THE SILVER BILL A LAW.

The President's Veto, and the Bill Passed by both Houses over the Veto. By beth Houses over the vero. The following is the full text of the Presi-dent's message vetoing the silver bill: After a very careful consideration of House bill 1093, entitled "An act to authorize the coinage of the silver dollar and to restore its legal tender character," I feel compelled to re-tion it to the House of Representatives in turn it to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, with my objection to its passage. Holding the opinion which I ex-pressed in my annual message, that nother the interests of the government nor of the people of the United States would be promoted by disparaging silver as one of the two procious metals which furnish the coinage of the world, and that legislation which looks to maintaining the volume of intrinsic money to as full a measure of both metals as their relative commer-cial value will permit would be neither unjust nor inexpedient, it has been my earnest desire to concur with Congress in the adoption of such measures to increase the silver coinage of the country as would not impair the obligation of contracts, either public or private, or inju-riously affect the public credit. It is only on the conviction that this bill does not meet these ssential requirements that I feel it my duty essential requirements that I feel it my duty to withhold from it my approval. My present official duty as to that bill permits only an at-tention to the specific objects of its passage which seem to me so important as to justify me in asking from the wisdom and duty of Congress that further consideration of the bill for which the constitution has in such way pro-

The bill provides for the coinage of silver doilars of the weight of 4121 grains each of standard silver, to be a legal tender at their nominal value for all debts and dues, public and private, except where otherwise expressly stipulated in the contract. It is well known that the market value of that number of grains of standard silver during the past year has been from ninety to ninety-two cents as com-pared with the standard gold dollar. Thus the silver dollar antiorized by this bill is worth from eight to ten per centum less than it pur-ports to be worth, and is made a legal tender for debts, contracted when the law did not recognize such coins as lawful money. The right to pay duties in silver or in certificates of right to pay duties in silver or in certificates of silver deposit, will, when they are issued in sufficient amount to circulate, put an end to the receipts to revenue in gold, and thus compel the payment of silver for both the principal and interest of the public debt. $1.143,439,400 of the bonded debt now outstanding was issued prior to February. 1878, when the silver dollar was unknown in the circulation of this country, and with only a convenient form of silver buland with only a convenient form of silver bullion for expertation. $583,440.350 of the bonded debt has been issued since February, 1873, when gold alone was the coin for which the bonds were sold, and gold alone was the coin in which both parties to the contract understood that the bonds would be paid. These bonds flowed into the markets of the

These bonds howed into the markets of the world. They were paid for in gold when silver had greatly depreciated, when no one would have bought them if it had been understood they would be paid in silver. The sum of $225,000,000 of those bonds has been sold during my administration for gold coin, and the United States received the bene-fit of those sales by a reduction of the rate of interest to four par centum aunouncement was thereupon authorized that it was not to be anticipated that any further legislation of Congress, or any action of any department of the government, would sanc-tion or tolerate the redemption of the princiBadly Frightened Celestials.

A boy, while on his way to the Richmond charcoal pile above the furnaces, yesterday, espied an old wagon wheel on the hillside. With true boyish impulse, he stood it on its rim and started it down the hill. With the usual perversity and ssedness of all inanimate things, it took a straight course for a Chinaman's shanty, and, gathering force and velociity by the momentum of its downhill revolution, it dashed with great force against the Celestial residence, and tore from its moorings, carrying wreck and destruction to the interior. A dozen terrified and scared Celestials tumbled out of the back window and sought safeon the flat below. The boy had taken to his heels and disappeared over the crest of the hill, and there was no visible cause in sight to account for the apparent earthquake. After a long consultation, the bravest barbarian cautiously crept back, peered around the corner of the shanty, and finally ventured to the doorway. His companions joined him, and the gesticulating, ontponring of choice speech, and the testing of the ca-pacity of their native language in the way of profanity, was wonderful. The boy forgot to return that way to explain the cause of the accident.-Eureka (Nev.) Sentinel.

Breathing Miness Without Injury. There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's and to another in faver and ague re-gions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasms, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the babit of using Hos fit of those sales by a reduction of the rate of interest to four per centum. During the progress of those sales a doubt was suggested as to the coin in which payment of those bonds would be made. The public suffering the tortures of this shivering bors and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute im-munity from it, thanks to the protection af-forded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti-febrile cordial less efficacions in remedying than in preventing chill and fever, billon remittents, and disorders of a kindred type Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily miti-gates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, sppcal with peculiar force to travelers and sojourners in malarious districts.

tion or tolerate the redemption of the princi-pal of those bonds or the payment of the m-terest thereon in coin exacted by the govern-ment in exchange for the same. It view of that fact it will be justly regarded as a grave breach of the public fai h to under-take to pay those bonds, principal or interest, in silvar coin worth in the machine loss the chi n silver coin worth in the market less than the in received for them.

It is said that the silver dollar made a legal

It is said that the silver dollar made a legal tender by this bill will, under its operation, be equivalent in full to the gold dollar. Many supporters of the bill believe this and that it is not just to pay debts ether public or pri-vate in coin of inferior value of the money of the world. The capital defect of the measure is that is contains no pr vision protecting from its operation pre-existing debts in case the coinage which it creates shall continue to be of lees value than that which was the sole le-gal-tender when they were contracted. If it is now proposed for the purpose of taking ad-vantage of the depreciation of silver in the payment of debts to coin and make a legal-tender a silver dollar of less commercial value than a dollar, whether of gold or paper, which than a dollar, which of these commercial value is now lawful money of this country. Such a measure, it will be hardly questioned, will, in the indgment of mankind, be an act of bad faith as to all debts heretofore contracted. The silver dollar should be made a legal tender only at its market value. The stand-ard of value should not be changed without the consent of both parties to the contract. National promises should be kept with un-dinching diality flinching fidelity.

There is no power to compel a nation to pay its present debts. Its credit depends on its horor, the nation owing what it has led its creditors to expect. I cannot approve a bill which, in my judgment, authorizes the viola-tion of sacred obligations. The obligation of public faith transcends all questions of profit or public advantage. Its mountained by or public advantage. Its unquestionable highest experience as of the most necessary duty, and should ever be carefully guarded by the Executive, by Congress 'and by the people,

It is my firm conviction that if the country is to be benefitted by a silver coinage, it can be done only by the issue of silver dollars of full value which will defraud no man; and curren-cy less than it purports to be will in the end defraud not only creditors, but all who are en-gaged in legitimate business, and none more assuredly than those who are dependent on their daily labor for their daily bread. (Signed) EUTHERFORD B. HAYES.
