. Was the strong enough yet to follow her trade to take a bath!"

very ill with lung fever, and whose sent him a drink of whiskey at first. I didn't know that the old fool wanted to take a bath!"

charity, and might prove a comfort here also.

"Who is she, Charley?"
"Miss Daisy Graham."
"Graham! What Graham?"
"Her father's name was Josiah, and I believe they were wealthy at one

"Josiah Graham's child dressmaking!" cried Aunt Stevenson. "Charley! And Maria - his wife, I meanis she dead ?"

"No, but they are very poor. Do you know her?"

"Know her! She was my dearest friend for years, until she married and went out West. Where are they? will call to-day-now."

"You are the dearest Auntie in the "H'm! Yes. It seems to me you are wonderfully interested, Dr. Charles.

"Lovely, and so gentle and good." Then Charley told of his New Year's call, of the subsequent visits, of his pleading for and obtaining per-mission to make social visits after professional ones were no longer needed, and how each one deepened his interest in the fair, sweet girl.

"She is very delicate," he said, in conclusion, "and needs good food and freedom from wearing anxiety."

"She shall have them. And, Charley, if she is the refined, sweet woman

Only a kiss to thank her, and Charley was off to order the carriage for Two weeks later, Miss Maud Middicton being about to prepare a ward-His first call the next day was at robe for her summer campaign, the house of this patient, and by the bethought her of the fifty dollars she owed Daisy Graham, resolved to pay

> "Gone with her mother to visit some friends," her landlady told Miss > order. But Miss Graham was not at in no amiable frame of mind. "She had such exquisite taste, and morning travels a natty little phæton fitted me to perfection, and worked for a mere nothing," thought that ill-used young lady as she drove in the direction of Miss Stevenson's. "I'll ask that old maid who makes her dresses, though I suppose they cost a small fortune."

Miss Stevenson was at home, the servant informed Mand, and that even according to his word, but the young lady, being a privileged visitor bends fetched him only twelve. went at once to the sitting room. At to a wealthy maiden aunt, and Maud was the reply. "One of my friends went at once to the sitting room. At Middleton had been well taught as to sprained his ankle, and kindly turned the door the paused, seeing a lady sit- "A poor man, who had a large family. chair at Miss Stevenson's feet, Daisy Graham.

"Oh! Miss Graham," she said, "I

"Miss Graham," said Miss Stevenson, dryly, "has given up dressmaking for the present; but the trifle will be quite convenient toward providing her trousseau. You will be the first to ding in the fall, when Daisy will become the wife of my nephew Char-Very sweetly Miss Middleton made her congratulatory speech, and paid her bill, but in her phreton the young lady shed spiteful tears in the shadow of her veil, muttering "So that was the reason why Char-It was with a new interest he found New Year's reception, and has been offish ever since !" And, reader, that was exactly the reason.

A JUDICIAL DRINK.

An Alabama paper says that the pose to lose her admirer so easily. Old other day, while siting in the Circuit Miss Stevenson, the doctor's aunt, had | Court, Judge Humphreys grew weary taken the blonde upon her list of of the endless tongues of attorneys, special favorites, and it was astonish and calling to a bailiff, said huskily, ing how often the gay beauty found an "go over to the Hole-in-the-Wall and

The bailiff disappeared and reappeared shortly with an inch and a that air and voice that had once told half of corn juice in a glass, enough such distance its unearthly shrick Maud her charms were winning their for any Christian man, but not a suffiway to the young doctor's heart. It ciency for an Alabama judiciary sys-

> "Go back," thundered the judge, "go back and tell Hagerty to send me The bailiff disappeared again, and reappeared again with a tumbler "Ah," said the wearer of ermine, that now is a drink. But what, wiping his lips with the cuff of his coat, what did he say?" "Yes, but I never can. And when you are married, Charley, your wife Honor," answered the bailiff blushing. "Oh, yes, he must have made some remark; now what did he say?" "Well, sir, your Honor, he said, 'I Rates of Advertising.

One Square (1 inch.) one inertion - $1 50 one months -Two Squares, one year - - - Quarter Col. - 100,00

Legal notices at established rates Marriage and death notices, gratis.
All bills for yearly advertisements collected quarterly. Temporary advertisements must be paid for in advance.
Joh work, Cash on Delivery.

WHISKEY AND STRYCHNIA.

The inquiry is often made by physicians and others if whiskey or other alcoholic liquors are adulterated with, or contain the terrible poison, strychnia. We reply, No. In hundreds of chemical examinations of whiskey made by us, we have never found a trace of the peisonous alkaloid, and we do not believe it is ever used by distillers or whiskey manipulators in in their compoundings and mixings. A few grains would render a barrel of spirits so intensely bitter that it could not be sold as a beverage; therefore there is no object, no interest to subserve in adding it to spirits. It is possible that it has been used to intensify the bitter in some kinds of malt. liquors, but we have never found it in this class of beverages, and further, we have never learned from reliable chemists that it has been found. Tho required bitter can be obtained cheanly from less dangerous sources.

The adulterations in liquors do not generally partake of the nature of the quick poisons; they are of a different kind. The spirits themselves, as they come from the hands of the distillers. are sufficiently poisonous; and if sophistications are made, they are of the nature of attenuations, and occur from cupidity or desire of gain. Fusci-oil and the other grain oils are natural products, and are found in all whiskeys. They are undoubtedly burtful in their influence, and whiskey-drinkers shorten their days in habitually swallowing these products, even in minute quantities .. - Boston Journal of Chemistry.

Among the other anecdotes related of the late Sultan is the following: Abraham Beg used to be his scandalmonger. One day, just before an audience, Abraham was asked by one of the Ministers to tell the Sultan that Turkish bonds were at thirty, alleging as his reason that the Sultan had been so informed by his Grand Vigier. Abraham promised acquiescence. Having heard his gossip, the Sultan asked the Jewish banker what figure bonds stood at. "Thirty," answered the complaisant rogue, boldly. "Do they?" he replied; "then sell these for me," and he handed him a big bundle of bonds to sell at once. Abraham was bound to take them, and to pay, ting near the window, and in a low gave them a very comfortable support while he was in health. He broke his leg, and was laid up for some weeks. As he would be for some time destitute have just been to your house to see if of the means of grace, it was proposed you could make me some summer to hold a prayer meeting at his house. dresses, and to pay the trifle I owe The meeting was led by Deacon Brown. A loud knock at the door interrupted the service. A tall, lank, blue-frocked youngster stood at the door, with an ox goad in his hand. 'Father could not attend this meeting,' trousseau. You will be the first to he said, but he sent his prayers, and hear of the engagement, Mande, but they are out in the cart. They were you may say that we will have a wedbrought in, in the shape of potatoes, beef, pork and corn. The meeting broke up without the benediction."

> The fact was recently mentioned that an Illinois girl had sheared thirteen sheep in two hours. The sequel of the story is related by the Chicago Journal, as follows: "What do you think of the girl? inquired our representative of the farmer who owns the sheep that were operated upon. 'Think!' echoed the old fellow, as he pointed to a pen of fine wool sheep. Jest you look at them sheep, will ye, stranger—not an ear or a tail left to the whole crowd, an' then ask me what I think of that 'ere gal, if yo can!' The reporter viewed with wonder the mutilated flock of mutton and agreed with the old farmer that sheeppens were not exactly the place for the exercise of woman's rights."

> A fog horn which, it is said, can be heard thirty to sixty miles away, has been added to the attractions (?) of the Centennial grounds. At some might be so modified as to be agreeable, but close at had its effect upon nervous visitors is startling in the extreme. The inventors would better prove its value by planting the horn thirty or forty miles distant. It is made useful, as far as it can be, how-ever, by shricking at the opening of the gates in the morning, and at the hour for closing in the evening,

> In the Pyrences the following notice is posted in a hotel: "All travelers on their arrival will be entitled, gratis, to a bath with friction and special lotions. These lotions will guarantee the traveler perfect immunity from the numerous insects which infest the hotel."

About one hundred years ago the people of this country were engaged