

Harrisburg Letter.

HARRISBURG, March 1, 1879. ED. REPUBLICAN:—

The past week has been crowded with work and play. The evenings afforded a well selected line of amusements, amateur and professional, while on Capitol hill our Solons daily toiled in the interests of this great Commonwealth.

In the House, the bill abolishing jury commissioners passed second reading Feb. 27th. It abolishes the office and provides for the performance of the duties by the Sheriff and County Commissioners.

The Columbia Dam question is finally settled. Friday the Agricultural committee reported it with a negative recommendation. As it will take 101 votes to put it on the calendar, we will probably hear no more of it this session.

The ostensible object was to allow the shad, on their habitual annual trip from the ocean in search of fresh water streams in which to spawn, to come up the Susquehanna and supply the inhabitants along the route with fine fresh fish; The real object was to create an extensive job of removing a dam about 11 miles in length across the Susquehanna at Columbia.

Mr. Wheeler of your county read in place and presented to the chair a bill to prevent firing wild land which aside from the lateness in the session has fair prospects of passage. I believe that was all of general interest to your readers, in the Legislature.

March, in this latitude has come in like the peaceful lamb, wherefore we may look out for the roaring lion in a few weeks.

VERITAS.

Our Washington Letter.

Special to the REPUBLICAN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 27, '79.

Neither House of Congress can escape its just share of responsibility for the backward condition of much of the business before them.

It is the general verdict that the question involving the repeal of the law so that every Democratic rough can vote as early and often as he pleases was badly managed by House Republicans.

Every difference upon which hinges an extra session is or soon will be before conference committees and they will likely be decided before this is in print.

"Serves him just right" is the almost uniform tone of comment on the pummeling given Donn Piatt by "Billy" Mc Garrahan.

W. R. DUNS.

likely have been thrust into the black-hole, there to remain a prisoner until he had humbled and purged himself of his contempt by an abject apology at the bar of the Senate; and we should have been regaled by any number of stereotyped speeches at the dining and presumptuous disregard of the rights, dignity and prerogatives of the upper House.

Every year the same boasts have been heard that they were not going to wait 30 days but that the bills were going to be reported within 2 weeks at the very farthest, and just as regularly they have been delayed up to a point so near the end of the session that the Senate Committee has had only a few days in which to consider bills whose aggregate ran away up in the hundred millions.

With few exceptions the same inefficiency, indolence and neglect have marked the management of all business in the House. Making every possible allowance for their inexperience and taking into the account every demerit of Republican management when in control, no unbiased observer will deny the superiority of Republican statesmanship as compared with their opponents in the transaction of public business.

And I do not hesitate to say that the Republicans never even during the war when men's passions and prejudices were at white heat, were guilty of the flagrant partisan outrages that have characterized an almost unvarying line of decisions in favor of Democratic contestants regardless of facts and in notorious defiance of every principle of law and equity.

The evidence left room for not so much as the shadow of a doubt of Bisbee's election and of the repudiation of Finley by a comparatively large majority. Yet Finley was awarded the seat, because that was necessary to give a show of consistency to the Democratic claim that Tilden carried the State (Florida). Unless the mass of voters have become wholly indifferent to the vindication of popular government, the exhibition of Bourbonism in this case will be properly rebuked at the next general election, though it was sought to impart an appearance of impartiality by awarding Metcalf (of Missouri) a seat he has always occupied and whose right to it has never been seriously questioned.

Nothing better was expected of self-acknowledged renegades than that they should vote to retain the notorious Hamburg Massacre Butler in the Senatorial seat he has usurped, despite the Committee's report showing he had no more right to it than George Francis Train had to the Presidency. It was shown after an exhaustive investigation that Corbin was legally elected and that Butler's pretended election by a mob was a fitting finale to the campaign of outrage, bloodshed and outright murder that he personally directed.

In the face of all this a man elected to represent the sturdy Republicanism of one of our great central States, threw his influence and vote with the Democrats, practically endorsing the horrible atrocities of the red-shirted ku klux.

It is the general verdict that the question involving the repeal of the law so that every Democratic rough can vote as early and often as he pleases was badly managed by House Republicans.

Every difference upon which hinges an extra session is or soon will be before conference committees and they will likely be decided before this is in print.

Two hundred dollars reward will be paid to any one who will inform the subscriber of the whereabouts of her child, or for its return. No questions asked. The following is the description: The child is between three and four years of age, light complexion, blue eyes, light hair, two upper front teeth decayed. There was a slight disfigurement of the neck on either side. He had on brown cotton pants, little striped shirt, leather shoes with copper tips, and a very dark green jacket. Other papers will confer a favor by copying.

A burning shame that thousands of men and women should suffer with a pain in the back caused by a strain, inflamed kidneys and torpid liver, when there is an unerring remedy. E. K. Thompson's Barosma, Buchu, Backache, Liver and Kidney Cure is warranted to give relief and cure the gravel, inflammation of the kidneys, liver complaint and diseases arising from torpid or disordered liver, as thousands testify during the past eight years.

A new postage stamp will soon be issued by the Post Office Department at Washington, to be used on letters not prepaid. Under the present regime, a letter mailed without being properly stamped is held at the mailing office. The postmaster at the office at which such a letter is mailed then writes to the party addressed, stating that such a letter has been held for postage, thus causing a great annoyance and unnecessary delay in a small matter. The new stamp is placed on a letter not paid and forwarded to the postmaster at destination, who is authorized to collect on delivery. This will be a great improvement to the old system.

How to Write a Greenback Editorial.

The editor of the Troy (Kan.) Chief, a Republican paper, thinks he could run a Greenback journal. Hear him:

The easiest thing in the world is to write an average Greenback editorial. It doesn't require any sense or argument. All that is needed is assertion and rant. Sling these together, with plenty of exclamation and interrogation points and a liberal use of capital letters, in a style of paragraphs and sentences originated by George Lippard, in literature, and introduced by Brick Pomeroy into political writing, and you have the whole thing. We can write Greenback. Just see.

VOX POPULI! VOX DEI! Ah! Laborers! Freemen! American citizens!

Last night it was dark, but thank God! the sun will shine to-morrow, and it will soon be new moon!

Tax-ridden tramp, rejoice, for the next step your foot will be on the neck of the oppressor!

Are you slaves? Do you want to be taxed to buy your own coffins when you are dead? Are you niggers, and your children mulattoes?

Aye, Nigger! That's it. Who but Niggers must work thirty hours a day, go to bed without their suppers, and have to sleep taxed to enable the bondholders to live in idleness.

Farmers, where have your immense crops gone to that you labored and sweat night and day to produce? Ugh! Rats!

How long will you submit to having your precious babies die of smallpox while the pampered children of wealth, clothed in silks and furs, enjoy the measles? Arouse!

Look at your cribs filled with corn; your fat cattle and hogs, and think that you are under the thumb of the bondholders, who must have these things to live on, and who will force you to take money at par with gold in exchange for them!

The remedy is in your own hands. Demand fiat money for your produce, refuse gold and silver, even though the bondholder's wife and children starve in their gilded palaces.

The voice of the people is the voice of God!

If God made gold and silver valuable, the people can make paper more valuable; there are more of them than there is of God!

Then arouse, and the year of jubilee, so long foretold by prophets, will dawn upon you!
