year. This statement is very remarkable, and will give the greenback advocates an unpleasant surprise. A great deal of loose statement has been indulged in by the gentlemen who teach that the legal-tender quality of the paper dollar determines its value. They will now learn that many things are very uncertain in this mutable world, and none more uncertain than theories of finance. On the other hand, List of Jurors for Sept. Term, 1878. the advocates who saw in contraction the perfect panacea for all our ills will learn that the appreciation of the paper dollar has outrun the ratio of contraction. All will be compelled to admit that the laws that govern finance are not fully comprehended by any one person. The person who gives some part of his attention to finance for six months is very apt to think that we has fathomed the subject. To such a student all who disagree with him appear unconscionably stupid, and there is a tendency to set all dissenters aside as knaves and fools. There will probably have to be a revision of thearies and a resetting of squadrons in the field. The rosewater-colored theories of the greenbacker can no longer mislead and delude that portion of the public which retains some regard for figures and facts.

·To those who have attributed all the distress and stagnation which was suddenly precipitated upon the country in 1873 to a sudden withdrawal of a large sum from the circulating curren. cy, it will doubtless be a surprise to Jearn that there was in circulation at that time a greater volume of paper, by more than fifty millions, than there was in 1869 and 1870, which years were exceptionally prosperous years. It will perhaps still more surprise such persons to learn that on the 1st of July, 1874, the currency volume had increased upwards of thirty millions over that affoat in 1873. Such are the facts which appear in the statement alluded to. The advance in the purchasing power of the paper dollar was yet more important. For though in 365 the volume of the currency was one hundred and twenty-five handkerchief. For sale at Boyard's. lowest figures.

millions greater than it was on the first day of the present month, the purchasing power of that volume was but eight millions more than we have today. But in 1865 the government was paying its floating war debt, and vast sums were disbursed. The volume of the currency then reached nearly a thousand millions, worth in gold not quite seven hundred millions.

There was affoat in 1873 $750,000,-000 in bank notes and legal-tenders, whose real value was $648,000,000. This was all paper, and the volume was not reinforced by fractional silver. There is to-day affoat $688,000,000 in paper, and at least $40,000,000 in silver coin -- in the aggregate say $728,-000,000, worth to-day in gold $724,-000,000. We have this day, then, a volume of currency greater in positive tion, but as to value, as to purchasing ply to S. D. Irwin, Esq., Tionesta, Pa. power, there has been a remerkable expansion. Every man is aware that a dollar will purchase more of the many necessaries of life to-day than it did in 1865 by more than one-half. The owner of a dollar can purchase as much to-day as he purchased with two dollars during the years we now regard as exceptionally prosperous. A man can to-day take a ten dollar note sions to years just preceding the war as "good times." And in one sense they were good times as compared with 1857-58. But so are these times 'good' compared with those years. When complaint is made of the shrinkage in real estate, it is well enough to remember that we have not jet reached the shrinkage of that crisis. But if 1860 was a prosperous year, what will the inflationists say to the fact that the volume and value of our circulation at this time is not less than double that of 1860. We have not doubled in population. Our real wants have not at all increased. But we are this crisis and wonder that none of us seemed to grasp the real question. For it is very likely to turn out that the currency has had much less to do with our evil case than several other things, all in the nature of ewe lambs, cherished as the apple of our eyes, and in the eyes of most us without fleck or spot. - North American.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy, for the speedy and permanent cure for consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthms, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and using, in German, French, or English. "I Must Lie Down and Die."

The following is an extract from a letter dated July 21, 1877, to the discoverer of Bethesda Water. 'The writer is the Rev. T. B. Fuller, D. D., D. C. L., Rector of St. Gregory's Church, Toronto, Archdeacon of of Niagara, etc., etc. The writer, at the age of 60 years was a victim of Saccharine Diabetes. His physician said (to use Dr. Fullea's words) "he could do no more for me than he had done; that my disease was and purchase a suit of clothes for incurable, and that I must lie down and which he must have paid twenty dol- die." [We should state here, en parenthesis, that our townsman, Joseph Fleming, Esq., is the sole and only authorized agent It is common enough to hear allu- for this wonderful water for this State, as well as for Ohio and West Virginia,] To return to Dr. Fuller: "In four days," he writes, "after taking the Water, I obtained relief, and since that time I have taken no medicine, consulted no medical man, and presume, if I could give myself reasonable rest, I would be quite well."

Such testimony, from such a source, should indeed have convincing weight.
