

We were among those who gave credence to the forebodings of evil produced by would-be financial prophets if the resumption of specie payments was forced on the people, and therefore leaned a little off the track during the last campaign, but the first of January has passed, specie payment is a fixed fact, and the world still moves, while no shock or calamity has fallen on the world, unless the Plague in Russia or the Small-pox in Brazil are the results of that event.

Specie payment is a fixed fact, the country is not ruined thereby, the world moves, and there is another proof furnished that it is not best to follow the lead of demagogues who endeavor to ride into position on the hobby of popular prejudice or the distress of the people.

FIGHT WITH A DEER.

Recently Mr. A. V. Canfield, Jr., secretary of the Maryland rifle club, received a very interesting letter from Mr. A. C. Kepler, of Kepler & Slaymaker, of Lancaster, Pa., giving the details of a deer hunt in Forest county, Pa.

He says: "I am happy to say that I have had very good luck so far hunting deer, with my new Remington rifle. Got into the woods last Friday, but did not succeed in getting a shot till Tuesday morning, when it was raining a little and a good wind, and in the height of my glory on a 'still hunt,' with constant expectation and emotions such as the hunter 'with his foot upon his native heath' only can realize, I was walking along on my gum shoes light as a feather when I saw a large four pronged buck walking towards me about one hundred yards distant. I immediately covered him with my gun, and I could have shot him any time, but thought I'd let him come, as I had the wind of him."

At about sixty yards he halted, elevated his nose a little, and that instant I shot him dead. Talk about the killing power of a gun, I have quite a good many deer, but never one quite so dead as I did that one; expected him to 'scratch' or 'dig out' with 'his tail down,' as of yore, when I made a good shot, but not a bit of it; he fell so flat that I thought I'd missed him; he never moved a foot, and is it any wonder, when 450 grains of lead with 70 grains of powder to back it up, goes for them? The ball entered, the point of his right foreshoulder and lodged under the skin of his left hind quarter, thus shooting a 200 pound buck through at the greatest depth and the ball passing through the most difficult parts, as it crushed both shoulder and quarter. Now for No. 2. Yesterday, 15th inst., as my companion and I were surrounding a large swamp, he on one side and I on the other, I saw a large six-pronged buck coming towards me on a full run about three hundred yards distant. I got ready for him, and when he was about seventy or eighty yards distant I gave him the usual 'ma' to stop, but it only made him come the faster. I blazed away at him on the down jump, when he made a complete somersault and commenced crawling away from me, trailing his hind quarters after him as if his back were broken. I soon got up to him, and, thinking it useless to shoot him again, as I saw the blood streaming from his back and down behind, was about to cut his throat, when all at once (his back wasn't broke a bit), in an instant he was on all fours, and in another he was in the air above my head, but somehow or other he landed alongside of me. Quick as thought I jumped behind a little hemlock and fired again at his head, but missed him. He then tried to get at me again, but my breech-loader was too quick for him, as I got a ball into his neck just as he was about to make the spring, that straightened his hair completely. Upon investigation I found that the first ball had struck his right horn near the head, chipping off about two-thirds of it and then striking him a glance shot on the back, cutting out some flesh, but not penetrating through. Hence the trouble and fight, of which I will give you more particulars when I see you. This buck will weigh over two hundred pounds, and I am satisfied that had I not had a very superior gun I never would have gotten him. The boys all like it. I have had good luck, but it is getting very noisy in the woods and almost impossible to sneak up to a deer."—Baltimore Evening Bulletin.

The March number of Ballou's Monthly Magazine is now out, and contains among other illustrations, two remarkable pictures of Cape Horn and its surroundings by the author of "A Whaleman's Adventure." It gives the result of a race between two copper-laden ships from Valparaiso to Boston, and is a very entertaining paper for all to read. Then there are the usual domestic stories, thrilling adventures, and just such matter as the people should and do read. Remember, this valuable magazine is only $1.50 per annum, postpaid, and is for sale at all the periodical depots in the country for 15 cents a copy. Published by Thomas and Talbot, 23 Hawley Street, Boston.

Peterson's Magazine, for March is an unusually brilliant number. It opens with a spirited illustration, engraved on steel, "Let Me Catch You, You Young Rogues." This is followed by a double-size colored fashion plate, which is altogether the most beautiful we have ever seen. Then comes a double-size pattern for a tidy, on Java Canvas, printed in the appropriate colors. Then a charming engraving, illustrating a powerfully written story, "My Evening Star." Then about fifty other engravings, illustrating the latest fashions, patterns for the Work-Table, &c., &c. The terms are but $2.00 a year, with great deductions to clubs, and handsome premiums to persons getting up clubs. Specimens are sent, gratis, to persons wishing to get up clubs, so that ladies may judge for themselves before subscribing. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Phila., Pa.

Cyclopedia of Literature.

The new eight volume Aeme Edition of Chamber's Cyclopedia of English Literature is meeting with the largest sale which has probably ever been given to a work having only high literary merit and nothing of the sensational. A second edition of 5,000 copies of volume 1 is announced as nearly all sold within one month after issue of the first edition.

Volume 2, just ready, gives the history and epitome of our literature, from the "golden age" of Queen Elizabeth to 1700, giving in its 416 beautiful pages biographies of and choice selections from the writings of all noted authors of that period, among which are Lord Bacon, Sir Walter Raleigh, Burton, Bishop Hall; John Knox, Milton, Dryden, Jeremy Taylor, and others. The work is of such well-known excellence that every person of literary taste possesses or desires to possess some edition of it. This edition is complete in eight handy volumes, excellent in typography, paper and binding, revised to date, and sold at prices so low, that a common question which the publishers have to answer is, "whether the price is for each volume or for the entire work?" It is sold only to subscribers direct, the large discount usually given to dealers and agents, being allowed to the subscriber instead. The publishers make special inducements to early purchasers, the eight volumes complete being sent prepaid, to those who subscribe before March 15th in paper, for $2.50, in cloth, $3.50, or in half morocco, gilt top, $5. Specimen pages are sent free on request, or a specimen volume for examination, with privilege of purchase of the remainder, for nominal prices: in paper, 20 cents; cloth, 35 cents; half morocco, gilt top, 50 cents. American Book Exchange, Publishers, 55 Beekman Street, New York.
