The extraordinary desperation of the Democracy, means something unusual. Their anxiety for success is greater than has been witnessed before. Their struggles for Congressmen are as earnest and positive as are their efforts to carry their Presidential candidate. What does all this mean? We cannot avoid the conclusion that it is the last desperate effort of the Democracy to regain power, and that they realize it to be a final struggle. Since the war, they have adopted Republican ideas and doctrines, and even Republican canaidates, in the hope of commending themselves to the good graces of the people. Failing in this, they have attempted to spring ahead, and by the cry of reform to claim pre-eminence before the people. Failing in this, they have played their last card. Already the signs of the times look to their defeat. The people do not trust their Reform cry and the revelations of their spirit and purpose, made in Congress and at the South, as well as North, is not encouraging to the people. The introduc-tion of bills, providing for the payment of over $2,500,000,000 to rebels does not look like economy. The sending of the worst roughs, from the great Northern cities, to act as repeaters in Indiana, and the use of the names of soldiers and sailors, to cover a scheme of rascality and fraud, does not indicate a high moral sense. Add to these the use of terrorism and murder in Southern States, and we know exactly what kind of reform we are to have. "Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?" "By their works ye shall know them?" As their works are evil, their spirit is evil. We hold the Congressional election to be equally important with the Presidential. There are those, among our Republican friends, who imagine that it is a good thing to have the two Houres of Congress divided between the two parties. The result of that policy was witnessed last Winter. The leading Democratic papers, as soon as it was ascertained that they had a majority in the House, deliberately urged that in place of giving attention to useful legislation, they should investigate Republicans, As a result, the entire session was given to partisan investigations, and not a single measure of public utility was passed. Even the reduction of the current expenses Maj. Wetter entered the service as of the Government was controlled by cious pruning of expenses would have ting of rebel archives, they appropriated large amounts to improve creeks and canals in Democratic territory, the motive was clearly apparent.

So, too, there has been a vengeful spirit in all their investigations. HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE, PHILADELPHIA, October 14, 1876. TO THE PEOPLE OF PENNSYLVANIA:

ADDRESS

Eleven years after the overthrow of the rebellion we find the men who forced it upon the country again preparing to seize the Government. It is the old Confederate army united upon the old Confederate heresy. They have never abandoned their cherished idea-they still think with Mr. Tilden that ours is a confederacy, and not a nation. They have made him their candidate because he never abandoned his declared conviction that "the Constitution of the United States is only organized revolution," and that 'any State has the right to snap the tie at its pleasure."

This was the heresy that fired the rebel gun from Charleston against Sumter in 1861; and this is the heresy they are remarshalled in 1876 to re-establish. To this end they have crushed out Republican opinion in every Southern State. To this end they have made the white Republican an outcast and the black Republican a vassal. To this end, coercion of Republicans is their stern discipline. By force, their Confederate heresy is again the cement Mayville to make a Solid South.

The Confederate army is far more united to day in the new effort to seize the Government than it was fifteen years ago in the mad effort to destroy it. To day treason is aided by their sympathizers in the North. They have concentrated the struggle upon a single issue-the revolution of the Government. They sink every other question out of sight, and therein they teach us our duty.

Shall they recover by the ballot, conferred upon them by Republican magaanimi.y, what they lost on the battle-field in conflict with the people they betrayed?

We have met and vanquished their assaulting columns five times since the first Tuesday of September, 1876-in Vermont, Maine, Colorado, Ohio, and Indiana-gaining ten members of Congress, electing five Legislatures, including that of Indiana, which even the rebel raiders from Kentucky were not able to capture.

Democaatic victories in the South are only evidences of Democratic terrorism over Republicans. Sixty-five thousand Democratic majority in Georgia means 65,000 rebel shotguns at the polls.

Three weeks only are left to us to meet the new crisis forced upon us by these men. What will Pennsylvania do ! Our enemies, confident of successful coercion all over the South, have resolved to make another attack upon this great State. They leave the and their rebel yell already is heard within our limits.

Let us be prepared for them. Our great Commonwealth has always been the stronghold of nationality. During the war she gave her treasures of men and money to the cause of her coun try. Standing between the two secsectionalism. She stood by Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, and Meade during all the struggles of the war. The people believed that when Vicksburg and Gettysburg fell on the 4th of July, 1863, the great work of restoration was accomplished and the rebellion was dead, but they are now brought face to face with a revolution as dan-gerous as the rebellion itself.

When fifteen States can be more unified by the shotgun and the bludgeon than they were by armed secession stself, and when this combination is enforced by the suppression of free speech, a free ballot, and free schools, experiment. These men tried to fight their way out of the Union at an inculculable sacrifice of human life, and sponsibility and the merits of our instrunow they are trying within the Union, ments. by new forms of violence and fraud, 6-6m to re-establish the dogmas supposed to be destroyed on the battle-field. All they ask is a sufficient contingent from the free States to complete their

It is in this Centennial year, when Pennsylvania is inviting all the nations to her hospitalities, and proffering encouragement and kindness to her Southern sisters, that the Confederates advance upon her borders to make another effort for the heresy, which originated and prolonged the Pennsylvania demands "peace and unity," but she demands them as the result of cheerful obedience to just law and not as the sullen submission compelled by the officers of the law.

Pennsylvania demands industrial and commercial prosperity; but she knows that these are the fruits of peaceful and orderly society, based upon honesty and right, and chanot grow out of the anarchy and chaos threatened in a Solid South. Pennsylvania will first have justice, then prosperity. Has the country no road to prosperity but that which disgraces the sears of the living soldiers and dishonors the graves of the dead?
